Answer is Being Prepared to President Barrett's Statement.

Word was received in Fort Wayne Saturday, that William D. Mahon, of Detroit, Mich., international president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, would probably be here the forepart of next week. He is expected to stop off here on his way home from Cincinnati.

J. J. Brennan, superintendent of transportation of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, declared Saturday that several old employes of the company have signified their intention of returning to work Sunday morning. Members of the union, however, declare that if old men are returning they are not from their ranks as every man is sticking fast and has no intention of going back until the differences now pending are satisfactorily adjusted. George York and Joseph Gross, two old employes, who, however, were never identified with the union, returned to work Saturday morning.

Announcement was made Saturday afternoon by General Manager Sam W. Greenland that the cars Saturday night would be operated until 11 o'clock and in a few days the old night schedule would be resumed.

Barrett to Be Answered.

An answer to the letter recently published by President James M. Barrett, of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, directed to the citizens of Fort Wayne, setting forth the company's position in the present controversy with their former employes, is being prepared by members of the carmen's union and will soon be ready for publication.

The answer will take up each specific case cited by Mr. Barrett, giving the carmen's side. Other cases of alleged grievances will also be set forth.

Labor Federation to Meet.

An important meeting of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will be held Monday evening at which time the financing of the street carmen's strike will be taken up. The federation is urging every labor organization in the city to have a representative present.

TEARING ALONG AT 103 MILES AN HOUR

Some Big Drivers Forced Out of Astor Cup Race Early.

New York, Oct. 9.—Twenty of the speediest automobiles in the world started today in a 350 mile race for the Astor cup and $50,000 in prizes at the new Sheepshead Bay speedway. A great throng filled the stands and cheered the racers as they sped aruond the two mile track which is located on the site of the Sheepshead Bay race track.

As Resta flashed across the starting line inches ahead of Atkin, Oldfield and Burman, the excitement in the stands rivalled the scenes at the finish of the many great horse races held in years past over this course. Oldfield and Mulford went out at the end of the 16th mile with engine trouble.

At the end of sixty miles Anderson was leading. His time was 34:23 minutes, an average of 104.40 miles an hour. Burman was second and Rooney third.

At 100 miles Resta was leading at an average of 104.47 miles an hour. Rooney was second and Anderson third. Resta was forced to drop out of the race by a broken connecting rod shortly after finishing the first 100 miles.

Anderson led at the 140th mile. His time was 1:27 and 19 seconds, an average of 103.30 miles an hour. Aitken was second and Burman third.

STREET CAR HITS AUTO HURTING WOMAN

An automobile driven by Mrs. Rose Sutton, 1117 Buchanan street, and occupied besides herself by Mrs. Mangus and daughter, 1324 Buchanan street, was struck shortly before noon Saturday by an East Creighton avenue car in charge of Conductor J. M. Jones and Motorman D. W. Thomas. The front of the auto was damaged and Mrs. Mangus, who is an invalid, and was coming down into the city to see her physician, was painfully hurt about the legs. Mrs. Sutton says the car was almost a square away when she started across the tracks, and was coming at a high speed. Owen Rhoades, who witnessed the collision, says the street car was going very fast. This is denied by the men in charge of the street car.

ARGUMENTS ON IN BELL CASE

Adams Declares Strong Arm Squad Only Needed Becker to Be Complete.

CALLS POLICEMEN BRUTES AND SLUGS

Conspiracy Case to Reach Jury About Noon on Tuesday.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9.—Claris Adams assistant prosecutor, was the first speaker when arguments in the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, charged with election conspiracy, were begun today. He was to be followed by Charles W. Miller for the defense. Each side will have three speakers and the arguments will continue about sixteen hours, which means that the case probably will go to the jury about noon Tuesday.

Adams asserted that the charges against Bell were not charges made by counsel for the prosecution, but by the grand jury after an investigation. He then explained at some length the law of conspiracy, a charge, which, he said, must necessarily be proven by circumstantial evidence.

HAVE BOMB SCARE ON FAIRFIELD AVENUE

Terrified residents of Fairfield avenue telephoned to police headquarters Friday night an affrighted report that a bomb explosion was about to take place in their midst and blow their happy homes into the next county. They said the infernal machine was already lighted and its fuse was sputtering a fiery threat of momentary destruction. The flying squadron was dispatched full in speed in its clipper rigged machine and reached the scene of the imminent deadly disaster and with due caution approached the sizzling bomb. It was found to be a small block of wood rudely fashioned into a candlestick with a tin socket, reflector and handle and contained the lighted butt of a candle, whose flame was consuming a small quantity of coal tar. The trophy of the nefarious but frustrated plot to destroy that part of town was taken to police headquarters, where it is now on exhibition. Nothing was found on the lads who had used it as a fire [illegible]

EXPECT BIG RUSH AT CHICAGO BARS

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Restaurant owners and Chicago's hotels prepared today for an unusual rush of busines tonight when the Sunday saloon closing order becomes effective. Drinks of all kinds may be purchased before 12 o'clock and consumed as long as the patrons of restaurants and hotel cafes desire to remain, according to an opinion by Corporation Counsel Folsom. As a result the restaurant keepers expect a night of revelry equalled only by the New Year's celebrations in Chicago.

The parade of anti-saloon workers to be held today under the auspices of the dry Chicago federation was expected to be made up of 35,000 marchers. The fact that the demonstration will be the largest ever held in Chicago was indicated when more than 15,000 hats to be worn by the marchers were sold. One thousand ministers, priests and rabbis are to lead the parade, which is to be made up of twelve divisions. Water wagons will be prominent among the score of floats.

AGAIN ATTEMPTED DELIVERY AT JAIL

It has become known that Ray Bower, alias John Bachman, who pleaded guilty in the circuit court Friday afternoon to entering a house to commit a felony, had been discovered in a second attempt to lead a delivery at the county jail. Earlier in the week it was found that Bower had been taking an impression of the big lock on the door of the prisoners' dining hall at the jail, while he and two or three others had been locked in the "grub room" to give that apartment a thorough cleaning. He was found out before he could make any use of his efforts. A few weeks ago a hack-saw was taken from Bower at the jail. The youngster, who is only 21, is a thorough-paced criminal. He was arrested while trying to burglarize the home of Charles E. Crail, 1215 West Berry street, one night a few weeks ago. Since his arrest it has been learned that he committed robbery in Butte, Mont., and had been convicted of picking pockets on trains in Minnesota. Judge Eggeman sentenced him to two to fourteen years in the reformatory.

STREET CAR HITS A WAGON; MAN INJURED

Lee Ainsworth, aged sixty-five years, and an old resident of this city, is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from injuries received in being thrown from the seat of his wagon when it was hit by an East Creighton car on Calhoun street, between Main and Columbia street, shortly after noon Saturday. His arm was broken and he received many severe cuts and bruises.

Ainsworth drove out of the alley and onto the car track, but according to his and statements of other witnesses, the car threw on more speed just at the alley. The wagon was shoved from the track and Ainsworth pitched headlong from his seat.

But for the presence of Motorcycleman Young, Traffic Officer Lauer and Patrolman Brandt, the crowd of several hundred people that gathered at the scene of the accident might have attacked the car crew. The crowd was sullen and threatening.

DEATH CAUSED BY BURNT GAS

J. R. McFarland Overcome at Home of Mrs. Ada O'Brien.

HAD JUST FINISHED TAKING HIS BATH

J. R. McFarland, 25 years old, a traveling salesman, was found dead shortly after 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning in the bathroom at the home of Mrs. Ada O'Brien, 1118 Fulton street, where he roomed. In the opinion of Coroner Edward H. Kruse the young man was overcome and died as a result of inhaling burnt gas.

McFarland arose about 6 o'clock and a half hour later had gone to the bathroom to take a bath. When he stayed so long Mrs. O'Brien became uneasy and investigated. Knocking on the door she received no response. Then she opened it and found McFarland lying on the floor at the side of the tub. Further investigation convinced her that he was dead and the odor of burnt gas which, however, she had not detected before entering the room, made plain to her the cause.

No Ventilation.

The bathroom is small and with the windows down and door closed there was no ventilation. McFarland was overcome before he could call for assistance or if he did call it was so feeble that he could not be heard.

There is nothing to indicate that the man committed suicide. He had finished his bath and had let the water out of the tub. The gas was still burning under the patent gas heater in the room, which is used for heating the water. No other cause can be assigned except that he was overcome by the fumes of burnt gas.

Lived in Marion.

McFarland's home was in Marion, Ind., but for the past year and a half he has been traveling out of Fort Wayne, representing the School Methods company, of Columbus, Ohio.

Attacks Recent Sale of Decatur Traction Line

Suit for $4,750, with interest from June 4, 1911, alleged to be due on four bonds and for the appointment of a receiver, was filed in the United States court Saturday by Fannie E. Armstrong, as guardian of Mary E. Armstrong, John B. Armstrong and Harriet L. Armstrong, against the Fort Wayne and Springfield Railway company, French Quinn, receiver, Mrs. Charles Dirkson and Mrs. Clara [illegible]

Charges of a sensational [illegible] are made in the complaint in which it is alleged that the sale of the property on August 28, 1915, to [illegible] was fraudulent, void and without authority, fraudulent and for the purpose of depriving the plaintiffs of their just rights and claims.

Mrs. Armstrong is the widow of the late Justus R. Armstrong, of St. Mary's, Ohio, who died in 1909, who was interested in the road. She is asking for $4,750 with interest as a prior and preferential claim against all of the property of the Fort Wayne and Springfield Railway company and for the federal court to assume jurisdiction of the property and appoint a receiver to prevent further alleged waste and depreciation. The Fort Wayne and Springfield Railway company operates between Fort Wayne and Decatur.

SERBIANS BLOCKING ADVANCE OF GERMANS

Teutons Lose Heavily in Crossing Save River and Are Pinned to the Brink of the Stream.

London, Oct. 9.—Although the last twenty-four hours brought no climax in the political situation in the Balkans, London begins to view it in clearer perspective. The departure of the quadruple entente diplomats has given finality to Bulgaria's commitment to the side of the central powers, but as yet there has been no formal declaration of war between Bulgaria and Serbia or the entente.

Excepting an unconfirmed report of a Russian bombardment of the Bulgarian coast, near Varna, no overt act of hostilities has been committed by Bulgaria or her new opponents. Nevertheless Bulgaria is reported to be preparing an attack on Serbia, carried out in conjunction with the Austro-German invasion. She is concentrating cavalry, supported by heavy artillery, under German command, in the direction of Koestendit, southwest of Sofia, near the Serbia border.

Invaders Suffer Loss.

According to official Serbian advices, the Austro-German attack has not won much of an initial success, the invaders having suffered large losses in crossing the Save and now being pinned to the brink of the river. Many Germans are among the prisoners and some of them are said to be members of a Prussian brigade, which formerly was operating against Italy.

There still remains a slight element of doubt as to the attitude of Greece, which probably will not be dispelled until the new cabinet makes definite pronouncement of policy. In the meantime the entente powers seem to be satisfied with assurances of continued neutrality and see no reason to believe Greece intends to array herself against them in the impending conflict.

Allied troops to the number of 32,000 are reported to have landed already at Saloniki and obstacles to their transportation to Serbia have been removed by the prompt action of the Greek minister of communications in the Venizelos cabinet. M. Diamantides, freeing the railways from Austro-German control.

German Transport Sunk.

Russia has made official announcement of the sinking of a German transport by a British submarine in the Baltic.

The Dvinsk front still claims greatest attention in the eastern fighting zone. The Germans are launching an attempt to take the city of the north, and their onslaught exceeds in violence the previous attacks from the west and south. A desperate action has been fought ten miles north of Dvinsk and the Russians admit loss of part of their trenches. From Dvinsk to the Lida-Motodrenna railroad, local successes are claimed by the Russians. On the rest of the eastern front the rapidity of attacks and counter attacks, the capture and recapture of trenches, leaves it in doubt which side is really on the defensive.

German artillery fire continues along the whole of the western front, with particular violence against Loose, to regain which the Germans are making a determined effort, and against the left wing of the attacking French forces in Champagne. Speculation as to the next surprise this kaledioscopic situation may bring forth, which is always active, was given fresh life today by a cryptic remark in the Daily Telegraph, which, in concluding an editorial on events in the Balkans, says:

"Meanwhile the world is waiting for news of events which as they come to pass, will only more profoundly change the aspect of the war situation."

Had to Be "For 'Em."

The attorney stated that the majority of the defendants were city employes, or relatives of city employes. He then started in to review the evidence and asserted that the city employes "had to be for" the slate candidates favored by Bell. "This administration slate was put over," he declared, "with one exception. Roy Sahm and the defendants did not dare deny Clyde Baker the nomination. He is the brother of the then Prosecutor Frank Baker and they didn't dare antagonize the prosecutor.

In one precinct, Adams asserted, dead men, famous baseball players, prize fighters and men with all names of all shades of the rainbow except violet were voted for the democratic candidates.

The court room was filled and for the first time spectators were permitted in the balcony. A number of women were in attendance.

Hamilton Is Grilled.

Adams scored Lucius O. Hamilton, president of a state-wide republican club, for the $500 which he gave to Mayor Bell just before the primary and asserted that the explanation given by Mr. Hamilton as to the use for which the money was intended constituted a violation of the corrupt practices act.

He characterized Policemen Pope, Hulse and Sanders as "brutes and slugs" and declared "no citizen is safe from such brutes and slugs."

"If Becker had only been there to lead this strong arm squad their efficiency would have been complete," asserted the assistant prosecutor.

The defense last night rested its case suddenly after but four witnesses had been questioned, when Judge Eichhorn ruled that testimony regarding the alleged "school of perjury," which the defense charged was conducted by the state, was incompetent.

In a statement Saturday one of the officials declared that the real fight by organized labor will start after Monday night's meeting. "The 'watchful waiting' policy of the carmen, which has been characteristic of the strike will be changed by the elimination of the waiting feature," he said.

At a meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen Friday evening $50 was voted to the strikers and more will be forthcoming if needed.

Car Attacked Twice.

One car was attacked twice Friday night on the East Lewis street line, the first time shortly after 6 o'clock at Division and Lewis streets and again later in the evening. The first attack is believed to have been made by boys. Stones were hurled through the windows on both occasions. No cars were operated after 10 o'clock.

Statement Is Issued.

"To the Public: We wish at this time to thank the public for their kind and generous support. In addition, we desire to thank our fellow-trades unionists who have not only given us their moral support, but have seen to it by their splendid contributions that we will not want at least for the necessaries of life.

"We feel it is proper to say at this time that no one deplores more than we do the present strained relations between ourselves and our employers, but we believe that all will agree with us that it was impossible for us as individuals to work under the conditions imposed upon us, to-wit: No right of organization; alleged individual contracts with expensive conditions attached, and if we differed with our employer, there was always the fear of discharge; an arbitration condition that was impossible as no individual could stand the expense if he had the courage to face possible discharge if he did anything contrary to the will of the employer.

"So today as a collective organization, we are asking your continued support, not to prolong present conditions, but to assist us for right and justice. We desire to assure you that we are, as we have been from the first, ready at all times to meet any committee that feels it can bring about a settlement of present conditions, and we will be glad to announce to the public immediately, through the daily papers, and over the name of our organization, that friendly relations have been resumed. Any statement to the contrary regarding a settlement is untrue and misleading.

"In conclusion, we desire to thank the press for its uniform fairness during the present controversy."

More Accidents.

A South Wayne car picked up a jitney bus at DeWald and Calhoun streets at 7:45 last night and although no one was hurt and there was no serious damage, it required some time to drag the automobile off the fender. The bus owner reported to the police.

M. D. O'Laughlin, 724 Kinnaird avenue, reported to the police Friday night that his jitney bus was struck by a city car about 8:30 o'clock at Creighton avenue and Calhoun street. He said his machine was pushed for half a block before the motorman brought the car to a stop.

Another jitney was struck by car No. 189 on the East Main street line at Main and Barr streets.

Two Are Injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Hartwig, 1123 Crescent avenue, were slightly injured when the jitney bus driven by Chester Barrett, in which they were passengers, was struck by city car No. 186 on the East Main street line at Main and Barr streets. The driver of the jitney declares that the motorman failed to ring his gong.

Members of the carmen's union were guests of Manager Harvey Porter at the Empress theater Friday evening. They marched to the theater in a body.

DR. LIEBKNECHT INJURED.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 9.—Dr. Carl Liebknecht, the famous German socialist, who has been fighting on the eastern front in the engineer corps, has been injured in the head by being struck by a falling tree, according to the Tagwacht.

Dr. Liegknecht, who frequently has come into conflict not only with German government officials, but with other members of his own party, because of his opposition to the war, was ordered on March 22, last, to place himself at the disposal of the military officials. Three days later he was mustered into the army and assigned to service in Alsace.

RED SOX TURN TABLES ON PHILADELPHIANS

one battle captured the Philadelphias pressed on the second line of trenches to make it two straight games in this base ball warfare, while Manager Carrigan, leading the Boston Red Sox, started a counter offensive to even up the series before the second phase of the campaign will be commenced in Boston next Monday.

Thousands Came Early.

Thousands came early to the ball yard and by noon the back field seats were filled and the crowd still coming and pressing for admission. The reserved stands filled slowly, though hundreds came long before game time to see President Wilson and his party on their arrival. The presidential box, near the Boston players' bench, off third base, glowed with red, white and blue bunting and small American flags.

The playing field was in fine shape for fast play, a brisk wind during the night having fanned most of the dampness from the ground while a warm sun this morning helped in the drying out process. The Philadelphias had a brief morning practice and found the inner and outer gardens to their liking.

Luderus Confident.

"We'll be in there today with some real hitting," said Luderus, the Philadelphia's first sacker, "and it doesn't make any difference to us who goes into the box for Boston."

Manager Carrigan had three pitchers ready to do his sharpshooting, Foster, Wood and Leonard. Foster looked like the choice as Boston's moundsman. Chalmers and Mayer were fit for the firing line for the home field with the left hander Eppa Rixey held in reserve.

Both teams took plenty of batting practice and the crowd cheered as some of the long drives dropped in the back field bleachers. The fielding practice was smart and there were many pretty stops and throws. Barry, for Boston, and Bancroft, for Philadelphia, featured in the infield workouts.

Players Welcome Wilson.

Meanwhile the players of both clubs grouped themselves back of the Photographers to welcome President Wilson.

President Wilson with Mrs. Norman Galt, and their party arrived at 2:05 o'clock and took their places in the presidential box. The crowd rose and cheered and President Wilson bowed to the ball players and then shook hands with Mayor Blankenberg. President Wilson and Mrs. Galt were given a continuous ovation.

President Baker, of the Philadelphia club, officially welcomed President Wilson, who was then given a new ball to throw out to the players.

The driver of the Ford made his get-away before his number could be secured.

The car was stolen from the south front of the court house on Berry street, where it had been parked, and Coburn took it to complete the honeymoon trip of himself and bride. He went to Chicago from here and his undoing came when the car was stolen from him there and his enlistment of the police of that city in its recovery uncovered him as a thief. NEWLY DRY, BUT GOING SOME.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Festive week and the jail empty—that is Blackford county's record this year. Charles Wilhems, who has been the only prisoner in the county jail for some time, was released Thursday evening after his brother, Louis Wilhems, came to his rescue with a cash bond of $1,000. Wilhems was arrested several weeks ago, charged with assault and battery with intent, upon a young girl.

DIES AT THE INFIRMARY.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Mr. Arthur Long, who went to the county farm last April, died there Friday afternoon. He lived with his mother, Mrs. John S. Long, until her death last January, and as he was not able to care for himself and his relatives did not feel that they could take care of him, he became an inmate of the county farm. Mr. Long was a cripple and did not possess all his mental faculties. He was 43 years old and was born in Troy township, this county.

CHANGE CORN-JUDGING DATE.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 9.—The immature state of the corn through this section of the state has influenced the Purdue extension department to change the date of the county contest from October 12 to the 18th. It was decided that to properly judge the plots they must be all in a similar state of maturity and that at the present time much of the corn is soft and must still be given time to ripen. This means that the judging will begin a week from next Monday instead of next Tuesday, as had been planned.

QUALIFIES FOR REFORM MATRON.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Mrs. H. F. Ireland, of this city, who recently took an examination for the position of matron of the new girls' reformatory at Marysville, has received notice that her grade in the examination was 76.24. In order to be eligible for the position, a person must make a grade of 75 per cent. Mrs. Ireland will be put on the eligible list and will be qualified to take the position.

INJURED ARE RECOVERING.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Accident victims who were hurt here Wednesday, are improving. Little Howard Smilack, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. El Smilack, who was injured when he fell from an automobile, is out of danger, although it was first thought that he had been fatally hurt. Mrs. Fulkerson and Mrs. Vance, who were hurt in a runaway, are now better.

LAD STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 9.—While Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer, of Dillman, Wells county, were attending the fall festival in Hartford City, they were called home by the sad news that their seven-year-old son, Cecil, had been run down by an automobile at Dillman. Word from Dillman later in the afternoon was to the effect that the child was still alive. The automobile is said to have been driven by Warren Cunningham, residing near Fort Wayne.

CHILDREN GET SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the only real stomach regulator known.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

VAN WERT CHURCH REDECORATED.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 9.—The redecorating of the Baptist church, corner of Taylor and Crawford streets, has been completed and the regular services will be held there Sunday morning. The church now presents a beautiful appearance.

TWO CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant of Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw, inflamed throat and loosens phlegm. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

STOLEN SILVERWARE FOUND.

Property of One Princeton Church Hidden in Basement of Another.

Princeton, Ind., Oct. 9.—Recently the silver chest of the United Presbyterian church was robbed of eight dozen silver spoons and six dozen knives and forks, valued at $200. Last night at the First Methodist church, three blocks away, when prayer meeting was being held, the janitor found hidden behind lumber in the basement, which was being remodeled, a large bucket with the missing silver in it. The silver was marked "U. P." One theory is the thief, finding the silverware marked, was afraid to return to the United Presbyterian church, and left it in the Methodist church basement. Another is that the thief was frightened from the Methodist church when there to rob that church and left the loot there in a hurry to escape.

WOMEN CAN SAVE $5 IN AN HOUR

Says gasoline dry cleans dresses, coats, silks, gloves, draperies.

You will never again pay enormous prices for dry cleaning after trying this. Any woman can clean and renew the appearance of yokes, ribbons, satins, laces, silks, furs, shirtwaists, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, neckties, children's clothes, suits, caps, woolen garments, fancy vests, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

You would have to pay $5 at a dry cleaning establishment for the cleaning which can be done at home as easily as laundering. Any grocery or garage will supply the gasoline and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is smply a gasolne soap, then a large dishpan or wash boiler completes your dry cleanng outit.—Advertisement.

WE USE ONE-FIFTH OF WORLD'S SUGAR

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—More than one-fifth of the 40 billion pounds of sugar that represent the world's production last year was consumed in the United States. The consumption of sugar in the United States, exclusive of its sugar-producing islands, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915, has been calculated by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, as 8,630 million pounds or 86 pounds per capita.

Of the sugar consumed in this country in 1914-15, 1,941 million pounds were produced on the mainland, 1,281 pounds in Hawaii, 589 million pounds in Porto Rico, 327 million pounds in the Philippines, and the remainder in foreign countries. Cuba, the leading source of our imported sugar, sent us 4,785 million pounds in the last fiscal year, that quantity being nearly four times as much as that from Hawaii and eight times as much as that from Porto Rico.

Beet sugar now leads can sugar by nearly one billion pounds in the yearly domestic product, having reversed the conditions which obtained twenty years ago. In 1895, for example, according to the statistical abstract of the United States, the domestic sugar product totaled approximately 775 million pounds, the share of beet sugar being only 93 million pounds. In 1915 our sugar product had increased to 1,941 pounds, the share of beet having grown to 1,448 million and that of cane having decreased to 493 million pounds. Meantime, beet sugar has practically disappeared from our imports. Eighteen years ago, when the Cuban supply of cane sugar was cut off by war, we imported nearly 2 billion pounds of beet sugar. After the return of peace in Cuba our imports amounted to less than one million pounds.

The cutting off of the sugar supply of European countries has resulted in a remarkable expansion of our sales of sugar to foreign countries. For the fiscal year 1915, they aggregated 582 million pounds, as against 22½ million pounds in 1900 and 40½ million pounds in 1880.

U. S. cane sugar product	601	493
U. S. beet sugar product	1,467	1,448
U. S. imports: Cuban	4,927	4,785
Hawaiian	1,115	1,281
Porto Rican	641	589
Philippine	117	327

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 12:40-51.

40 Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years.

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt.

42 It is a night to be much observed unto the Lord for bringing them out of the land of Egypt; this is that night of the Lord to be observed of all the children of Israel in their generations.

43 And the Lord said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the passover: There shall no stranger eat thereof:

44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof.

47 All the congregation of Israel shall keep it.

48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the Lord, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

49 One law shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Israel; as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

51 And it came to pass the selfsame day, that the Lord did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their armies.

Women and Legislative Candidates.

The Legislative Council of Indiana Women makes the announcement that it purposes giving particular attention to a scrutiny of the candidates for the legislature next year, and will see that its discoveries regarding the men and the sort of citizenship they stand for secure due publicity. The Indiana woman has not yet been given the ballot, but she has discovered a political avenue in which she can nevertheless accomplish much good, not especially in furthering the cause of suffrage, but in the general interest of better government.

The man who hopes to get into the legislature in the future by devious methods or as the representative of special interests, will do well to make a note of the new order of things. The legislative places are of first importance, but they are not often attractive to men of particular qualifications for them because of their temporary character and the lack of attractive salary that attaches to the position. This is notably true in the less populous counties, where comparatively little attention is paid to the legislative positions. For the good of the state at large it is impossible to choose men of too high calibre for the legislature, and the sum total of the enactments is going to reflect pretty accurately the character and the grasp of public questions of the men who compose the legislative body.

The popular impression that woman's present activity in politics is confined wholly to an effort to secure the ballot is entirely erroneous. They are finding a much larger usefulness than that, however desirable it would be to see them given full citizenship in the electorate. Exercising a watchful oversight of legislative timber will constitute a real public service. The undesirable will find it extremely difficult to pass unscotched beneath the scrutinizing gaze of the ladies, and he cannot complain that he hasn't had due and timely warning of what's coming.

The vocational school idea was given notable support in Fort Wayne Friday when Master Mechanic Griest, of the Pennsylvania railroad system, urged a continuance of studies after leaving the school room. Mr. Griest was addressing a gathering of nearly a hundred shopmen, and the truth he emphasized is that education is never complete. Whether it be in the schoolroom or in the later activities of life, the man should be constantly learning new lessons and supplementing his store of knowledge with educational attainment that will better qualify him for new duties and advanced responsibilities. Schooling should by no means end with boyhood or girlhood.

The McKinley club, a republican organization at Terre Haute, has risen in horror and demanded an explanation of the charge, made by a witness in the Bell trial at Indianapolis, that the president of the silk-stockinged Columbia republican club at Indianapolis, had contributed $500 in $1 and $2 bills to aid in the nomination of the democratic candidate for sheriff of Marion county. Still, perhaps the experience of Terre Haute qualifies her for competent censorship of the political morals of other communities in Indiana.

Announcement is made that Sig W. Kann, of Ligonier, will seek the democratic nomination for state statistician next year, and his friends are already rallying for organized support. Mr. Kann is a traveling salesman who has been active in political affairs of the district for some years, and it is expected that he will command a very strong following from the northern section of the state.

Even the croakers will soon be forced to admit that the gradual revival in business bears the earmarks of the genuine thing. Opening of a glass factory at Hartford City, with 600 employes, has been ordered for November 1. Evidence of this character is daily accumulating to sustain the optimistic predictions that has been made by business experts during the past few months.

If Grover Cleveland Alexander, the Philadelphia pitcher, has the "rooting" support of all the rest of the ambitious young men who came upon the scene at the psychological moment to be tagged by the name Grover Cleveland—and it is probable they are all "pulling" for him—those Boston athletes might as well come in and surrender at once.

It may also be remarked in passing that those flood prevention petitions are still some thousands of signatures short of the number required to get safety first action against the possibility of further flood damage in Fort Wayne.

THE MORRIS PLAN.

(Indianapolis Times).

The Ft. Wayne Morris Plan company began operating on Oct. 4. It has a fully subscribed capital of $100,000, and is the second anti-loan shark institution of its kind in the state of Indiana. Its officers are Theodore F. Thieme, president; Theodore Wentz and Isidor Lehman, vice president; Clinton R. Willson, treasurer; Edward J. Liudman, secretary-manager. The board of directors includes twenty-six representative business men. This is the twenty-sixth company operating the plan of industrial loans and investments indicated by its title, the twenty-fifth having been in operation at Waterbury, Conn., since Aug. 24.

The Morris plan involves a system of savings and loans for people of small incomes. Under the system the salaried man or woman, the wage earning person may establish a credit by showing a disposition to save systemntically, and may get a loan in an emergency at reasonable interest, the money to be repaid in weekly installments in accord with the ability of the borrower to pay. Not only does the Morris plan enable the person who needs money to establish a credit and get the loan at reasonable rates, but it tends to encourage and inculcate thrift and the habit of systematic saving.

For example, where the borrower makes his regular weekly payments in settling his loan, he is likely to form the habit of putting by a regular sum out of his income every week, and he is likely to find he can very easily continue to do this indefinitely. Having paid his loan by saving or by putting aside a certain sum weekly, he learns he can go right on putting aside such an amount every week for a savings account. So, in place of paying interest, he begins to draw interest. This is the logic of the Morris system. It tends sanely to thrift and it tends also to do away with extortion such as the poor in past years have suffered at the hands of usurers and so-called loan sharks.

NORTHWEST CANADA DRY.

(Sunset Magazine).

For many years the "wettest" spots across the boundary to the north were located in the Canadian prairie provinces. The consumption of good old Scotch was tremendous; the teetotaler's attude was considered almost indecent. Whisky during the long winter was deemed a necessity. No business transaction was complete until Bacchus had approved it with his "wet" seal.

Alberta went "dry" on July 20 in an election which showed that even the cities were realizing the advantags of enforced sobriety. Saskatchewan closed up all public bars three weeks before the Albertan election.

As Idaho has decided to have a prohibition law so drastic that the mere possession of alcoholic stimulants will be a misdemeanor, there will remain only six "wet" commonwealths west of the Rockies after New Year's. Only in California, British Columbia, Utah, Nevada, Montana and Wyoming will the sale of alcohol continue—for how long?

AS MR. RANDALL SEES IT.

To the Editor of The Sentinel: Without taking part with either side in the present street car controversy, I want to suggest that while I am not opposed to unions of laboring men, I am sure I would not want to operate a street car line with union labor unless the union would assume, with proper guarantee, the risks and responsibilities incident to operating the cars.

The hazards are too great to allow men not interested in property to hire, discipline and discharge the men operating it.

Great care must be used in the selection of men and in educating them to their duty. With the greatest care in selecting men and instructing them to their duties, accidents do happen that cost the owners of the property thousands upon thousands of dollars.

A few years ago two employes of the company, by the most reckless carelessness and an entire disregard of orders, cost the company two hundred thousand dollars and killed nearly two score human beings.

If I were a union man I would not want to take the responsibility of running the cars and selecting the men and educating them and disciplining them.

This work ought to rest wholly on the shoulders of the men who own the lines and are answerable to the public for the accidents to life and property incident to the operation of the cars.

I venture there is not a man among the former employes of the company if he individually owned the city street car line who would permit any outside agency, be it a union or otherwise, to hire the men, educate them to their duties, discipline them and discharge them unless this same agency or union would assume the risks of operating the cars.

Let each man in the city, whether he is a street car employe or a business man or a property owner or a laboring man ask himself this question.

Charles Read wrote a novel some years ago entitled, "Put Yourself in His Place." It was a good title for a novel; it is a good maxim for every day practical life; if men would base their actions upon this proposition there would be less misunderstanding; less acrimony and hate in the world. I believe it is a good thought in our present troubles to try it out; put yourself in the other fellows place and think of the situation from this standpoint. Put aside prejudice and factional feeling and get down to the marrow of the matter by personal questioning—"What would I do if I was the other fellow."

I have heard some of the men say that one reason for their action is that the money invested in the street car lines is foreign money; that the line are owned by Philadelphia capital.

Should there be any antagonism in Fort Wayne to foreign capital. The railroads that have built Fort Wayne are owned by foreign capital. Would we antagonize them for this reason? But for the railroads Fort Wayne would be but a small village.

The Fort Wayne Electric works, of such great value to our city, is owned and operated wholly by foreign capital. Do we welcome it any the less on this account. A large part of the money in the Wayne Knitting mills is foreign capital. Would you want this great plant reduced by a half? The Serman-White cold storage plant was built by foreign capital. Are we not glad this storage plant is in Fort Wayne.

Would we not be glad to have foreign capital establish an automobile factory here, giving employment to thousands of men?

We have now a proposition for an automobile factory to be located here which if we get it will be built and carried on almost wholly by foreign money. If there is such an antipathy to foreign capital on the part of our laboring men, our negotiation for the automobile factory had better go no farther.

I am interested in this controversy only as a Fort Wayne citizen, but a citizen who has always labored for the upbuilding of the city. It has always been my endeavor and the endeavor of those with whom I have worked to get more foreign money into the city.

P. A. RANDALL.

PLENTY OF GOOD IN THIS OLD WORLD YET

Do You Doubt It? Well, Read This and Think the Matter Over.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 9.—She's over 80, blue-eyed, very tiny, but all vim and mettle.

You'd like Mrs. A. A. Newberry for your grandmother. You'd be proud of her—of her gentleness, her courage and her broad humanity.

with her own hands, she wanted to convert it into a quiet, comfortable retreat for other old ladies who are facing the sunset (and she doesn't mind being called "old" either).

Mrs. Newberry has lived for 23 years on the 10 acres which she herself cleared. With her own hands she dug holes for the fence-posts. With her own hands she sawed the boards and built the chicken coop. All the work of the little farm she did herself.

She made a profit of $300 a year.

Now the time has come when she is too old to work the farm. She must either sell it or rent it. She had a nebulous plan of founding a Newberry Old Ladies' Home if she couldn't find a buyer.

Peter Peterson was known as "the lunch counter man." He's had dozens of lunch counters in Seattle at one time or another. Once he was well-to-do. Now he's broke.

It isn't Peter Peterson's fault that he is broke. He was trimmed and robbed of most of his fortune. Then sickness swept away the remnant.

Last summer Peterson came out of the city hospital. He had come through a dangerous operation. He couldn't get work during his convalescence. There were times this fall when Peter Peterson and his wife didn't get enough to eat.

The once well-to-do Petersons were reduced to living in two rooms. Today Peterson is well and strong again, but without two jitneys to rub together.

Peterson, who heard about Mrs. Newberry recently, went to Silverdale. Mrs. Newberry was all business. She wanted to rent the farm for $100 a year. Peterson didn't have $100. He didn't have 100 cents. He told Mrs. Newberry so.

Mrs. Newberry puckered her forehead. She thought an dthought. The decision was important. She glanced at Peterson out of the corner of her eye.

Finally she said: "You go back and get your wife and bring her to me."

Peterson did as told.

Mrs. Newberry and the Petersons talked, constrainedly at first. Then Mrs. Newberry, who has a decisive personality, for all her age and fay stature, said:

"You shall come here. Never mind the money. Do you think you could like me?"

Then Mrs. Peterson began to cry, for a great weight was off her mind, and Mrs. Newberry reached out and patted her hand.

"You shall be my mother," said Mrs. Peterson.

"And you my children," said Mrs. Newberry.

But Mrs. Newberry isn't one to dwell long on sentiment.

"I am glad you are both Scandinavians," she said. "Scandinavians are hard workers. I have been a hard worker all my life. Now listen.

"We will hatch out a batch of 700 chickens in the incubator and sell them for 10 cents apiece when they are a day old. That will be $70. Then we will hatch out two batches, and the $70 will buy food for the pullets until they are old enough to begin laying. Then we will be all right.

A neighbor called, and was introduced to the Petersons.

"You see that side hill?" asked the neighbor. "Nothing but weeds there. Tell you what—you clear it, and I'll plow it for you. Berries'll grow fine there. Then I'll give you a couple of thousand plants—my bushes need thinning out, anyhow—and next year you'll have a crop—not a full crop, but it ought to fetch $200."

"We're going to move right out there," said Peter Peterson. "It's a fine place. I'll make it pay good. You just wait and see!"

Kind of warms your heart, doesn't it—this sort of neighborliness!

"There's nothing so bad for a Cough as Coughing." Coughing is like scratching a wound; so long as it is done, it will not heal. When tempted to Cough, draw a long breath through the nostrils; hold it until it warms the air cells. The nitrogen thus refined, allays the desire to cough and gives the throat and lungs a chance to heal. The use of "Seventy-seven" will aid nature in her efforts to recuperate.

Every successful gown and dress shown in the fashion displays this year absolutely demands a corset to set it off.

WARNER'S

show every feature necessary for current styles.

Fashionable bust heights run slightly higher than a year ago, but are well gored to support the upper figure without confining it. Skirts are a trifle shorter and the waist line gives indications of a fitted snugness. Yet the garment is comfortable and easy as you wish.

THEIR IS NO TIME LIKE THE PRESENT

for selecting your Warner's Corset. Our stock is complete with varied models for every type of figure. May we expect a visit?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CARRANZA IS CERTAIN TO GET RECOGNITION

Washington, Oct. 9.—Intention of the United States government to recognize the Carranza government, it was considered almost certain here today, would be announced at the end of a fourth pan-American conference on the Mexican situation. Latin-American diplomats were to meet with Secretary of State Lansing late today in what many believed would be their final gathering.

All the Mexican factions have been heard and it was believed all that remained was to decide which presented the strongest claims and offered the best evidence that it could maintain a stable government. Data gathered by the conferees which is said to show that Carranza has attained military supremacy backed by Carranza's guarantee of protection to foreigners and their property, it was believed would be the basis of recognition.

That such action should be taken, it was believed, would be conveyed to the conference by Secretary Lansing. The other Latin-American countries are expected to sanction the plan. The effect of an announcement of an intention to recognize Carranza, it is believed would be to bring opposing elements to his support and remedy present conditions despite official reports showing little improvement in some parts of Mexico.

Everything bespoke the pre-nuptial party with pink and white flowers and other decorative things as well as a shower of lovely gifts. The Misses Branstrator, Johnston, Dolly Bufink, Florence Keller and Bertha Gleitz were other guests. Miss Felts will have a quiet home wedding on Tuesday. The ceremony will be performed at noon by Rev. Paul Preston, of Angola. Mr. Bill was formerly of Logansport but his home has been in Chicago for several years. He is an attorney and business man. Invitations have been extended by the members of the Subscription dance committee to attend a benefit bridge to be given next Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Alice Knight. This affair has nothing to do with the annual dance which the committee arranges every winter, but the receipts—and everything even prizes, is donated—go towards a charity fund the committee maintains and which is used specifically to aid individuals whom the members know are worthy. There is the amount of seventy-five dollars in the treasury now but the young women in charge are well aware of the coming need they will have for using it. Each member of the subscription committee is responsible for one table of players, that is the financial part of it. So each guest is asked to pay fifty cents unless a member chooses to consider her merely as a guest. Refreshments will be served at the benefit and there are to be many tables of players. The card game is to begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock. The committee keeps very quiet about its charity work but is doing more and more of it each season.

Gave Beautiful Concert.

Miss Helene Spindler won new praises for her accompaniment as a pianist and Mr. David Baxter gave great pleasure to the audience by his artistic singing at a concert they gave last evening in Elks' hall. Marked progress can be noticed in every recital that Miss Spindler gives and her work this time was further evidence of a maturer technique and a more appreciative understanding and ability to express musically what she is playing. Mr. Baxter is a fine example of a well cultivated and a naturally good voice, and he in no wise falls short in expressive singing and interpretation. Both performers were received with enthusiasm, the program being of a high order and of a brilliant execution and character. Miss Spindler and Mr. Baxter appeared under the auspices of the European School of Music.

DR. MAURICE LOHMAN AND HIS BEAUTIFUL BRIDE.

Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Lohman are expected home this evening from Walloon Lake, Mich., where they have been for a week, or since their marriage in Huntington on Saturday, October 2. When the young couple reached this city on their way north they supposed they would only meet a few relatives, but many friends as well swelling the number to nearly fifty, had gathered at the residence of Dr. Lohman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lohman, in West Berry street. So it was a merry occasion with the young couple showered with wishes and blessings and their departure for the Michigan lake was certainly a merry one. Dr. Lohman was graduated in June from the medical department of Michigan university. He is a very bright young man and he received many honors during his collegiate course. Mrs. Lohman was Miss Bernice Bippus, of Huntington, a daughter of one of that city's most prominent and wealthiest families, and also a very charming young woman who has many friends among her acquaintances in this city. Mrs. Bippus and a Miss Dorothy Bippus accompanied the bride and groom here to see them start off on their honeymoon trip. Dr. and Mrs. Lohman will be at home with his parents at 336 West Berry street for the present.

BEVERLY BAYNE'S PICTURE HAT.

Whatever the hatter may decree in feminine headwear, he usually includes in his list of new styles a large model of some kind for the girl or woman who looks best in that sort of a chapeau.

This picture shows Beverly Bayne wearing one of her many hats. The crown is constructed of a becoming shade of blue plush and the brim is worked out in a contrasting but harmonizing shade of fawn-covered velvet.

The novelty of this picture creation is the ornament at the side. It is a flower. But instead of being made of the usual materials, it is worked out in Marten fur. The leaves are made of velvet. It can be worn with a walking suit or with a simple afternoon dress.

MISS UP-TO-THE-STYLES ALL DRESSED UP IN NEW FALL FASHIONS.

By Betty Brown.

Behold Little Miss-Up-To-The-Styles in all her autumn finery! Her ribbon turban with its upturned brim of fluted ribbon—the very latest flutter in millinery; her jaunty velvet scarf which is newer than fox fur, or Belgian muffler, and her fur trimmed costume of golden brown, not overlooking those high button boots of bronze.

The coat is a trifle long as are so many of the costume coats that come out of the studio of Mme. Marguerite of the Fashion Art League of America and it has the ripple that stamps it a 1915 autumn model. The skirt, which is shirred from the waist, flares out bravely and swings six inches from the ground, which is a conservative length this fall.

That new brown cloth called "kitten's ear," because it is so soft and smooth, is used to develop this modish frock, and the fur trimming is beaver. The fur tabs on the front of the coat and on the odd shaped pockets give Miss-Up-To-The-Styles the military air which is never accented by well dressed women, but the suggestion of it is never absent from the new frocks.

Bare, Tinted Ankles Among Newest Fads

Mae Josephine Bennett

The vagery which prompts a pretty girl to daub her ankles with paint, of a tint to match her dress, and appears on the streets in her bare nethers thus decorated, indicates daring rather than the forerunner of a popular fad.

Miss Josephine Mae Bennett, San Francisco's prize beauty and artist's model, is credited with starting the whimsey.

"I find," she said, "that the use of paint instead of stockings is much cooler and healthier."

BY BETTY BROWN.

The American idea in clothes—here it is embodied in three trophy winning frocks that won the famous Gossard trophy at the Fashion Art league of America's fashion exposition recently held in Chicago.

In a nation-wide contest, Mme. Marguerite, designer of the prize gowns, was awarded the Nancy Coxe-McCormack silver statue of "Fashion," known as the Gossard trophy, a prize contended for by designers the country over.

Smartness, simplicity and adaptability were the points on which the judges made the award, and even the Manchu simple and smart when worn without gown with its quaint pantalets, is both the embroidered "bloomers."

The evening gown which Mme. Marguerite calls "Inspiration," is a filmy thing of llamme silver lace with paniers of orchid taffeta. The distinctive thing about the gown is the square double train which is cleverly formed by extending the godet panniers to the back of the waist line. Blue birds realistically embroidered on the train adds a striking note of color to the gown.

The Manchu is an afternoon frock in gold colored suede cloth, with a princess waist, in one with skirt of striped gold voile. The coat is cut on Mandarin lines, with a Chinese or old blue lining of satin. The pantalets which drop two inches below the skirt, are yellow taffeta banded with blue Chinese embroidery.

"The Storm Cloud" doesn't very well describe the demure little "trotter," included among the prize winners. It has a soldierly severity of line, and the color—mouse gray accents the military effect. It's made of silk ribbed gabardine. The close fitting coat, cut on princess lines, is hand length with graceful flare at the hips. The high military collar, the soutache braiding at the waist line, the godet folds in the skirt mark this gown as one of fashion's latest creations.

In the first game last year, played at Philadelphia, the attendance was 20,562, and the receipts $49,639.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9—Confidence, stimulated by the fruits of the 3 to 1 victory in the initial struggle for baseball supremacy of the world was apparent in the camp of the Philadelphia Nationals today, and when they entered the second game of the big series it was with a determination to make it two straights. Their worthy opponents, the Boston Americans, although defeated, temporarily at least, were undismayed and were equally determined to even up matters. Weather conditions today were greatly improved and the playing field was in excellent shape. A brilliant sun which shone from a cloudless sky the greater part of yesterday, and a brisk northwesterly breeze that blew throughout the night had combined to dry the rain soaked ground, making possible a fast and snappy contest. The weather man promised continued fair weather for the day and said it might be cooler.

There was considerable speculation before the game as to who the opposing managers would send to the mound. It generally was conceded that the same catchers, Cady for Boston, and Burns for Philadelphia, would be behind the bat, but weather conditions, it was believed, would determine the pitching selections, especially on the part of Moran. Chalmers, the Phillies' big right-hander, was looked upon as the most likely candidate in case of warm weather, but if, as the weather man predicts, there is a perceptible change, the duties may devolve upon Mayer or Rixey. For the Red Sox either Foster or Leonard will probably do the twirling. The Phillies have one game to their credit and what little betting there is on the series still favors the Bostonians. Very few wagers have been placed and those that have been made were for the most part small amounts. There seems to be plenty of Boston money but the would-be bettors are reluctant to give the odds of 3 to 2 and 5 to 3 demanded by the Philadelphia backers. Several wagers were laid at these figures on the result of today's game. The presence of President Wilson today, who was to throw out the first ball, increased the demand for admittance. The gates had scarcely closed yesterday afternoon before the enthusiastic bleacherites began to form in line for the dreary all night wait for an opportunity to obtain first row seats today. By midnight the line had grown to several hundred and at 10 a. m. when the gates were opened it extended for blocks.

Judging from the number of vacant seats at yesterday's game the ticket speculators did not reap the golden harvest they had anticipated. It was estimated that approximately 300 seats in the grandstand were without occupants. The national commission, the governing body of organized baseball, has started an investigation to determine the sources of the tickets which have fallen into the hands of speculators. Men who are found to have broken faith with the commission by selling their tickets to speculators will be barred in the future, according to August Herrmann, the chairman.

Manager Carrigan, of the Red Sox, gave most of the credit for the Phillies' victory yesterday to Alexander, although it was freely admitted by the victors as well as by their followers that "breaks" played a big part in the result. "Alexander won his game," said Carrigan; "give him full credit and don't let anyone take it away from him. He pitched a splendid game, but so did Shore. I am satisfied with my team. They did the best they could against grand pitching. We are going to try harder today."

Pat Moran, manager of the Phillies, as usual, had little comment, but declared that his team looked better now than ever before. "Breaks count a lot in baseball," he said, "and we got the breaks yesterday. We look better now than ever before and with the first game on ice we have a very good chance to win the world's title."

Some disappointment in the failure of Cravath and others of the Philadelphia sluggers to connect with Shore's offerings was expressed by the followers of the National league champions. Five hits, the only one of which was driven outside the diamond being a Texas leaguer, was the sum total of the Phillies. Local fans generally agreed that Moran's men would have to do better work with the stick, provided, of course, that their opponents uphold the hitting reputation they made in winning the championship of their league, if they wish to annex the world's title.

Notwithstanding that the mighty Alexander was able to keep the Red Sox hits scattered, the fact that they gathered one clean hit in every inning but the ninth for a total of eight was not lost sight of in the reckoning of the remaining games. Regardless of who Moran selects to pitch today or in succeeding games it was figured that he would have no easy road to travel.

The Reach official baseball guide is off the press, and was distributed today.

ALEXANDER

(By Brown Holmes).

"Make 'em hit where the fielders are," is the working scheme of Grover Alexander, the big figure of the world series. His idea is different from that of Walter Johnson, who was the world's greatest pitcher before Alec came through. Johnson says: "Pitch 'em where their bats ain't." He proved this in his first game of the series yesterday.

Alec lets batters hit while Johnson tries to keep them from hitting. The only time Alec tries to strike out a batter is in a tight pinch.

When a right field hitter is at the plate Alec switches his fielders toward right, then pitches on the right field side of the plate so the batter will have to hit the ball in that direction. He can do this because he has remarkable control.

Also, Alec can afford to let batters hit because he has so much "stuff" on the ball it is hard for them to "get hold" of it. He never gives a batter exactly the kind of ball the batter likes, but tries to make him hit something else—a bad one if possible.

There was a time when Alexander was not regarded good enough for trial even with a fast minor league club. He was signed by Indianapolis for 1910, but the club had other pitchers who promised better and Alec was shifted to Syracuse without a chance to show his goods in the Hoosier city.

Alec won 29 games and lost 14 with Syracuse, and was drafted by the Phils. Pat Moran, then coach of Phil pitchers, took hold of the youngster in 1911 and developed him into a sensation. He won eight of his first ten games. He won twenty more games before the season was over.

Alexander was a second baseman on kid teams around St. Paul, Neb., his home. One day his team was beaten 12 to 3 when an enthusiastic fan bet $1 to $16 that Alec's team would win and offered Alec $5 if he would make the bet good.

Alec induced the captain to let him shift over to the boy from second base. That was in the sixth. The big boy did not give his opponents a run while his team pulled a couple of rallies and landed the game 13 to 12.

His first real baseball job for money was with Central City, Neb. He got $18 a week, pitching two games a week. In 1909 he signed with Galesburg, Ill., for $100 a month, won fifteen of twenty-three games, and was secured by Indianapolis.

WHAT WOULD BE IDEAL WORLD SERIES?

Baseball Magazine Has a Suggestion for "Baseball Grand Opera."

The perfect and ideal baseball series is described in the November Baseball magazine just out. In this special world's series number of that publication it is maintained that the world's series is not the ideal series—and is not the last word for baseball supremacy. A series made up of the stars of the American league playing the stars of the National league in July annually is offered as the grand opera of baseball—the realization of the fan's dream. We quote here a few extracts from the article mentioned.

The present world's series is a meeting between the two greatest clubs more in theory than in fact. To be sure, they are the greatest clubs which exist as such but from the league at large players might be chosen who would strengthen either winner. The public feels instinctively that it is not witnessing the best possible baseball in seeing these two clubs perform. This feeling finds expression in the great proclivity among the fans for selecting all-star teams, teams made up of players throughout the league who are the best, the very best at their positions.

Suppose that through some medium, easily determined upon, some vote of experts, the best players in the league at every position should be gathered together on one team. Suppose the best players in the rival league should also be gathered together. Could not the public then feel that here at last was the ultimate dream of the baseball fan, the grand opera of the major leagues? In the personnel of such a team the human craving for the best in baseball which now finds so imperfect expression in the world's series would then attain its realization.

Such a contest, the real grand opera of baseball, might readily be staged in midseason, where it would serve not only as the grand scenic display of the year, but stimulate greater interest in the pennant race.

Owing to the prohibition of the sale of vodka and all kinds of strong drink, the savings of the Russian people during the first four months of this year increased by $84,000,000.

U. S. BACKFIELD GENERAL TO BE STAR KICKER AGAIN.

Jack Elmore, star kicker in this year's football clan of southern California, is one of several fullbacks being rounded into shape by Coach Ralph Glaze, of the University of Southern California.

Contrary to general practice, Glaze is planning to have at least three complete back fields this year, due to the multiplicity of likely 'varsity candidates. And Elmore, one of the most adept with his feet, is certain of an important place. He was fullback in last year's U. S. C. squad, and is showing even more pep this season.

PASSENGERS HURT AS TRAINS COLLIDE

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 9.—The New Orleans-New York limited of the Southern railway, bound north, was in head-on collision with a south bound local passenger train early today near Arrington, Va. No passengers on the limited were injured but a baggagemaster was seriously hurt.

Several passengers, most of them negroes, on the local, were hurt, none of them fatally. The wreck tore up the tracks and knocked down telegraph wires. It was at first reported that several passengers on the limited had been hurt and doctors were dispatched to the scene.

WILL BE INVESTIGATED.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Steps were taken by H. W. Belknap, chief of the division of safety of the inter-state commerce commission, to ascertain the cause of the wreck on the Southern railway. As soon as informed of the accident, Mr. Belknap said two inspectors would go to the scene of the wreck to investigate it. Mr. Belknap himself may go.

THE MARKETS

WHEAT MAKES RAISE OF 2 CENTS IN PRICE

Following the big jump upward of prices on wheat per bushel in the large trading centers, one miller of the city raised his paying price 2 cents on a bushel and offered $1.04 for the grain. The other two grain dealers kept their prices at $1.02. Although there was a big harvest of wheat this fall, many farmers report that a large amount of the grain spoiled after it was put in the bins.

Eight loads of hay appeared on the streets Saturday morning, of which number two loads were clover, and brought $8 to $10 a ton. The other six loads were timothy and mixed hay and sold for $14 and $15. Oats made a jump upward in price and as high as 38c was offered for it today. Six loads were weighed at the scales. One load of corn was the extent of the receipts in this grain.

Farmers of Allen county are nearly finished sowing their wheat and are now busily engaged cutting the corn. The continuous rains that prevailed this summer that were accompanied by heavy winds, beat the stalks so that it is impossible to cut it with a horse and all of it will have to be cut by hand.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Wheat took a decided upward swing today, influenced by a falling off in receipts northwest and by complaints that serious damage had been done to the spring crop. The opening, which ranged from ¼@⅜c to 1@1⅛c higher, with December at $1.02½ to $1.02⅞, and May at $1.03 to $1.03¾, was followed by moderate adidtional upturns.

The close was unsettled at ⅛@¼c to ¼c net advance, with December at $1.02⅛ and May at $1.02⅞@1.03.

Crop damage reports from Illinois and Iowa had a bullish effect on corn. After opening ⅛c to ⅜c higher, the market continued to ascend.

The finish was nervous at a range varying from ¼c off to ⅝c up compared with yesterday's close.

Oats advanced with other grain.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 9.—The commanding position taken yesterday by railways was increased today, activity in those issues overshadowing recent speculation in war stocks and similar specialties. Some of the latter were under pressure though in no important issue were they more than fractional. Reading, yesterday's strongest feature, held back at first, presumably on profit taking, but forged ahead later, as did U. S. Steel, which equalled its best price of recent years, at 81½. The closing was strong. Bonds were strong.

Railways again took first place at the outset of today's operations, with gains of a point or better for the Harrimans, Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison, Pennsylvania and New Haven. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific opened with sales of 1,200 shares each, but initial transactions elsewhere were on a moderate scale. Among the specialties Bethlehem Steel rose five to 445 and Baldwin Locomotive 1½ to 116½. American Steel Foundry, Colorado Fuel, Crucible Steel and American Coal products advanced one to three, but some of these issues soon reacted.

Build Floating Fort on Thousands of Balloons; How Maxim Would Defend London from Zeppelins

By J. H. Duckworth.

New York, Oct. 7.—"The Zeppelin is a species of scarecrow. Count Zeppelin is a sort of bogy man—a Black Douglas!"

Thus did Hudson Maxim, high explosive and aeronautical expert on the recently appointed United States naval advisory board, pooh-pooh the latest activities of the German airships. I asked the famous inventor how he would fight the monster dirigible balloons.

"If I were a Londoner," said Maxim, "and had government backing, I would fight the Zeppelins in the following manner:

"I would have a circle of captive balloons around the entire city to serve as signal-stations. These balloons would be adapted to be raised to any desired altitude and lowered at will. I would have each balloon armed with a machine gun and two or three men.

"I would also have a platform on the top of each balloon with an aeroplane ready for flight.

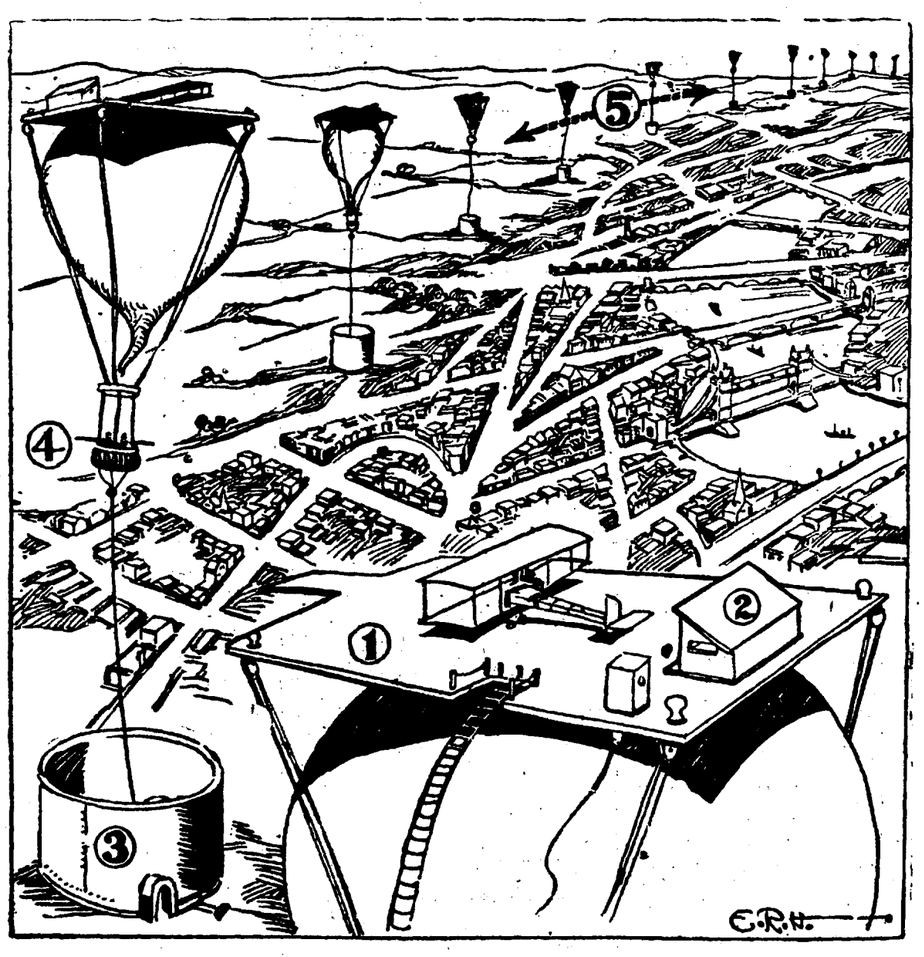
The balloons need not be raised to the desired altitude except on the signal of danger. Consequently, they would not be up in the region of intense cold, and it would be only necessary to raise them into the region of cold when ready to do business.

"The Zeppelins, in order to attack London, would either have to fly between, or over, or below this circle of balloons, and could not fail of being seen or heard, because at a considerable altitude above the city the least sound can be heard at a great distance. A Zeppelin could be heard coming long before it came within gun-fire.

"Each balloon would be connected by telephone or wireless telegraph with all other balloons, and with the earth, and at once, as soon as a Zeppelin was sighted, the aviators in the basket of each balloon would climb upon their respective aeroplanes, launch the aeroplane—and away after the Zeppelins.

"Of course, the altitude of the Zeppelin would be determined first, and the balloons would be immediately raised to the height occupied by the Zeppelin or Zeppelins, so that the aeroplanes would not have to climb any after starting for the attack.

"In case of a high wind, the balloons could be lowered into a big cylindrical shed; in other words, drawn down like a jack-in-the-box on the ground."



London would look like this if Hudson Maxim had his way. The figure show—(1) Landing stage from which aeroplanes are launched at the aerial foe; (2) shed for telephone and telegraph system to the ground and to other balloons; (3) tank into which balloon can be drawn in stormy weather when it is impossible to operate Zeppelins; (4) basket containing machine guns for defense against enemy approaching either by ground or air; (5) chain of balloons surrounding the city and forming a cordon through which no foe could approach without a battle.

"Are the Zeppelins going to end the war?" was the next question I fired at Maxim.

"No, indeed. I would say, rather, that the war is going to end the Zeppelins."

"If a hundred Zeppelins were to visit London each day, and kill a thousand persons, the loss would be less than the birth rate.

"Well, then, are aeroplanes going to be the deciding factor in the war?" was my final query.

Maxim shook his shaggy white head, and answered:

Former Actress Says She Is Widow of Lafayette Sportsman.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—Notice was served on Joseph B. Ross, executor of the will of Frank G. Ray, that Jessie Hedrick Ray intends to claim a widow's share of the estate. The will made no mention of the wife and it was not known here that the claimant had been married to Ray. According to her notice, however, she and Ray were husband and wife, and she makes affidavit that she is Ray's widow. Jones, Hammond & Jones, of Indianapolis, are her attorneys.

Ray was a wealthy young sportsman, the son of Elias Ray, a millionaire farmer, who killed one of his workmen and on the day he was to have been put on trial for murder he committed suicide.

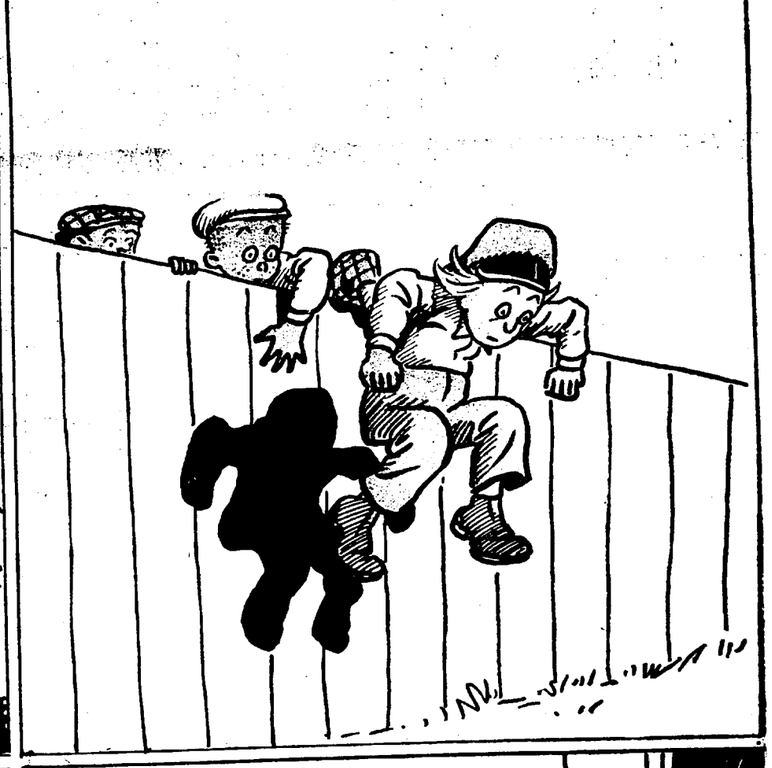
CORY'S KIDS



IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Again this evening—Joseph Santley in "All Over Town."

Wednesday evening—Walker Whiteside in "The Ragged Messenger."

Thursday evening—Scheuman-Heink.

Friday and Saturday—Lyman Howe's Travel Festival.

Coming soon—Frances Starr, "Twin Beds," "The Only Girl."

JOSEPH SANTLEY AND GREAT COMPANY TONIGHT.

Joseph Santley, one of the most popular of American musical comedy stars and a most likeable portrayer of roles in which youthful enthusiasm is the predominating characteristic, is at the Majestic theatre tonight, in "All Over Town," a "musical fantasy" from his own pen, which scored a solid and substantial success at the Garrick theatre, Chicago, during an all-summer run. He has with him a company which is said to be somewhat larger than those which surrounded him in "A Modern Eve" and "When Dreams Come True." Prominent among its members is Frank Moulon, the original "Sultan of Sulu," and one of the best known comedians on our stage. Others include Miss Beatrice Allen, Miss Ruth Randall, Miss Sylvia Jason, Miss Jane McArthur, Miss Lillian Lee, Frederick Santley, Johnny Boyle, Saranoff, Arthur Hohl and Miss Marie Callahan.

Bert Saunders and His Funny Little Slide at the Empress Next Week.

WALKER WHITESIDE IN "THE RAGGED MESSENGER."

Walker Whiteside, in "The Ragged Messenger," will be at the Majestic next Wednesday.

In the part of John Morton, Mr. Whiteside has contributed another memorable characterization to the American stage. Morton is a young enthusiast who leaves the confines of the church to get closer to the masses in London's slums. While he is delivering from street corners the message which inspires him, he encounters a girl, who appeals to him for help.

He takes her to aristocratic friends who have promised to aid him in his work, and asks them to make a home for her. They regard this as an intrusion upon the sanctity of their home, and Morton, to make amends to the girl, asks her to marry him. It is on this scene that word comes telling Morton he has inherited millions from a remote cousin. But none of the money is used for his own needs, it is all devoted to the good of the poor among who he has labored. His wife, foiled in her ambition to shine socially and live in luxury, grows bitter. She revenges herself on Morton by dishonoring herself, and the money which proves such a blessing to others in his hands, destroys his own happiness.

Mr. Whiteside is supported by a distinguished cast and the play is elaborately mounted, showing glimpses in London of fashionable drawing rooms in Mayfair, and the misery of the Whitechapel district.

The role of the girl, Mary Ainsleigh, is filled by Lilian Cavanagh, a recent acquisition from the English stage. Miss Cavanagh has the beauty and vivacity of her Irish forebears and has enjoyed the training of association with Sir Herbert Tree, Miss Harriman, Marie Tempest, and other leaders of the English stage.

LYMAN HOWE'S PICTURES OF SAN FRANCISCO FAIR.

The timely feature of Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, which comes to the Majestic Friday evening and Saturday matinee and night, commemorates the completion of the mightiest enterprise ever undertaken for the benefit of the world's commerce—the Panama canal. Howe's film shows it in full operation as a big, modern steamship wends its way through the series of gigantic locks, Culebra Cut, etc. The event has been made memorable by the two notable celebrations in California. The scenes of the San Francisco exposition reveal vast palaces and courts that are adorned by imposing colonnades, archways, towers, domes, minarets, statuary, etc., which are often mirrored perfectly in placid lagoons and sylvan lakes.

There will also be the usual variety of other features in the new Lyman H. Howe program, in one of which an intimate acquaintance is formed with that most talked of vessel of war nowadays, the submarine. The scenes cover the most recent manoeuvres of the U. S. submarine fleet at Pensacola, Florida, and were photographed since Mr. Howe's last engagement here. The flotilla is seen ploughing through the sea at full speed and some of them are shown sinking below the surface while others are seen emerging. Still others may be seen racing through the deep with absolutely nothing in sight but the tip of the periscope or rather a small trail of foam created by it.

Another feature, and one of surpassing charm, takes spectators to ever-quaint Holland, where acquaintance is made with youthful Holland—very youthful—in a series of portrait studies that are so wondrously perfect they are "speaking likenesses" indeed.

Supplementing these and many other subjects are entirely new animated cartoons that are always so distinctive of Howe's exhibition. They satirize and burlesque the more serious and sedate subject matter with a humor that simply is irresistible, and last—but certainly not least—comes the pleasant news that the audience may once more revel at the merry antics of that delightful masterpiece of babydom, entitled, "Our Baby," which Mr. Howe exhibited on a previous engagement.

AT KEITH PALACE

BASEBALL COMEDY.

The Incomparable Tom Lewis on Coming Keith Program.

A delightful page from the great national pastime, "Brother Fans," is the superb comedy playlet in which the incomparable Tom Lewis, of "Little Johnny Jones" fame, is to head the New Palace bill that opens Monday night. Tom Barry wrote this sketch and into it he has breathed the spirit that has made baseball the greatest of all outdoor games. Lewis, of course, needs no introduction to Fort Wayne as his happy efforts in "Little Johnny Jones," "High Jinks," "The Yankee Prince" and other legitimate offerings are too well known here. This playlet, coming as it does in conjunction with the reproduction of the world's series baseball games at the New Palace, will make the first days of the coming week particularly enjoyable ones for the "bugs" of both genders.

This coming bill which opens on Monday afternoon embraces a host of other splendid attractions. Hugh McCormick and Grace Wallace will present a ventriloquial duo entitled "The Theatrical Agent," in which the figures are dressed to represent actors and actresses seeking engagements. The comedy is said to be irresistible. A merry melange entitled "Songland" is the offering that Betty Bond and Jimmy Casson have in store for next week. Dave Kramer and George Morton are blackface comedians of class. Arthur Barat's breath-arresting feats of daring are heightened by the delightful touch of solicitude and interest expressed by Mlle. Barat, his sister. "The Awakening of the Toys" is the amusing bit of fun and frolic in which Dewitt, Burns and Torrence are to appear next week. Jack McCulloch and Al Carp's banjo and violin playing complete the bill.

Current Bill a Hit.

The current Keith bill is a splendid hit. Included in the list of acts are Eleanor Gordon, the Gladiators, Santly and Norton, J. Warren Keane and Grace White, the Meyako Sisters, the Alexander Kids and Prevost and Brown.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"OUR NEW MINISTER."

Famous Rural Comedy to Be Presented by Temple Players.

After a week's laugh orgy in the hilarious farce-comedy, "The Third Party," the Temple Theater Players will on Monday evening open a six-day engagement in the famous old rural comedy-drama, "Our New Minister," a story of such compelling sweetness and dramatic strength that it has taken its place alongside such productions as "The Old Homestead," "Way Down East" and similar plays. It is a bit of cry from farce to "Our New Minister," but there isn't a member of the Temple company that has not appeared in this production at least once and the rehearsals are moving with a smoothness and polish that bespeaks a performance of distinction. The story is a familiar one, for it is a presentation of the pleasures, joys, sorrows and tears of a minister in a narrow, hide-bound, provincial little village, where the aborigines although essentially generous-hearted, are so completely hedged about by a terror of conventions that they can see no good in anyone that falls under the lashing tongue of the town gossips. The manner in which the new minister tackles the job of reforming the village and saving it from itself is interestingly told while the discomfiture of the self-appointed moral vigilantes furnishes many a hearty laugh.

Absurd but not silly is the characterization properly applied to the farce. "The Third Party," in which the Temple Players will appear over the week-end. It is a bunch of nonsense but so cleverly hung together as never to become buffoonery and thus detract from the merriment that has ruled with all classes of theater-goers at the Temple this week.

On Tuesday afternoon the Players will hold another reception matinee, at which all the admirers of the artists will be guests on the stage. Warren Hoffman has some surprises in store for those attending this reception.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

There will be three splendid features on the Jefferson bill today, including Neal of the Navy, chapter No. 5. A message from the Past, a Pathe comedy, "Rough on Aunty," and the Mutual Master picture, The Wolf Man, featuring dainty Billie West and Ralph Lewis. Monday the first of a series of two reel subjects, depicting the amusing adventures of J. Rufus Wallingford, in his famous get rich quick schemes, which have been read and laughed at by millions of people all over the country. The cast is a notable one. Burr MacIntosh, Max Figman and Lolita Robertson being the principal figures. This splendid blue dispeller will be an added attraction for the next few weeks. The Paramount subject for Sunday and Monday is that most famous of all plays, Zaza, with the great American star, Pauline Frederick, in the title role. Next week's features are away above the average.

MAKES CEMETERY ORCHARD.

French Count is Under Arrest for Desecration.

Blois, France, Oct. 9.—Count Montide Reze, agent for Prince Elias of Bourbon, owner of the famous Camboid chateau estate, was arrested today on charge of desecrating the village cemetery by transforming it into an orchard. Evidence showed that several graves had been dug up with scant ceremony. The count's defense was that he was acting under orders of Prince Elias. Tennants of the estate have displayed bitterness against the prince's manager for several months, maintaining that he paid little heed to French law.

Mr. Benito Kaitz, the Russian violinist, will assist the First M. E. church choir in the musical program during the regular morning service.

Champagne Girls Bid Farewell Tonight.

Tonight is your last chance to see the now famous Champagne Girls, so you had better hurry up and order your seats if you don't want to miss one of the best shows of the season and your last chance to see popular Loie Dacre appear in Fort Wayne. But it is with much pleasure that Manager Harvey Porter announces the coming of the big show with mirth and music, Fads and Follies.

This show has been breaking all sorts of records all along the circuit and should make a big hit here. It has an olio that could take the place of any vaudeville bill and includes many big time favorite acts. Its musical numbers are right up-to-the-minute, and its comedy is supreme; it boasts of the highest salaried cast in burlesque and its costumes are most costly; the scenery comes from a well known firm of New York, and last but not least it has a big beauty chorus that Flo Ziegfield, the man who is known for his beauty choruses, has praised very highly. With all this is it any wonder that it has the name of being the best burlesque show on the road and it is not a wonder that it is breaking records wherever it appears?

A Real Big Time Olio.

Fads and Follies carries an olio that could do justice to any vaudeville theater in the country. It is composed of well known vaudeville favorites and is worth the price of admission alone.

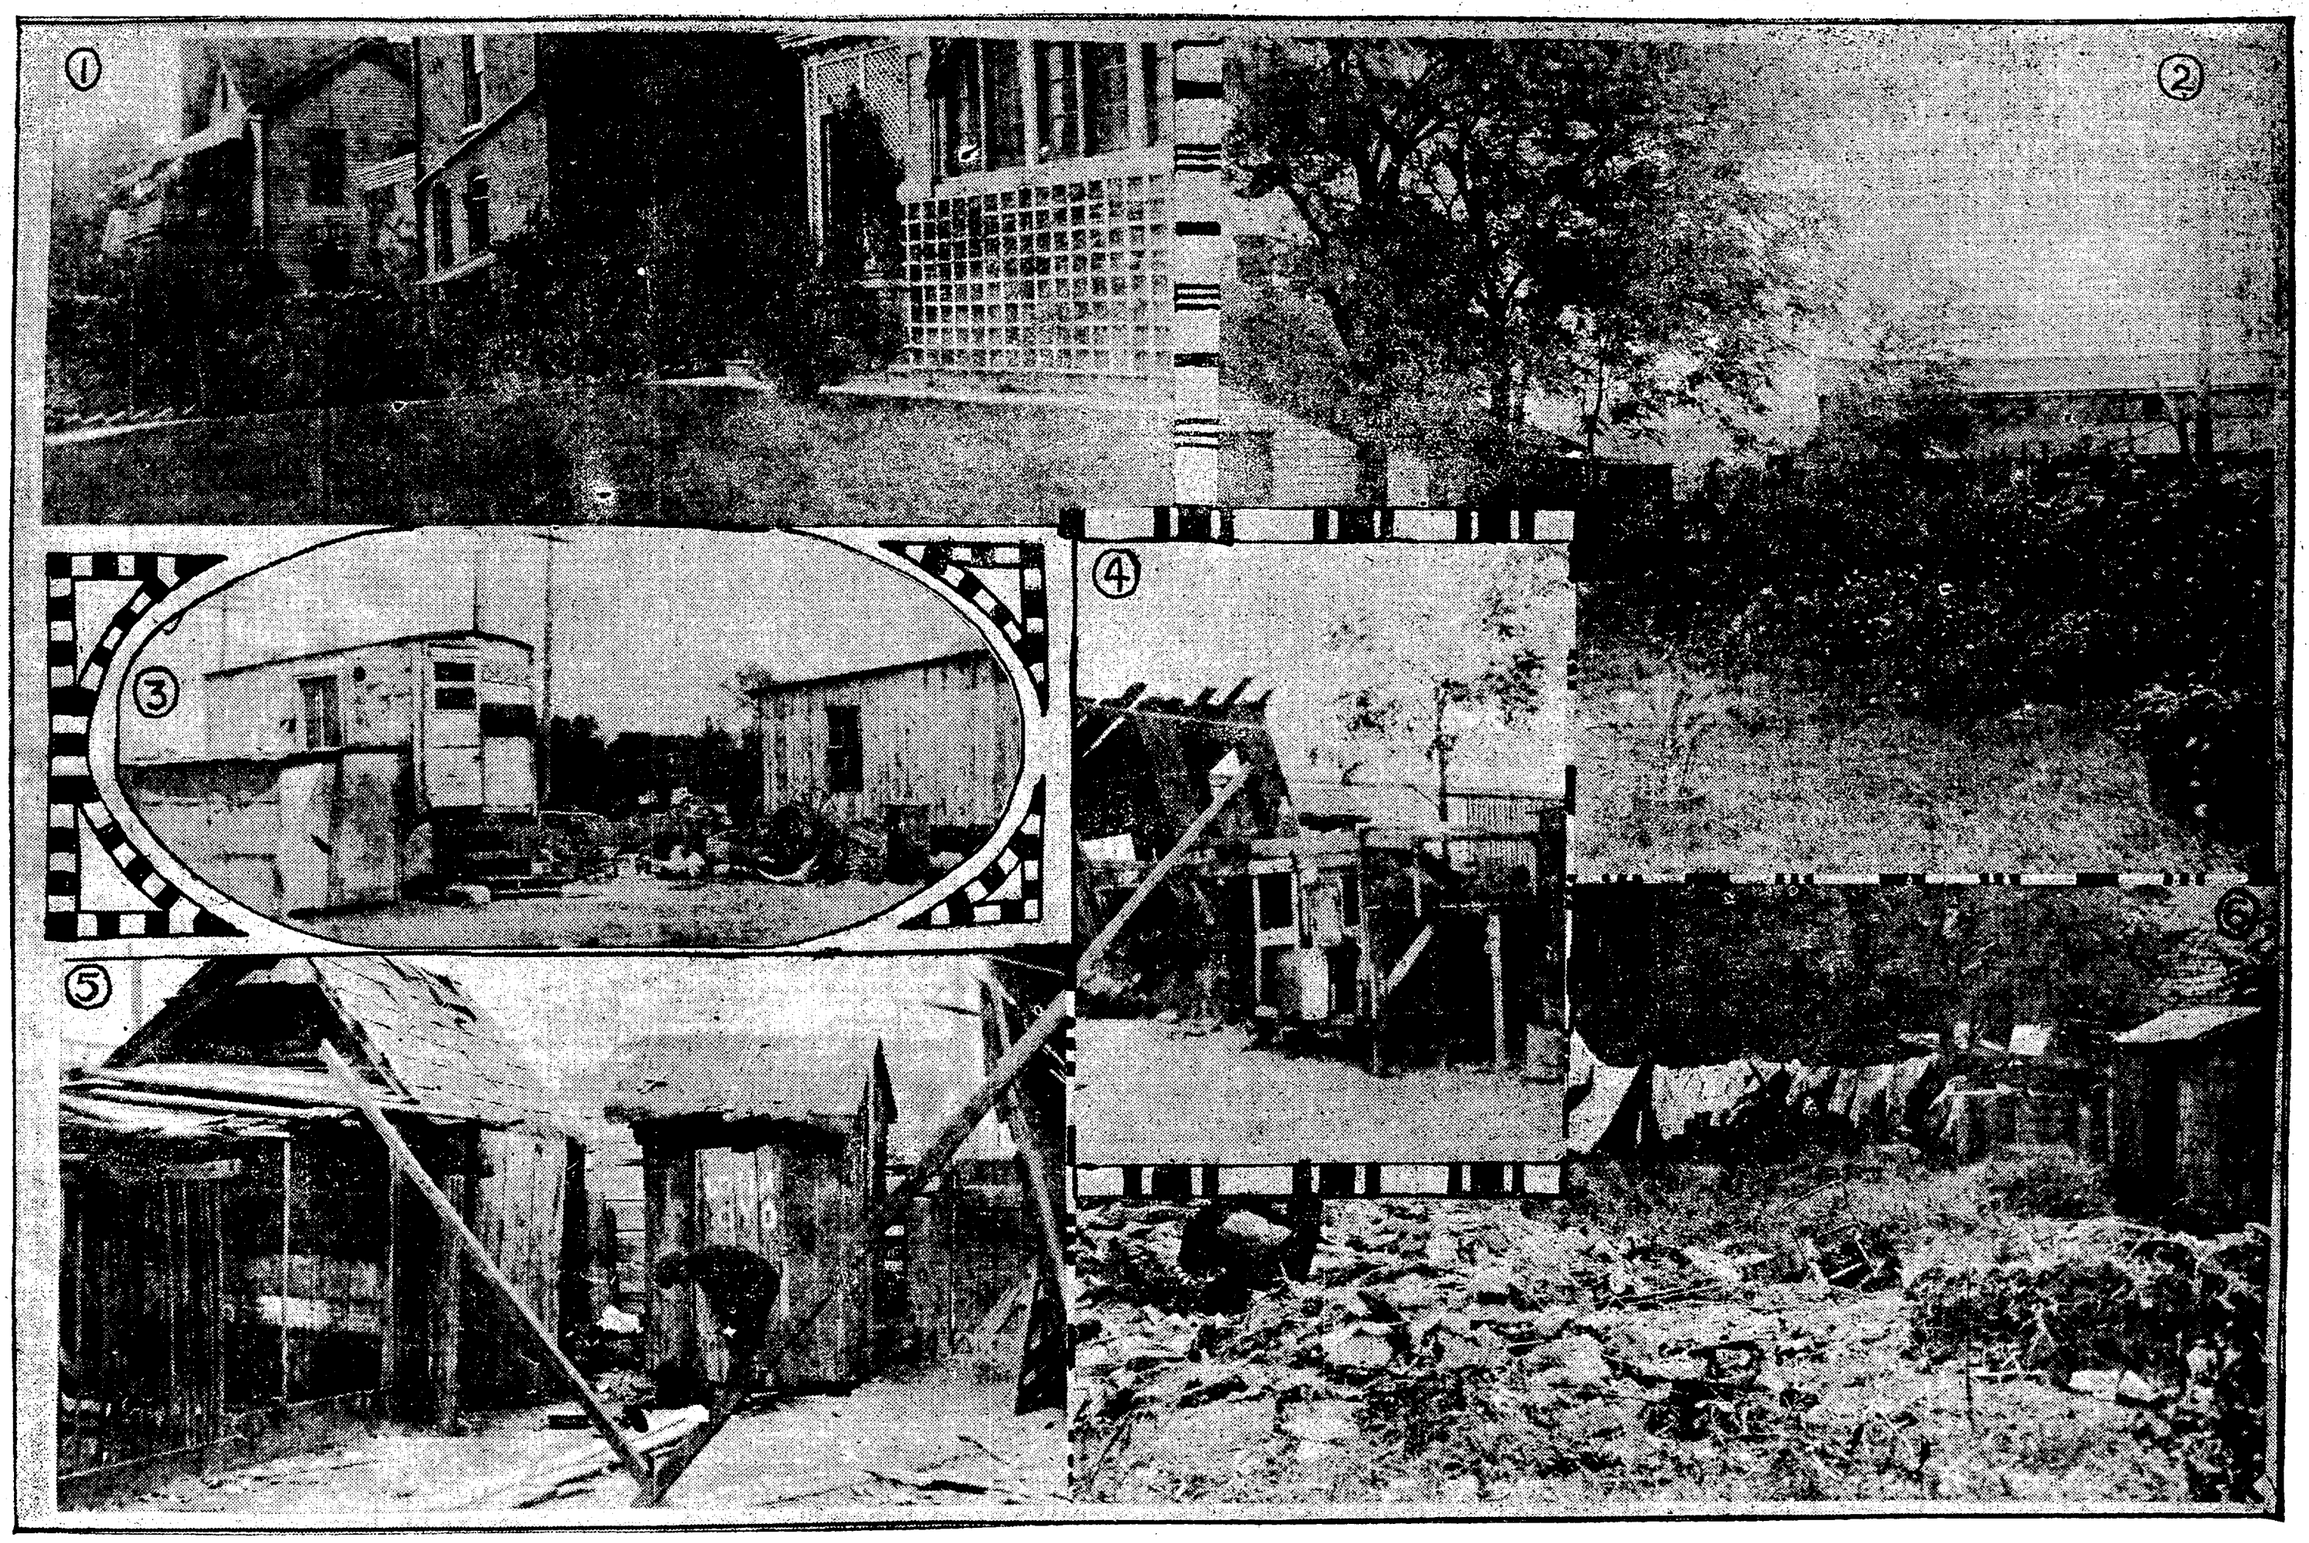
Fort Wayne Can Prevent Disease by the Education of the People to Proper Housing Methods



Fort Wayne has come face to face with a problem that has grown with it as a city. This problem is disease prevention. Little white lines have been drawn on the street corners, to keep the deer peepul from under the clanging hooves of charging truck horses. The board of safety has ruined the burlesque business by pulling off the boss attraction, to keep the same and aforesaid deer peepul in a state of good morals. The railroads have appointed Safety First committees that have meetings and eat at the best hotels at company expense, to keep the employes from the varied dangers of the rail.

But with all these safeguards thrown about the populace the latter has been exceedingly lax in disease prevention. But this does not apply to Fort Wayne alone, for Fort Wayne stands well in the lead in the work, but it applies to the country as a whole. The entire nation has spent so much time fighting cattle plagues and insisting on steamship inspection, that it has allowed the matter of disease prevention among human beings to come very slowly, with only a few interested workers in each community.

Disease Prevention and Housing.

Disease prevention and the housing problem trot in double harness. To remedy bad housing conditions in a town is to remedy breeders of disease. For with perfect housing, disease in many forms would have so hard a struggle that it would be eliminated.

Housing conditions in Fort Wayne are mighty good, compared to those in some cities. This city is far to the front in the matter of home owning and home sanitation, but it still has a lot to learn.

Have We Slums?

The proud Fort Waynite is likely to take his guest over the streets where we have ornamental lighting, and placing a hand upon his expanded chest, explain that "we have no slums in Fort Wayne." But, hold on a minute, old fellow. What makes you think we haven't any slums? Maybe you haven't seen them, and maybe there aren't great rows of bleak tenements with fire escapes and the odor of garlic. But scattered throughout the city are little spots, plague spots they might be termed by one rash enough to call down the ire of the community. But they're here, and they have been here for years.

The accompanying pictures were made yesterday in Fort Wayne. Two of them show well kept places, the others were made in spots that shame the city. Yes, we may not have slums, but we sure have some husky little slumlets.

There are probably a dozen such places scattered throughout the length and breadth of the town. No, it wouldn't do to be too specific as to their location, but you can find them if you're anything of an explorer and really want to look them up.

One of them was the shanty town ordered down by the board of works. This is a row of shacks along new Grand street, east of Hoagland. Those neighbors who do keep their property in good condition have almost given up trying to get the owners and the renters of other nearby property to clean up. The twenty-one shacks are so rickety and filthy that they are a fire as well as a health menace.

Housing and Tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is one of the preventable diseases that has long been allowed to spread with such alarming rapidity that it now is a national menace. It is one of the most contagious diseases, and takes so great a toll of lives in some states that more than two hundred out of ten thousand people die of it each year.

And the spread of tuberculosis could well be stopped by proper living conditions. Improper conditions within a house cause not only the deaths of those who already have contracted tuberculosis, but also the great spread of the disease.

Dr. Hurty, who was laughed at for years and now is famous the world over as the man who saw years ahead of the other members of the medical profession in the matter of disease prevention, says that poor carpenters are one of the greatest assets to the tuberculosis worker. Windows that shrink and clapboards that allow the wind to whistle through them are often the only way fresh air can get into a house.

Open Windows? Never!

There still exists a great prejudice against the open window. You may pass along a Fort Wayne street in even the best neighborhoods any night in the winter, and find many householders fortified against the slightest breath of air that might get in.

Paper stuffing adorns the windows where the sashes have shrunken, and every known method of excluding air has been attempted. This does not refer to the dwelling of the poor man alone, but there are hundreds of prosperous householders who do the same thing.

The accompanying photographs show the good and the bad in Fort Wayne homes. One of them, the upper left, is made in a west end back yard, and shows conditions that make disease almost impossible to exist. The upper right is a back yard, set in between a livery barn and a blacksmith shop, where a man and a woman keep things clean and beautiful in the midst of conditions that are discouraging. The tiny house in the left center and the clothes line view in the bottom right are within 200 feet of this clean and wholesome place.

To Educate Citizens.

Education in regard to the care and prevention of tuberculosis is one of the aims of the Fort Wayne Anti-tuberculosis league, and it is for this campaign of education that a portion of the money made in the sale of red cross seals at Christmas is devoted. The remainder of the fund is used in fighting the plague in other ways.

But housing and home living are the greatest part of this educational campaign. Bad housing is the greatest danger in the spread of tuberculosis, and good housing is the greatest factor in its elimination. Fort Wayne has bad housing conditions as well as good, and the sooner the city awakens and remedies the evil, the sooner the tuberculosis mortality rate will decrease. Twenty-eight per cent. of deaths are due to tuberculosis, and yet less attention is paid to its elimination than there is to the hoof and mouth disease.

Educate the people in regard to their homes, and assist in the elimination of disease.

Tuberculosis is the greatest of the disease dangers.

The league depends on public subscription, the chief feature of which is the Christmas seal campaign.

Each advanced tuberculosis patient infects an average of ten new patients. Tuberculosis patients cost the city and county and the state an enormous amount of money.

It's a business proposition. Each red cross seal sold goes to the furtherance of the campaign to reduce this great annual public expenditure.

WORLD'S GREATEST LADY TENNIS PLAYERS SOON TO CONTEST TITLE.

Long Beach, Cal., Oct. 9.—November 27 promises to be a red letter day in the calendar of tennis fans of the United States.

On that day, and in this city, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, a Norwegian girl, will attempt to wrest from May Sutton Bundy the women's world tennis championship.

It is the second time in her career that the laurels of May Sutton Bundy have been seriously challenged.

Five years ago it was Hazel Hotchkiss who loomed up on the tennis horizon as a possible vanquisher of the incomparable May.

For years the east has been trying to find some one to beat little Mary Browne. Possible champions have been carefully nursed along year after year only to fall before the little whirlwind.

Two views of May Sutton Bundy, who will again play tennis in effort to defeat famous woman.

But this year Molla Bjurstedt came over from Norway and with a nonchalance that was absolutely magnificent banged her way through all opposition to the national and several other titles.

So sweeping was her victory, and so unexpected, that on a moment's notice the east went wild over her, adopted and petted her until she has a following such as no other woman star ever boasted in the reserved cast.

Forgetting that Mary Browne had gone through the best the east had to offer in equally thorough style, not only for one year, but for three successive seasons, the eastern critics have immediately heralded the new national champion as a possible winner over Mrs. Bundy.

The clamour for the battle has been tremendous, and Miss Bjurstedt herself has, in public statements, expressed the wish that she might get a chance to pit her strength against that of the one and only May.

When the proposition was put to her, she accepted as quickly as though she expected to beat May in straight sets.

Only those who saw Mrs. Bundy dispose of Mary Browne at Long Beach this summer with the same determined ease with which she polished off the weaker players, can realize what Miss Bjurstedt is up against.

Those who are staging this greatest of tennis attractions are undoubtedly conferring a great favor on the tennis fans of both east and west who want to compare these two great players.

The easterners want to see if Miss Bjurstedt can beat Mrs. Bundy, while the westerns are anxious to see if Miss Bjurstedt will make any better showing against Mrs. Bundy than Mary Browne did.

LAYMEN IN ANOTHER MISSIONARY EFFORT

Preparations Are Practically Complete for New Campaign.

New York, Oct. 9.—It is announced that preparations are practically complete for the opening of the National Missionary campaign of the Laymen's Missionary movement along similar lines to that which was carried throughout the country a few years ago. The first of the conventions, which are to be held in the leading cities of the country, will be in Chicago, beginning October 14. In all there will be seventy-five big conventions throughout the country, culminating in a national missionary congress in Washington next April. The home and foreign missionary agencies of the United States are cooperating in the campaign, and some of them are throwing the entire strength of their organization into it to the exclusion of other forms of missionary inspiration and education for the next year.

Within the past two weeks special conferences have been held for the organization and training of men who are to take part in the campaign. The Methodists met at Ocean Grove, N. J., the Congregationalists at Chicago and the Presbyterians at Atlantic City. From forty to seventy men were in attendance at each conference.

The Methodist church is making special effort to conserve the results that will accrue from the results of the campaign. A number of bishops will give most of their time to the work and a number of able missionary leaders have been recalled from foreign lands. These with home missionaries, will make a staff of more than fifty Methodists in the campaign who will have the cooperation of thousands of pastors in the territory of the convention cities.

The Presbyterians, as well as the Methodists, will send agents to each convention city in advance of the convention to see that the denomination is well represented by delegates. The Presbyterian plans are in charge of Secretary David McConaughy, in New York, and Dr. W. A. Marquis, in Chicago.

Most of the foreign missionaries of the Episcopal church who are on furlough will be organized for work in preparation for the campaign. John W. Wood, secretary of the board of missions, is organizing the Episcopal forces. Representatives of the church will also visit each convention city some days or weeks prior to the convention for the purpose of bringing out the full strength of the Episcopalians. Bishop Kinsolving, of Brazil, is returning to the United States to be a speaker, and in addition to other bishops and clergy, many foreign missionaries are being recalled.

A committee of secretaries of congregational missionary societies of which Dr. Reuben L. Breed is chairman, is planning the largest possible co-operation in at least forty of the chief convention centers where Congregationalism is strongest. The committee's aim is to put at least 20,000 Congregational delegates into forty or more conventions.

The Northern Baptist convention at Los Angeles last May endorsed the National Missionary campaign and turned over to Dr. John M. Moore, secretary of one of its important committees, the formation of plans for co-operation. Under Dr. Moore's direction a special force of missionaries and secretaries is being organized for three or four weeks of preparatory and follow-up work in connection with each convention.

Disciples, United Brethren, Lutherans, United Presbyterians, the two branches of the Reformed church, the Southern Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterians and other denominations are also making the most careful and thorough preperations for co-operation.

Masked Man Attempts Robbery in Lafayette Business District.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—A hold-up in the center of Lafayette's business district was attempted last night when a masked man walked into the Deck & Frasch grocery, across the street from the Hotel Lahr, and, pointing a revolver at Henry Frasch, demanded money and something to eat. Mr. Frasch was kneeling in front of the safe, about to lock it. The stranger held the revolver close to the frightened storekeeper's head and warned him not to say a word or he would shoot him. He grasped the coat collar of the grocer when a noise at the front door caused the man to flee by a rear door. He disappeared in an alley. Frasch was so overcome it was some time before he could telephone the police who searchd all night and day for the man. He could not be found. He wore a mask and Frasch says he believes he is a negro.

BALLINGER WINS THE FIRST PRIZE

T. W. Demarest, Otto Schroll, B. H. Hudson, O. C. Wright, Guy Scott, R. G. Jones, Harvey Hall and J. F. Birthwhistle, who composed Fort Wayne's representation in the annual inspection party on the trip over the lines west of Pittsburg which closed at Pittsburg last night, returned home this morning and are unanimous in the statement that the four days' trip was one of the best they ever made. The weather conditions were ideal and nothing happened to interrupt the movement of the trains, the business of the men they carried nor the pleasure of the trip. Interest now centers in the award of the $1,500 prizes for the best roadbed and other features connected with maintenance-of-way work. Only one award was decided upon, there being so much figuring connected with the work of rendering the decisions that it will be several days before the complete announcement is made. The first prize $200, for sub-division, went to W. L. Ballinger, supervior of the Indianapalis division. The second also went to that division. Bradford carried off the first and Indianapolis the second. Fort Wayne came in for third. The other prizes to be announced later are $100 to the track foreman having the best section; $150 to supervisor having best subdivision based on all points and $50 to the section foreman having the best section.

GAVE $5,400 IN PRIZES.

Pennsylvania Railroad Awards Men For Good Track Work.

Fifty-four hundred dollars as prizes for maintaing sections of track in the best condition during the past year were awarded Tuesday by the Pennsylvania railroad to supervisors and assistant supervisors.

The first prize, amounting to $800 for the supervisor and $400 for the assistant, for best section of track, was presented to C. Z. Moore, supervisor, and L. R. Fleming, assistant supervisor, who have charge of the track between Dillerville, Pa., and Harrisburg. The other prizes were as follows:

Four premiums of $600, of which $600 was for the supervisor and $200 for the assistant; for the best line and surface on a main line superintendent's division between Jersey City and Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and Washington:

C. M. Wisman, supervisor, H. M. Grimm, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between Tullytown, Pa., and Dean, N. J.

W. T. Hanly, supervisor, J. B. Baker, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between Marysville, Pa., and Thompsontown, Pa.

R. H. Pinkham, supervisor, F. X. Bradley, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between New Florence and Donohoe, Pa.

G. H. B. English, supervisor, C. M. Hursh, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between Wilmington, Del., and Perryville, Md.

A special "improvement" premium of $1,000, $700 to the supervisor, and $300 to the assistant, for the greatest improvement made in the line and surface of a supervisor's section of track, was awarded to W. G. Shaner, supervisor, and T. K. Minsker, assistant supervisor, who have charge of the track from Baltimore to Springfield, Md.

These awards were made upon the basis of frequent inspections during the past year by a special committee. Among the methods used to learn the exact condition of the "line and surface" of the main lines, was to place glasses of water on the sills of windows on each side of the special inspection car at the end of a running train. Every "spill" of water occurring on each supervisor's section was carefully recorded as a demerit. There was also a machine on the floor of the car which recorded the jolts of the train from side to side and up and down. These records formed the basis on which the committee decided the prize awards.

C. H. Hitzeman will resume his duties in the shop clerk's office at the Fort Wayne Electric works next Monday. With Mrs. Hitzeman he was spending the week at Detroit.

Blacksmith Samuel Dunbar, of the Pennsylvania shops, is entertaining his father and mother, from Tennessee. Mr. Dunbar escorted his father through the big shops this morning.

Nickel Plate Conductor A. E. Urbahns reported for duty this morning. He had been laying off to entertain his brothers, Will and Emil Urbahns, of Chicago and Fon du Lac.

Daniel Petgen, foreman of the Pennsylvania tin and pipe department, celebrated his birthday today by working as usual. The number of the anniversary could not be learned on account of the modesty of Mr. Petgen.

Engineer and Mrs. M. R. Snyder have returned from Findlay, Ohio, where they attended the funeral of her mother a few days ago. Mr. Snyder reported for work on the Nickel Plate this morning.

Mrs. Bertha Young, of 422 West Fourth street, wife of Robert Young, of the Kletts Lumber yards, was taken to the St. Joseph hospital last night for a surgical operation for gallstones. She is quite sick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander, of Conway, are here to spend a few days with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Graham, of East Lewis street. Mr. Alexander is the chief engineer of the Pennsylvania power plant at Conway.

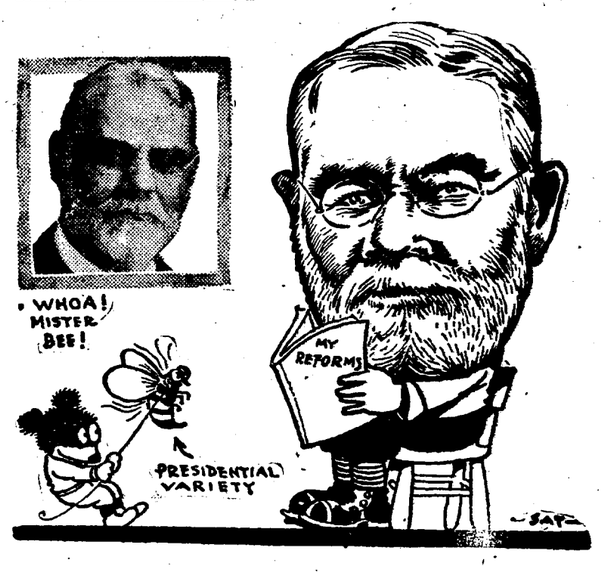
All Mann Hopes to Do is Merely Edge in; Chicago Man is Deemed Model Third Choice

He's a Presidential Possibility on the Theory That All Things Are Possible in Politics.



(Another of the republican dark horses is James R. Mann, of Illinois. Here's the way our political expert sizes him up.—Editor).

On the theory that in politics all things are possible, James R. Mann, of Illinois, is a republican presidential possibility. Re is in that large class which follows Root and Burton—the dark horse class. There will be a flock of dark horses at the next republican convention—perhaps it would be better to say there will be a herd of dark horses.

Mann may not be Illinois' favorite son, but Ed Simms, in the Marquette building, Chicago, is carrying on an active little campaign to get the delegation from the sucker state. He is looking for delegates also from some surrounding states, like Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The Mann candidacy is not blowing any loud trumpets or wielding any big bludgeons. Manager Simms is frankly willing to edge in as a second, third or fourth choice. He simply wants to be on hand to be useful in case he is needed.

Simms foresees an open game at the convention; no candidate with enough at the start to win, and much trading necessary to get a majority of delegates. Big candidates are likely to eat one another up. That is the tradition of political conventions. And when Grandpa Root has been eaten up by Burton, and Uncle Burton has been eaten up by Broker Weeks, and Broker Weeks has been eaten up by Log-Cabin Fairbanks, and when Log-Cabin Fairbanks has been eaten up by somebody else then the chance comes for Jim Mann, Borah, Cummins, Sherman and the rest of the black horse herd.

Jim Mann is republican house leader. He has acted as such since the republicans became the minority in the house, and Uncle Joe Cannon was defeated. Even when Cannon was on the job, Mann, by his great industry, vigor and comparative youth and in the need for making friends among the more progressive republican members of the house became the real republican leader.

Since the democrats have been in control, and Underwood, Fitzgerald and Clark have dictated legislation, Mann has led an amiable and perfunctory opposition to this group.

Mann was born on a farm near Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 20, 1856, making him 59 years old. He was graduated from a Chicago law college in 1881, and began practicing law in that suburb on the southern edge of Chicago which later merged into Hyde Park, and still later was gathered into Chicago. He began his political career as a member of the Oakland school board in the villiage of Hyde Park; then was attorney for the village, and on annexation became alderman for the Thirty-second ward of Chicago. In the city council Mann and "Billy" Kent (now in congress from California), were known as the two "reform" aldermen from the silk-stocking wards of the south side.

Mann became attorney for the South Park board of Chicago in '95 and then by machine nomination was promoted to congress 16 years ago. He has served continuously since then.

Mann was a supporter of Cannon during the latter's long reign. On the other hand, there are spots in Mann's record that make him appear almost like a La Follette. He has taken up certain reform legislation, such as the pure food and drug law and the statute now on the books is largely a result of Wiley, a thing which will always be vastly to his credit. He is the author of the white slave law, a well-intended measure which produces some good, though it has also been a ready instrument for the blackmailer. He aided in the creation of the department of commerce and labor under the vigorous spur of Roosevelt.

These are his principal achievements. None are so radical as to alienate the affections of those bosses who want to nominate Root. Neither are they so radical as to attract the following of Victor Murdock and his group.

When the magnifying glass of the searching bosses gets on the man from Illinois there is no telling what may happen.

WANT BEST EXPERT ON GARBAGE HERE

Council Likely to Reject Contract Made by the Board of Works.

Believing that in order to properly solve Fort Wayne's garbage problem the best expert obtainable should be employed, city council at its meeting Tuesday night may decline to ratify a contract the board of works has made with Engineer Greeley, of Milwaukee, to prepare plans for a new incinerator here. The council special committee on garbage does not favor the contract, it being the belief that Engineer Greeley has nothing to propose except an approval of the plan the board has already made to establish a new crematory at the west end of Huestis avenue. Mr. Greeley's services will cost the city about $800, only $400 less than it will cost to procure the services of Irwin S. Osborn, of Cleveland, who is recognized as the foremost garbage disposal engineer in the country, and who has offered to make a complete garbage survey of the city, furnish plans for a crematory, select the most advantageous location and provide specifications for the most modern system of collection. The councilmen do not think it worth while to spend $800 to get an engineer merely to approve what the board proposes to do and that if no more is to be required the money had better be saved.

MAYOR'S VETO MESSAGE.

Enlightens Council on Disapproval of Strike-Breakers' Ordinance.

In his message vetoing the ordinance passed at the last session of the city council aiming at the employment of strike-breakers on the city street car lines, Mayor W. J. Hosey explains why he has disapproved the measure. He says that the ordinance will not only be worthless by the time it can become effective, so far as its primary purpose is concerned, but is an unfair discrimination against the traction company as well as being calculated to interfere with the restoration of effective street car service, which is the thing the administration has been seeking to do. The council is not expected to carry the measure over the veto. The ordinance provides that men in charge of city cars shall have had fourteen days' experience on the local lines. The text of the mayor's message follows:

Mayor Hosey indicated several days ago that he would disapprove the ordinance for the passage of which the rules were suspended at the last meeting of the council.

Mayor's Letter to the Council.

"To the Common Council:

"Gentlemen—I have not approved general ordinance No. 718, which would regulate the employment of conductors and motormen on all street cars in the city of Fort Wayne, for the following reasons:

"This ordinance would prohibit the operation of cars upon the streets of Fort Wayne unless both motormen and conductors have had fourteen days' experience in operating cars on the streets of this city, or unless such motorman and conductors are both accompanied by persons who have had such experience.

"The passage of this ordinance by the council at a single session under a suspension of rules that govern the passage of all ordinances was no doubt due to a desire on its part to relieve and remedy the unfortunate condition of affairs that immediately followed and resulted from the suspension of street car service on the morning of Sept. 25.

"These regretable conditions may be briefly summarized as follows: Sudden stoppage of street car traffic, causing considerable hardship and inconvenience to the public owing to inability to travel to and from homes and places of employment and business by the usual means of transportation; the lack of continued employment by considerable numbers of law-abiding, home-owning, taxpaying, competent and in every way worthy citizens who have heretofore been operating the street cars in our city; the bringing into our city from abroad numerous persons to act as strike-breakers, or substitutes for the men previously operating cars, and who have no interest in our city except their present employment, and who are without experience in operating cars over the streets of Fort Wayne—which has resulted in numerous derailments of cars at curves and switches, collisions with vehicles, failure to give or observe proper signals for the regulation of traffic and the safety of our citizens traveling the streets; also the general disruption of mercantile and other lines of business.

"Any sincere effort to end this situation is worthy of support, but I cannot see that the enforcement of this ordinance would in the slightest degree tend to accomplish this purpose. On the contrary, I believe it would tend to widen the breach now existing between the company and its car men and intensify the tension between the company and the public.

"As for the main purpose sought to be accomplished, that is the prohibition of any inexperienced men running the street cars, it would likewise fail, for your honorable body must certainly realize that the brief period of probation—fourteen days—would be sufficient to legalize and validate the continued employment of every strike-breaker.

"For the above reasons I have not approved the ordinance and hope you will find in them justification for my action and trust that the decision will meet with your approvel.

"WILLIAM HOSEY,
"Mayor of Fort Wayne."

WILL CONFIRM CONTRACTS.

At the meeting of the park board Monday afternoon, that body will approve contracts signed for sidewalks, curbs and gutters on Rudisill avenue, west of Calhoun street, and east of Calhoun from that thoroughfare to Piqua avenue, and for the opening and grading of Rudisill, from Bowser avenue to Anthony boulevard and opening and grading Anthony from Rudisill to Pontiac street. The board has readvertised for bids for paving Rudisill boulevard, from Calhoun to Broadway, and will receive proposals for the work October 18.

SIELING CLEANS UP ON A CORNER GANG

Young Man Uses Fists to Resent Insults Given His Wife.

Barney Sieling, a young veteran of the regular army and son of Dick Sieling, the well known grocer on Wayne trace, was tried in the city court, Saturday morning, on one of two affidavits filed against him for assault and came out of the affair with his victory in combat ornamented by another at law. The complaining witnesses were Carl Wiedeman and Henry Bohda, youths residing on Chestnut street and reputed members of a "corner gang" that has been causing annoyance to east end people during the summer. Sieling was tried on the Wiedeman charge. He said he and his wife were passing the corner where the gang holds forth. Friday evening, and that offensive remarks were made to Mrs. Sieling. He stopped to make a protest and finally waded into the pair and gave them a rather undertone chastisement. He said that he and Mrs. Sieling were similarly insulted by the gang several weeks ago and at that time had given the boys warning. Wiedeman admitted that he belonged to the "corner gang." Chief of Police Lenz testified that he received a number of complaints about this gang and had repeatedly sent a motorcycle officer to investigate, but that the boys would always disperse before the officer arrived. Judge Kerr gave the boys a severe lecture and gave Sieling a practical acquittal by an indefinite continuance. The general opinion about the court room was that Sieling had rendered a public service of some value.

Young Thief is Bound Over.

Frank Boomer, who stole a diamond ring worth $75 and a valuable gold watch from the home of Fred Schlup, eight miles southwest of the city on the Huntington road, Friday morning, and was arrested a few hours later by Detective Sergeant Immel while trying to pawn the ring in a Main street shop, pleaded guilty Saturday morning in the city court to a charge of grand larceny and was certified to the circuit court under $1,000 bond. Boomer, who claims to be a circus performer and says his home is in Muncie, had been given hospitality for the night at the Schlup home and stole the watch and ring just before he left Friday morning.

Own Story Made Him Laugh.

When John Augustus, 715 Clay street, heard the police testimony that on Friday night when arrested he had lifted a dolorous wail about having been assaulted and robbed of $60, he let himself go and laughed a deep and tickled laugh. When he took the stand and was asked if he had been robbed of $60, he curled up in convulsions in his seat and laughed some more and harder. The idea that he had been caught with $60 on him was about the killingest joke turned loose on society for a long time. Otherwise, John Augustus pleaded guilty to having been drunk. He was bleeding copiously from two wounds on his face when he accosted Officer Ward Hall Friday night and started the romance of the robbery. Judge Kerr let him go back to his family.

Auto Thief Goes to Higher Court.

Waiving arraignment on a charge of grand larceny, Melvin Brownell was bound over to the circuit court and went back to jail in default of $1,000. He is the youth who stole the Oakland touring car belonging to Arthur F. Smith, 710 West Berry street, November 21, 1914, kept the car until last summer, abandoned it in South Bend, stole another in that city and was arrested for the theft by the police of Gary. He was brought here when he got a suspended sentence for the South Bend job.

Other City Court Cases.

John Anderson was fined $5 and costs and George Stalder was turned loose after being tried on charges of disorderly conduct. The two had a noisy brawl in the apartments of Stalder's mother, with whom Anderson had been a lodger in the old Bank block.

William Klaehn, residing in the country, was speeding his motorcycle on West Main street as he came down town to keep an appointment with a doctor, Friday evening. He narrowly missed a collision with a police car carrying Officers Kavanaugh, Barr and others of the flying squadron. They arrested him for speeding. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs.

Fred Unger, a drunk who talked loud and profanely to Officer Godfrey, was allowed to go, after pleading guilty.

Emma Lynch, who gulped all her medicine in one dose at the jail, was reported in worse condition than on Friday and did not appear to answer to a drunk charge. She will be heard Tuesday if able to appear.

Eduard Tino, an alien chef who dallies too much with his "cooking whisky," was given a chance to leave town.

John Jones, of Muncie, who had a bloody face when arrested, and John Fry, both drunks, were continued to Monday and locked up for keeping.

President and His Fiancee Quit New York After Shopping Tour.

New York, Oct. 9.—President Wilson and his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt, remained in New York today for a few hours before leaving for Philadelphia to witness the second game of the world's series. Both were happy over the enthusiastic reception accorded them following their arrival here late yesterday.

Despite the late hour at which the president and members of his family retired last night they were up early today. The president had breakfast at the home of his friend, Col. E. M. House, while Mrs. Galt, with her mother, Mrs. W H. Bolling and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin, breakfasted together in Mrs. Galt's suite at an uptown hotel.

The president and Mrs. Galt arranged to meet at nine o'clock today and spend the remaining two hours of their stay in the shopping district. Both the president and Mrs. Galt received scores of telegrams of congratulations at breakfast. Many of these were from foreign countries.

When Mrs. Galt arose today she found in her suite a large bouquet of flowers which the president had sent her. She appeared interested in the weather and when she learned that it was clear and cool said she was glad to get out of doors and especially to start for the world's series game.

A Box in the grandstand at the National league park in Philadelphia has been reserved for the president and his party. President Wilson will throw the first ball used in today's game. Immediately after the game the president and his guests will return to Washington in a special train

The two hours previous to their departure Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Galt, accompanied by her mother, spent in an automobile drive in the crisp sunshine. Their route took them up Riverside drive, through Central park and down Fifth avenue. They were almost everywhere recognized and greeted with cheers or handclapping which kept the president doffing his hat while his bride-to-be acknowledged the greetings with smiles and bows.

An incident which excited the amusement of pedestrians on Riverside drive was the loss of his hat. A gust of wind removed the hat. A secret service man from the car that followed jumped to the rescue, but the hat took a journey of several hundred feet before it was overtaken.

Coming down Fifth avenue the president's car led a procession of nearly fifty automobiles. None was allowed to pass it until it turned off to go to the Pennsylvania station. Mrs. Galt was modishly attired today in a new gown and fur-trimmed hat of black and wore a large bouquet of red roses, a gift from the president.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—Purdue's football team hoped to make a better showing against Beloit here today than it made last Saturday against Wabash when the score was 7 to 7.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 9.—James Thorpe, the Indian star, who has been engaged to assist coach Indiana's football team, will see the team in action for the first time today when it meets Miami here. A close game was expected.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 9.—A hard fought game was expected when Notre Dame and Haskell Indians meet on the gridiron here this afternoon.

CITY LIGHT & POWER DEP'T.

TWO PHOTOGRAPHS OF PRESIDENT WILSON'S FIANCEE WHO WILL SOON BECOME THE "FIRST LADY OF THE LAND."

Here's Mrs. Norman B. Galt as she is today, showing as no other of her pictures shows her striking beauty and her proud stateliness. This picture was rushed direct to The Sentinel from Washington, D. C., by our Washington correspondent, who had been told to get the BEST picture in existence. Other pictures have reached us from various sources, but this is the best we have seen.

This interesting photograph was taken some years ago, while Mr. Galt was still alive, and shows the future mistress of the white house as she appeared while she was the reigning beauty of her select little circle in Washington. At this time she had not taken charge of the jewelry store, the success of which demonstrated in recent years her remarkable business ability.

OHIO FARMER KILLED IN FREIGHT YARDS

John Tilton Meets Death and A. Y. Walton is Seriously Injured.

While walking through the Wabash freight yards Friday evening about 7:50 o'clock, John Tilton, 62 years old, of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, was killed and A. Y. Walton, who lives two miles west of Sycamore, Ohio, was seriously injured when struck by freight engine No. 898. The accident occurred about three hundred feet west of the elevation on Fairfield avenue.

Tilton was still breathing when found, but died on the stretcher as he was being carried into St. Joseph's hospital by Station Master Fred Fry, Driver Gus Buuck and Officer Elmer Young, of the police ambulance crew. Tilton was knocked for some distance, his skull being fractured, left leg broken below the knee and the side of his face terribly crushed.

Walton was able to walk with assistance to Fairfield avenue, and from there was taken to the hospital in Dr. C. F. Kaadt's car. He was crushed about the mouth and face and also sustained a bad rupture. He will recover.

Tilton and Walton are farmers and arrived in the city shortly after dark with several car loads of stock from Kansas City, making the entire trip in the stock cars so as to feed and care for the animals. After reaching Fort Wayne they decided to go on to their homes on a passenger over the Pennsylvania and were walking through the freight yards toward the station when Walton, turning around, saw a freight engine approaching but a few feet away. He yelled and jumped to one side, but not quick enough to avoid being struck a glancing blow by the tender. Tilton had not heard the train and was struck before he had any opportunity of saving himself.

Coroner Edward H. Kruse was notified and ordered Tilton's body taken to Wellman's undertaking parlors. Notes to the amount of $13,780.24 and $44.78 in cash were found on him. Both Tilton and Walton were married and have families and have been engaged in the farming and stock business for a number of years. The locomotive was in charge of Engineer Brad berry and Fireman Marlow.

The body was shipped to Upper Sandusky for burial at 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Wellman & Wellman.

ARMED MEN SCOURING HILLS FOR ROBBERS

Little Progress Made in Rounding Up B. & O. Train Bandits.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Hundreds of armed men scoured the hills of Harrison, Pleasants and Dodridge counties during the night in search of the highwaymen who early yesterday robbed Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 1 at Central station and got away with unsigned bank notes said to have a face value of $500,000.

Every available clue was followed by sheriffs, United States deputy marshals and posses of citizens, but information reaching here this morning was that no real progress had been made. The hunt was taken up again soon after daybreak, in the hope of locating the rifled mail bags or the place where the men had spent the night. Railroad officials were in close touch with the situation, but declared they had no news.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wade Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Sheperd motored to Indianapolis on Saturday, to visit friends over Sunday.

Stock Train Plunges Over 30-Foot Embankment Near Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—The engine, tender and sixteen cars of eastbound Wabash freight train No. 96 jumped the track and plunged over a thirty-foot embankment a half mile east of here at 5 o'clock this morning.

More than 300 sheep and a number of cattle were killed. The train crew escaped injury. Traffic was tied up for several hours.

SELLS CIGARETTES TO LAD AND IS FINED

Mrs. Bessie Ochstein admitted in the city court Saturday morning that she had sold a package of cigarettes to Morris Alston, 8-year-old son of Samuel Alston, 1715 Maumee avenue, and was fined $10 and costs. The principal and the convincing testimony aside from this was given by the little lad himself, who, with some reluctance but with laconic explicitness, detailed the transaction. He admitted that he had "hooked" a dime at home and said he bought the cigarettes without trouble at the grocery store of Abe Ochstein, 2125 Maumee avenue, being served on one occasion by Mrs. Ochstein and on another by her husband. Mr. Alston stated that his wife missed a dime and suspecting her little son of taking it went through his clothing after he had been put to bed and found a pipe, a package of tobacco and a handful of cigarettes. The cigarettes were offered in evidence. Mrs. Ochstein's defense was that the lad said he wanted the cigarettes for his father. Ochstein said he could not recall that he had ever sold the boy cigarettes.

FIND NO TRACE OF HUNGTINGTON ROBBER

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 9.—Police here have failed to obtain a trace of the bandit who Wednesday held up J. C. Collesser, ticket agent of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, in the station here and escaped with $225. The robber threatened the agent with a revolver while employes of a restaurant in the same room were about fifteen feet away. The holdup was in plain view of persons in front of the station. One waiting passenger saw the robber's revolver, but thought a friend was merely showing the agent a new weapon. The bandit sauntered from the station, walked half a square west to the corner of the police station and disappeared.

NEW CAPITAL ALL PLEDGED.

Plans for Reorganization of Wabash Near Completion.

New York, Oct. 9.—Plans for reorganizing the Wabash railroad, which has been in the hands of the receiver since the winter of 1911, are soon to be perfected, it was announced here yesterday by the reorganization managers, who declared that the full amount of new capital under the reorganization plan, $27,720,000, has been pledged. The announcement further said that the first refunding and extension bondholders, by paying in practically all of the assessment, become the virtual owners of the reorganized road.

Famous English Actor-Knight Arrives In New York For Farewell

SIR JOHNSTON FORBES-ROBERTSON MISS LAURA COWIE

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson arrived in New York this morning (Oct. 7) on the steamship New York to make his final tour of America. Forbes-Robertson, who has already said his farewell to London and New York and many of the leading American cities, will this season appear in only those places to which he has not already said farewell. His tour opens at Richmond, Va., on Oct. 11 and includes the principal southern and western cities. He is accompanied by Miss Laura Cowie, the twenty-three-year-old leading woman who won such a decided and sensational success wherever she appeared with Forbes-Robertson last season. His entire London company of fifty people arrived on the same boat. He has also brought his complete productions, including his new setting for "Hamlet," which is to be given with curtains. "Hamlet," "The Light That Failed" and "Passing of the Third Floor Back" will comprise his repertoire. He will travel in his private car.

"I am glad to be back in America," said Sir Johnston to the reporters who met him on the dock. "America has been so kind and generous to me. It is with sadness that I think that this is to be my last visit to America as an actor, but my farewell is real. I shall never act again in any city I have said farewell to. I am undertaking a long tour and, when it is over, will have appeared in every important city in your great country. My wife (Gertrude Elliott) has remained at home with our children, the youngest of whom is hardly a year old."

DISHES THE BOYS LIKE

BOYS should be fed upon food that will give them strength, and yet at the same time mothers must remember that they sometimes like the dainty things as well as little sister does.

In making the rice pudding this week, just for a change and to tickle the palate of the boys try this recipe: Wash well half a pound of dates and stone them. Chop fine and add to the usual plain rice pudding. Dates are nourishing and all boys like them. In making the usual dish of corn starch, which is bound to appear on the table of all growing children once in so often, try this: In place of the usual amount of sugar added to it, sweeten with a cup of maple sirup, and the boys are sure to call for "more."

Banana Croquettes—This is a nourishing dish, easily prepared at a few minutes' notice. Peel and scrape ripe bananas. Cut each one in two pieces and cut off the sharp end, making them look like a croquette. Roll them in chopped nuts of any kind—either peanuts, hickory or walnuts. Lay on a leaf of lettuce and serve with a little French dressing containing a great deal of olive oil. This is a splendid luncheon dish for the hungry schoolboy.

Meat Loaf—Pass through the chopper sufficient cold meat of any kind, veal, beef, chicken or lamb, to make three cupfuls when packed. Season very highly. Add a teaspoonful of celery seed, and some onion juice, and finally half a cup of stale bread crumbs, teaspoon of chopped parsley and two well-beaten eggs. Pack into a loaf and place on a shallow buttered pan. With a wooden skewer make holes along the top of the loaf and insert strips of fat salt pork, allowing the pork to project about half an inch above the surface, and be sure to pack the meat firmly back around it. Bake in a quick oven about three-quarters of an hour, set aside to cool and serve in slices very cold with relishes of pickles or catchup. This makes a splendid and substantial luncheon dish for the boys.

THE STOCKING IS ON WRONG SIDE OUT.

IF SO, YOU WILL BE INTERESTED IN THESE HOUSEHOLD TRADITIONS

IF THE DRESS SKIRT IS ACCIDENTALLY TURNED UP AT THE BOTTOM IT MEANS A DAY FULL OF JOY.

ODDS AND ENDS

AMATEUR dressmakers will find better results if, when pressing seams, tucks, plaits, etc., a newspaper folded several times is placed between the iron and the article to be pressed. The paper lays flatter and firmer than a cloth, which, as every one knows, is apt to wrinkle at times and again the iron seems to slip more evenly, which of course, improves the pressing. The number of thicknesses will, of course, depend upon the heat of the iron and the nature of the fabric to be pressed.

FOR the economical girl who is fond of lingerie waists and who likes much insertion upon them, it is a good idea to re-enforce the lace with a little strip of net. This will not show, and it will undoubtedly prevent the lace from pulling and will prolong the life of the blouse by years, not days. Any good wash net will do, and it may be either sewn on with the lace or it may be afterward sewn on the other side by hand. Badly torn places in lace may frequently be mended with a little net, and the result is exceptionally good.

OLD umbrellas may be recovered to do excellent service for every-day use, or for children's school umbrellas. Remove the old cover and metal cap which held its top edge. A good, smooth satine with a dull finish is good material. Use one of the sections of old covering for a prattern. Lay it always with the outer edge on the selvage and cut as many as required. Sew together in French seam—first a tiny one on the right side, then turn in and sew again. Slip cover over the rod and tack strongly at the points of the ribs. Tack the top and replace metal cap. Tack seams at the middle of ribs also.

MANY housekeepers who like whipped cream as an accompaniment for broths, chocolate or desserts think they must order cream of a special richness. This generally must be done the day before and always cost double the price of ordinary cream. One young woman discovered last winter a way of easily making her daily supply of cream whip. She merely added a teaspoonful of granulated sugar to every pint, had it ice cold and quickly whipped it to a thick froth in the churn. A special whipped cream churn is, by the way, an investment that pays for every housekeeper. The old method of using a fork and skimming off froth as it comes to the surface is a waste of time that the modern woman cannot afford.

A FETCHING new automobile bonnet is poke shape, flaring slightly around the face and lined with soft shirred silk. At one side is a huge cockade of chiffon cloth the color of the veil, with a gilt or silver cabuchon in the center. Two veils, one dark, the other light, are draped diagonally across the crown of the bonnet to back of the cockade and brought around to the front where they hook under the chin and fall in straight ends almost to the knees. The cockades head each of these ties, forming a pretty frame to the face. Charming color effects can be had with such a treatment. One bonnet was of khaki colored felt, lined with a paler tone and the veils were dark brown and the shade of facing, with gilt centers to the rosettes. Two or three tones of purple, or dark and light green, or blue would be equally good.

JEWELED daggers for the hair to suit the time of the day will shortly become social necessities, according to jewelers who make "art" ornaments a specialty. Jeweled daggers are not a new fashion, but those that are now being displayed are larger than the pointards which were worn about forty years ago and are indeed much more formidable-looking weapons. Although only measuring from six to ten inches in length, they could easily be employed as a means of defense in time of trouble. Curl daggers are shown in many designs. The little blade is fitted with a tortoise shell or carved horn handle for morning wear. An enamel hilt decorated in shades to match the gown is very artistic in the afternoon. Red enamel shining among dark braids of peacock blue in fair curls make a charming accessory to a successful toilet. The evening dress daggers can be procured in the most elaborate patterns, and vary in costliness from those with a silver hilt set with rough turquoise, amethyst or pink coral to elaborate designs in gold, inlaid with precious stones.

BOYS often have inflamed eyes from dust. For this provide an eye wash of boracic acid and tepid water, allowing as much of the powder as you can put on the end of a penknife to a half-cup of tepid water. Use an eye cup for bathing the eye. Boys who "simply grow" suffer torture with ingrown toe nails. The natural instinct of the boy is to cut the toe nails, as he does his finger nails, in a semicircle at the top. Teach him to reverse the cutting, making a dip or "v" toward the center of the nail and not cutting down at the corners. It is well also to file the nail a little in the center at the top and always to keep the skin pressed back around the root of the nail. A festered, ingrown nail is just one step from blood poisoning. For cracked lips there is nothing better than good old-fashioned camphor ice, and for chapped hands provide mutton tallow or a good cold cream. The tallow should be slightly warmed before it is applied to the hands. And a pair of father's old gloves drawn over the greased hands at night will expedite recovery and save the bedding.

IF the interest in your missionary society needs what used to be called an "arousement," start a missionary picture gallery. Collect all the pictures you can of countries in which your particular missionaries are working. Any picture representing scenery, custom, prominent persons or any historical incident will serve. Mount them on cardboard. They may be used in various ways. Hang them for view at the next missionary meeting, just as if they were pictures by celebrated painters, and let everybody talk about them or have one person describe all or assign one woman to describe each picture. They may also be used as a traveling gallery, loaning a picture to a child to take home for a week. You may be sure that every member of the family will know something about that picture during its stay in that home. Never throw away a picture which may be turned to account in your mission work. Cut them from the magazines and newspapers with the articles about them and save for the right occasion.

HOW TO KEEP GOOD CLOTHES

BY EDNA EGAN.

A WOMAN who travels a great deal and lives in hotels and boarding houses most of the time, was disclosing her secrets and treasures not long ago. She is particularly smart and well groomed, and she is anything but rich.

"How do you do it?" I demanded.

"Mrs. Blank is a very good friend of mine, and she has given me the most unique and useful presents since I have known her. The first was a small electric iron. Now, most hotels and boarding houses have electricity, and it is easy to heat an electric iron in the privacy of your own room and press your clothes. I used to take out a bureau drawer for all my pressing, turn it upside down, and fold a Turkish towel or bedspread upon the bottom. Of course, one has to be carefudl not to scorch the things utilized. But good results can be obtained in this way.

"Later, Mrs. Blank presented me with a little jointed ironing board that unbent at its hinges, folded up, and could be slipped away in a bright chintz bag that just fitted it. I matched this chintz and made a cover for my iron, like a tea cosey. It was pretty, and hid the iron if I wanted to set it in a bookcase or cabinet.

"The next time I had a birthday, Mrs. Blank brought me a pneumatic dress form! When it is not blown up, it can be folded and laid away with clothes in a trunk. I had a lining made to fit it, and now, as soon as I settle anywhere, I blow it up and put the lining on. Then I can alter and fix any of my clothes; if I buy something ready made and it does not fit perfectly, I can remedy that with a quarter of an hour's work; and the form is invaluable to put a gown over when I come in from a reception or the theater at night. Hanging thus on the form, most of the wrinkles disappear during my sleep."

Many women travel with a wood alcohol iron and find it most satisfactory. Clothes must be frequently pressed if one is to look well, and hotel tailors and laundresses charge high for a simple service.

Nor can any woman of limited means get along without washing out small pieces in traveling or living in resort hotels. A private bathroom is a luxury that few can afford. Wonders may be accomplished in a basin by the use of a bottle of ammonia, soap that may be shaved and whipped into a lather, and an ordinary heavy glass tumbler that may be used as a vacuum washer. Care must be taken not to let the glass strike against the side of the bowl. But it will take out as much dirt and take it out as easily as a regular washer.

LOVE WITHOUT JEALOUSY

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

MANY women foolishly consider that they are not well loved unless the man of their heart shows a certain amount of jealousy. They rather encourage the hideous trait, not realizing that what they once looked upon as a form of flattery may soon turn into a curse.

The jealous man is an impossible person to live with. He is the sort of individual who questions his wife's every word, who wants to pry into all her actions and secret thoughts.

If she has been shopping and is late for dinner he suspects her of taking tea with another man. If she is silent and absent-minded, he accuses her of thinking of some one beside himself. Whenever a friend, if he happens to be of the masculine gender, looks upon her admiringly, the jealous husband, instead of being proud that he has married a woman who commands the attention of others, fusses and fumes, making himself as well as his wife miserable over these slight attentions.

Perfect love is founded upon perfect faith and trust. This is the ideal affection between a man and woman, the sort that lasts through years of trial and many tribulations, the kind that rises supreme above suspicion. Where absolute truth and confidence exists there is no room for the green-eyed monster. It is only where the course of true love ceases to run smoothly or where the affection is an unlawful one that jealousy creeps in to ruin the life of both the man and woman concerned.

Heaven help the man who has tied himself to a jealous woman! Unless he can cure her of the habit in the beginning of their married existence his life will not be worth living. She will pry into his business for no other reason than to ascertain whether he employs a pretty stenographer. She will question him as to his actions every moment he is out of her sight, suspecting that his evenings spent at the club are in reality given over to the society of other women. Often she is jealous even of her own girl friends where her husband is concerned, accusing him of displaying too great an interest in them, when all he had in mind was the showing of polite attention.

"What do you mean by looking so often at Laura?" questioned one irate wife after an evening spent at a game of cards in the home of a friend.

"I didn't look at her any more than was necessary," replied the confused husband. "She was my partner, and I had to follow her leads, didn't I?"

But nothing will appease the fears of a jealous wife, just as it takes nothing to arouse her suspicions.

What any woman can expect to gain by adopting such an attitude is more than the outside observer can hope to guess. All she accomplishes is to make her husband regret the bonds that hold him prisoner, to sigh for the freedom which he gave up so gladly when he married her.

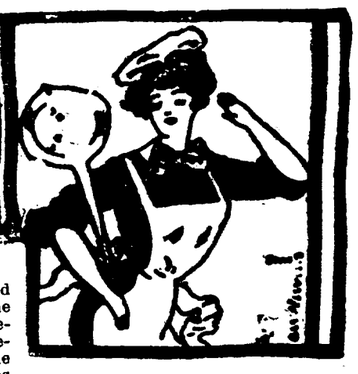
FOR THE NURSERY

IT is an easy matter to give baby his medicine, if a "medicine dropper" is used. Drop the medicine under the back part of the tongue.

For toothache or earache a bag of salt, made hot in the oven and laid against the afflicted side of the face, is a most excellent remedy. If covered with a soft piece of flannel it will retain its heat for a long time.

Teach the small children unselfishness by letting them know their little attentions and gifts are essential to your happiness. If begun early the habit of sharing their pleasures will be formed, and will prove the first step toward planning a pleasure for someone else.

THE KITCHEN



Sweet Potato Pineapple.

Boil and scrape six medium sized sweet potatoes; mash, adding one large tablespoon butter, one tablespoon light brown sugar, two tablespoons thin cream, or rich milk, one good pinch grated nutmeg, two shakes red pepper. Mold into shape of pineapple; with sharp pointed teaspoon make little depressions around it, and in each put a tiny bit of butter. Place on buttered pan in hot oven. When the butter bits have made light brown specks like the eyes in real pineapples, remove from oven, put green sprig in top, and serve. Individual pineapples are as pretty as can be.

Home-Made Marshmallows.

Delicious home-made marshmallows are made as follows: One package prepared gelatin, four cups granulated sugar, dissolve the sugar in twelve tablespoonfuls cold water and boil until it strings, pour onto the gelatin that has been moistened with sixteen tablespoonfuls cold water and beat vigorously until stiff. Flavor with vanilla and pour on butter tins. Cut into squares when cold, with a heated knife, and turn in powdered sugar mixed with a little cornstarch. Coat these by dipping in melted chocolate, without turning in powdered sugar.

Oatmeal Bread.

Two cups of oatmeal, one-half cup of light brown sugar, one-half cup of New Orleans molasses, two teaspoons salt, on to this put two cups of boiling water. When cool add one compressed yeast dissolved in a little lukewarm water, one cup of seeded raisins (floured), three cups of wheat flour; mix well. Let rise over night. In the morning add just enough wheat flour to collect together; do not make too stiff. Make into two loaves; put in pans. Let rise until light. Bake in moderate oven about forty-five minutes.

Bo-Peeps.

Cut lamb chops thin, trim off fat and bone, dip in melted butter, make rich biscuit dough, roll to a half inch thickness, cut as for biscuit, place chop between two of these, press edges together, brush with white of egg to prevent them from spreading apart; place them in buttered pan, cover and bake fifty minutes in moderate oven. They may be eaten with preserves or jam. Tie the Bo-Peeps separately with bow of oil paper, white or colored, and serve on hot plates. A dish of green peas may also be served with them. They are delicious and appropriate for any luncheon or for a child's party.

Priscilla's Pudding.

One large cup each of stewed pumpkin and stewed tart apples, one-half cup sifted bread crumbs, one-half cup sugar beaten with the yolks of two eggs, one-half cup seeded and chopped raisins, and one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, and ginger; mix all together with one cup of creamy milk and add two tablespoons of brandy if you use it; bake one-half hour in a quick oven and spread with a frosting made of the whites of two eggs, a small cupful powdered sugar, and a few nuts ground fine. This is delicious and will be relished by those who consider pie crust unhygienic.

Roast Ham.

Place a ham skin uppermost in a large pan, cover with water, and soak overnight. In the morning scrape and lay on a white cloth large enough to cover it perfectly, laying it with the skin down. Make a stiff paste of flour and cold water and spread over all the skinless portion, half an inch thick. Bring the cloth up over the whole to keep the paste in place, and sew firmly. Place in a large meat pan, with the skin uppermost, and bake in a moderate oven. Allow not quite twenty minutes per pound for cooking. Put a little water in the pan, and if much fat bakes out turn off and add more water occasionally. When taken from the oven peel off cloth, paste, and skin; stick cloves in the top, and brown slightly.

EDDTORIUL ON THE PUNKIN

We have wrote a grate menny grate eddytoriuls in the Bugle during our term, whitch we have spent for moren 20 yrs as edditor, prop., printer, bizness manager, advertising manager, offis boy et cettery, but so far as we can recall we ain't nevver as yet wrote a eddytoriul on that most useful and delishus fruit, the "Cow Punkin."

Strange as it may seem, we ain't nevver happend to have it ockur to us to dash off a eddytoriul for this collum in all them yrs on the "Cow Punkin," and praps we wouldn't nevver of thort to do so at all if it haddent been that only yesterday, as we was on our way down town to the P. O. to git our mail, if there was enny (there wassent), and en root, as we mite say, we was trying to think up some subjeckt to write a eddytoriul about when we happend to stumbel over a cow punkin right at the edge of the sidewalk, whitch had growd on a vine in Widder Skinner's garden, and the vine had crep through the fenct and blossomd and then bore a turrible big punkin whitch we stumbeld over and fell and like to of broke our fool neck. This punkin, belonging to Widder Skinner, is a menace to life and limb, and the Widder ort to pull it and feed it to her cow, but that ain't got nothink to do with a eddytoriul on the "Cow Punkin."

The "Cow Punkin" is planted along about the time corn is planted, and is ushually planted in the cornfield along with the corn. Then when the corn is husked, you'll see the cornfield all cuverd very numerous with big yaller cow punkins of various sizes, some smaller and some as big as a bushel basket.

About the time frost comes, these punkins is all collecktd and hauled into the barn and chopt up with a axe or a corn cutter, and fed in hunks to the cows or cattle. Hogs likes punkins also.

In addishion to beink fine fodder for live stock, the common yaller cow punkin is also turrible good for man as well as beest. Take a reglar cow punkin and take the seeds outen the inside of it and remove the outer skin or peel, and then chop up whats left and bile it soft and tender and ete it with salt and pepper and butter on it, and it'll make your mouth worter. This is cald stewd punkin. Or you kin cut it up into junks and bake it in the stove if you prefer. This is cald baked punkin.

But the way we like our punkin best is in the form of a punkin pie. Eddytorially we are a great hand for punkin pie. We cant jest say offhand how menny punkin pies we would eat if we set out to do it, but we calkilate we could ete about three at one setting. We onct et two without no trubble on a occashion when we happened to go home fer dinner on bake day when our wife had baked two fresh punkin pies, so we set rite down & cleand both of em up without enny effort, and the only reason we diddent ete enny more was becuz we run outen pies.

Threfore let us all take off our hats to the glorious cow punkin, whitch makes life worth living, not only for the dum broot, but also for humans about this time every yr.

SLAB CITY

Jim Hawkins shot at what he thort was a hen-hawk, setting on his henyard fence tother morning, which proved to be a pullet. Hen is a pretty good shot, but his eyesight is failing and less its close up to him cant tell the difference twixt a hen-hawk and a hen. Jim had the hen for dinner the next day.

The roads is turrible bad hereabouts owing to recent rain—some places the mud is hub deep.

Jasper Tarbell is cutting enough timber offen his farm to build a barn with next spring. Jasp will draw this timber to the Snake Bend saw mill and have it sawed up so as he can begin work on the barn when spring comes. Jasp ain't building a barn before he needs it—his old barn is so rickety that it ain't safe to go into for fear it might fall on a person.

Mrs. Jeremiah Fosdick, who, before she married Jeremiah two years ago, was a widder, having been married and bereaved onct before, ain't got along very well with Jeremiah ever sinct she married him. They have both went through considerable domestic trouble, being as they are not compatible, and what looked at first like a blissful journey on the sweet sea of matrimony, has proved to be a turrible stormy voyage.

Arioch Perkins, while greasing his wagon last week, got his hands all over greese, which he calkilates will wear off in time.

VOX POPULI.

Bad Eggs

We had occashion to purchase a dozen eggs at Hen Weathersby's store tother day, and was considerable disgusted to find 9 out of 12 too aged and infirm for table use.

This is the worst dozen of eggs we ever brought offen Hen Weatherby—heretofore we have never found more than half of them bad. We desire to say that if Hen Weatherby thinks he can conduct a up-to-date business emporium by selling eggs wich, when opened, will drive you out of house and home, he is mistaken.

We like fresh eggs as well as anybody, but no person with any sense would open any one of them nine bad eggs we got from Hen unless they was out somewhere in a tenniker field.

CALAMITTY

That's What Happend to Them as Happend to Be in Bingville When the Tail Board of Lem Quigly's Wagon Busted Out---Full Particklers Below!

There was a curious catastrophe occurred in Bingville last Wednesday eve'g about 5 p. m., when Main street was as much crowded with pedestrians as it ever gets crowded, which aint so much.

Lem Quigly, who has a farm over at the foot of Teck's Hill, where he had in about 15 acres of corn which he had cut and left shocked in the field to be hauled to his barn later on, where he expeckts to hold a huskin bee and get all his corn husked for nothin, driv over in his two horse wagon last Tuesday afternoon to bring home a load of punkins from his corn field to be fed to his stock. Well, Lem he put on all the punkins which the wagon would hold with the sideboards on, and this means a good many punkins. They was great big yeller cow punkins, some of 'em nearly a foot thru. When Lem got his wagon loaded up he driv liesurely toward Bingville, arriving at wich he perceeded up the Main street of the town, until he reached a point opposite Bill Hepburn's blacksmith shop, where he stopped his team fer a minit to let the horses rest before starting up the hill from there to his place, wich is at the upper end of town. This hill is quite long and steep, and Lem knowed it would be a good stiff pull up the hill with that big load of punkins on.

Well, the horses dug their toes into the dirt and worried the wagon most up to the top of the hill when a turrible axident happend—the weight of them punkins broke out the tail board of the wagon and every cussed punkin started to roll back down the long hill.

Granny Henderson, who lives nearly at the bottom of the hill, happened to be crossing the road to take home a flat iron wich she had borried from Mrs. Underwood, when she was struck by a big punkin right in the middle of the road, knocked her feet out from under her and settin her down in the dust as you might say, where she set in terror while punkins of all shapes and sizes whized by on each side of her.

Ole Dad Whittleby, who is as deef as a post and cant hear thunder, happened to be out in the middle of the road at the foot of the hill, where he had went to get a good view of the sky, and was standin with his back up the hill trying to figger out what kind of weather we would have in Bingville the next day, when Ame Hillyer, who was walking along the street, seen them punkins comin, and also seen what danger Dad was in, so Ame hollered and yelled and waved his hands and tried to tell Dad to get outen the road. Dad seen Ame makin moshions, but couldn't hear what Ame said, so Dad puts his hand up to his ear and says, "A little louder, Ame!" Just then a punkin hit Dad right in the small of the back, and must of knocked him about 7 feet. Dad, he jumps up and turns around to see who struck him if anybody, when another punkin hits him a smash in the chest, and over he goes on his back. If Dad had of laid still, the punkins would likely of went over him, but he didn't. Every time he would try to get up a punkin would knock him down agin. After Ame thought the punkins had all run bye, he ran out to help Dad up, when a punkin hit him a belt on the side of the head, and over he went, right on top of Dad. Dad, who was purty mad by this time, seemed to think Ame was responsible for his whole trubble, so he began to hit Ame in the face with his fists.

While this was goin on others was sufferin.

Miss Amelia Tucker, our reigning sassiety queen, happened to be crossin the street on her way to the P. O., after the mail, when she was hit by a punkin with such violence that it nearly knocked the wind outen her. Amelia screemed and hollered for help, but what use was help to her after she had been struck.

Hank Dewberry had a hound dog struck by a big cow punkin as it was walkin along behind Hank, and the dog seemin to blame Hank for what happend to him, grabbed hold of the calf of his leg and nearly bit a chunk out. This made Hank so mad that he turned and kicked at the dog hard enough to kill it, but missed the dog and struck a tree along the board walk so hard that he thought he had broke his foot right off at the ankle.

These was the principle axidents happend on account of punkins rolling down the hill, although there was many narrer excapes of others. Some of the punkins busted open and scattered their contents from the top to the bottom of the hill. Those whose residences are along the scene of the disaster picked up the punkins and lugged them into their houses for their own private use. Them as was injured talk of bringing damage suits agin Lem for salt and battery. As for Lem, he says that he considers that he has had enough damage did to him already by losing a whole two-horse load of punkins.

Personals

Hen Smiley and his wife had a awful fite the other day and talked so loud all the nabors heared 'em. It seems that Mrs. Smiley had been usin Hen's razor to pare her corns with, and Hen resented this.

Sally Hoskins, our poet writer, who has had several of her pieces published, not only in the Bugle, but also in the County Seat paper, informs us that she is at present engaged in writing a poem on "Melankoly Autum," which she thinks is a master piece. We hope to be able to publish Sally's poem in the Bugle at a later date, and if she don't soon hurry autum will be past!

Mrs. Jerushia Perkins says she has put up, so far, 56 jars of jelly, and that she never had better luck with her jelly before, being as it jelld turrible nice.

Jasp Out Rabbit Huntin

Jasper Hawkins, one of our most respeckted cittizens, went out huntin tother afternoon with his ole muzzle loader shotgun, thinking that praps he could shoot a rabbit or somethink to make a pot pie of.

Well, Jasp haddent enny moren got into the woods back of Bingville until he found in the mud along the brook what he thort was a rabbit track, so Jasp cocked his gun and snuk quiet up along the brook, expecktin to overtake the rabbit and have it jump up and run enny minnit, but Jasp was all reddy with his finger on the trigger and diddent keer if it did.

Bye and bye somethink jumpt up jest ahead of Jasp, and he tuk quick aim and puld the trigger. There was a deefening report, follerd by a turrible squall and flying fur, and when Widder Skinner's ole tomcat rusht for home as fast as he could rush, then Jasp realized that instid of shootin a rabbit, it was a cat he had shot so he returned home in deep disgust.

As for the cat, it wassent hurt skeercely enny, being as only a cupple of buckshot tuk a patch of skin offen it and made the fur fly.

If you desire to make Jasp so mad that he'll want to fite, jest ast him if he's shot enny tomcats for a pot pie lately.

Disaster in the Tucker Fambily

Mrs. Martha Tucker, last Sunday whilst she was warshing up her dinner dishes, had the awful misfortoon to let one of her best Chiny plates to slip outen her hands, falling to the kitchen floor and breakin into 1000 peeces.

Mrs. Tucker is turrible put out about this, being as she says, it breaks up her set of Chiny and makes it look ridicklus. She says she was a fool to go and use her best Chiny for Sunday dinner last Sunday, ennyhow, being as only her and Jim, her husband, was at home to ete it.

As for Jim, he says Martha ain't been fit to live with sinst she went and broke that plate, being as she's crossern a bear and neerly snaps his head offen his shoulders whenever he asks her a sivil questshion. Jim says he's blamed glad he diddent break the plate.

IS THE MEXICAN NATION "LOCOED" BY A PECULIAR WEED?

Deadly Marihuana Rolled In Cigarettes, Becomes the Curse Of the Southern Republic and May Account For the "Bravery" Of "Greaser" Bandits Who Defy the United States—The Insanity Of Queen Carlotta Is Accounted For In the Familiar Historical Legend Of the Poisoned Tea

General Villa tells the United States it can "go to h—." Mexican troops cross the border and shoot down American ranchers and all in all it seems that the nation south of the Rio Grande would just as soon defy and fight the mighty Uncle Sam as to continue its own internal warfare.

And why?

Are the Mexicans becoming a mightier and braver race, or in the language of Texas, are they becoming "locoed?"

Reports received here indicate that the sudden burst of bravery on the part of the Mexicans is due to an increased use of the weed known as Marihuana, which has much the same effect as opium or morphine on its users.

It is believed that a dose of this weed, administered by an enemy, caused Queen Carlotta, wife of Emperor Maximillian to lose her mind. She now is living alone in a castle in France, still hopelessly insane, fifty years after the potion was administered.

THEFTS

[illegible] authorities here report that large quantities of the weed are being imported into Texas from Mexico and causing the Mexicans on this side to nerve themselves to all kinds of daring crimes. The lower class of Mexicans and Indians are obtaining and using quantities of the drug.

When a Mexican is under the influence of Marihuana he imagines that he can, single-handed, whip the entire regular United States army, while if reinforced by several other Mexicans, also under the influence of the drug, he might include a few European nations in his dream conquests.

While under the influence of the marihuana Mexicans are liable to commit murder and when arrested give the authorities great trouble. In fact, a number of Mexicans recently have been shot by Rangers when they resisted arrest, and tried to kill the officers.

In El Paso the devotees of the alluring drug are so numerous and such menace to law and order that an ordinance recently was passed by the city council making it "unlawful for any person, firm or corporation or association of persons to sell, barter, exchange or give away or to have in his or their possession any marihuana or Indian hemp." The ordinance further sets forth that the dangerous properties of marihuana and the increasing sale, with resultant injury to public health and public morals, creates a necessity for the law's rigid enforcement.

SMOKED IN CIGARETTES.

The terrible effects of the weed were realized by the late President Porfirio Diaz and during the latter years of his administration an order was in effect making it an offense punishable by death for any person to sell or give away to any soldier marihuana cigarettes or the weed in any other form.

The favorite method of using the weed is to roll the particles into cigarettes. Mexicans who are addicted to the habit say that the indulgence in one cigarette places them in the "seventh heaven." It brings to them a sense of pleasure and delight that is incomparable and indescribable.

If a limit of one cigarette were set no great lasting harm might come to the indulger, but in order to keep up the feeling of elation another and perhaps another of the paper wrapped poison is consumed, until the victim is in a state of wild frenzy. When in this condition he often goes on a rampage that brings death to whoever crosses his path. The period of temporary insanity lasts for several hours and is followed by the victim falling into a deep sleep that lasts 24 hours or more. He awakes with no knowledge of what has transpired while the full effects of the drug were upon him. It takes only a few months of constant indulgence in the cigarette habit to bring on permanent insanity.

It is stated that the marihuana weed grows profusely over a large area of Mexico and that it is found in considerable quantities on the Texas side of the Rio Grande river. In some districts it is a menace to live stock. The animals quickly learn to like the weed and when once they have obtained a taste for it they will eat nothing else. It brings death to them in a short time.

REALLY A LOCO-WEED.

In fact, the marihuana seems to be nothing less than the loco-weed that causes insanity to both men and beast. If the devastation of the drug is so great on this side of the Rio Grande, with our jails filled with men who have committed crimes while under the influence of the drug, and with our insane asylums filled with those who have lost their minds through the use of the marihuana, imagine the terrible effect of its indulgence on the people of Mexico and then ask the question: Where do the Mexican bandits get their nerve to commit their attacks on the Americans and where leaders summon courage to defy the government at Washington.

Then think of poor Queen Carlotta in her castle in France, with the doors of her mind closed forever from the light of understanding, apparently from an overdose of the drug administered in the form of tea by one of the enemies of her husband, Maximilian. The poor queen in her castle has been for fifty years and more awaiting death. Last year when the Germans invaded France they placed signs on this lone castle warning that anyone who disturbed the mad queen as she is called would be subject to severe punishment.

For Queen Carlotta is an Austrian and the Kaiser desired that she be protected, and the German soldiers responded nobly to his wishes, even refusing to fight in vicinity of her castle.

HISTORY OF A QUEEN.

The story of Queen Carlotta's insanity is one of the saddest in all of history, and her fate is even worse than that of her husband, who was shot to death at the direction of the French. As retribution for this deed they have given the queen the castle in the northern part of their domain and have maintained her for fifty years or more at their expense.

Here are the events that led to Maximillian's regency in Mexico, his tragic end and the insanity of his queen:

In 1861 the Liberals and Conservatives in Mexico, while in the midst of one of those revolutions such as we have at the present day, seized on the property of foreigners. In consequence, Great Britain, France and Spain concluded a Triple Alliance at London with a view to forcing Mexico to pay indemnities. In December, 1861, a force of the Triple Alliance landed at Vera Cruz and occupied it without resistance, the Mexican troops having evacuated. After a successful conquest of many states it became apparent that the Emperor, Napoleon III., intended to interfere with the government of Mexico and perhaps establish a monarchy. The British and Spanish troops thereupon were withdrawn and the remainder of the conquest was left to the French troops.

On June 10, 1863, the French troops under General Forey entered the City of Mexico after it had been evacuated by President Juarez and his Republican troops. General Forey established a junta of 35 Mexican citizens and permitted them to establish an assembly of notables which decreed that Mexico in the future would be an empire with a Roman Catholic prince as sovereign to bear the title of emperor. The crown thereupon was offered to Archduke Maxmilian of Austria, of the imperial House of Hapsburg.

The French were firmly established in the heart of Mexico but the army of Juarez still were firmly established in the southern and western portion of the country; and the contest of arms continued with varying fortune until the early part of 1864 when the Archduke Maxmilian of Austria arrived in the Mexican capital to be proclaimed Emperor of Mexico. Maximilian was accompanied by his ill-fated wife who became the Empress Carlotta and the first lady of the new Empire. Maximilian had been placed on the Mexican throne through the instrumentality of the Emperor Napoleon.

The year 1864 was an eventful one in the history of Mexico. The French captured the city of Matamoras and the whole Mexican army was forced to surrender and become prisoners of war.

However, when the civil war in the United States closed the vitality of the Maximilian empire declined. The United States, because of its internal affairs, was unable to act before, but when peace was restored the Monroe Doctrine was cited and the French were invited to leave Mexico. The French thereupon evacuated the country, leaving Maximilian and his imperialist followers to defend themselves against the Juarists. Maximilian remained despite the warning of Napoleon III. to leave the country.

In May, 1876, the Juarists captured Maximilian and he and two of his generals were shot to death on June 19.

But before the death of Maximilian the Mexicans had taken revenge upon his queen. Several of her servitors are said to have given her tea which contained the deadly marihuana. The potion was so strong that she soon lost her mind.

So the marihuana is more deadly today than it was in the time of Queen Carlotta for the Mexicans now are using it in cigarettes and with each cigarette the desire to take the United States and annex it to Mexico seems to become stronger. And so the victims of the drug sleep on with their minds wandering far into the regions of the impossible for it's marihuana after all—and not real nerve and courage—that seems to be behind Mexico.

Answer is Being Prepared to President Barrett's Statement.

Word was received in Fort Wayne Saturday, that William D. Mahon, of Detroit, Mich., international president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, would probably be here the forepart of next week. He is expected to stop off here on his way home from Cincinnati.

J. J. Brennan, superintendent of transportation of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, declared Saturday that several old employes of the company have signified their intention of returning to work Sunday morning. Members of the union, however, declare that if old men are returning they are not from their ranks as every man is sticking fast and has no intention of going back until the differences now pending are satisfactorily adjusted. George York and Joseph Gross, two old employes, who, however, were never identified with the union, returned to work Saturday morning.

Announcement was made Saturday afternoon by General Manager Sam W. Greenland that the cars Saturday night would be operated until 11 o'clock and in a few days the old night schedule would be resumed.

Barrett to Be Answered.

An answer to the letter recently published by President James M. Barrett, of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, directed to the citizens of Fort Wayne, setting forth the company's position in the present controversy with their former employes, is being prepared by members of the carmen's union and will soon be ready for publication.

The answer will take up each specific case cited by Mr. Barrett, giving the carmen's side. Other cases of alleged grievances will also be set forth.

Labor Federation to Meet.

An important meeting of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will be held Monday evening at which time the financing of the street carmen's strike will be taken up. The federation is urging every labor organization in the city to have a representative present.

TEARING ALONG AT 103 MILES AN HOUR

Some Big Drivers Forced Out of Astor Cup Race Early.

New York, Oct. 9.—Twenty of the speediest automobiles in the world started today in a 350 mile race for the Astor cup and $50,000 in prizes at the new Sheepshead Bay speedway. A great throng filled the stands and cheered the racers as they sped around the two mile track which is located on the site of the Sheepshead Bay race track.

As Resta flashed across the starting line inches ahead of Atkin, Oldfield and Burman, the excitement in the stands rivalled the scenes at the finish of the many great horse races held in years past over this course. Oldfield and Mulford went out at the end of the 16th mile with engine trouble.

At the end of sixty miles Anderson was leading. His time was 34:23 minutes, an average of 104.40 miles an hour. Burman was second and Rooney third.

At 100 miles Resta was leading at an average of 104.47 miles an hour. Rooney was second and Anderson third. Resta was forced to drop out of the race by a broken connecting rod shortly after finishing the first 100 miles.

Anderson led at the 140th mile. His time was 1:27 and 19 seconds, an average of 103.30 miles an hour. Aitken was second and Burman third.

STREET CAR HITS AUTO HURTING WOMAN

An automobile driven by Mrs. Rose Sutton, 1117 Buchanan street, and occupied besides herself by Mrs. Mangus and daughter, 1324 Buchanan street, was struck shortly before noon Saturday by an East Creighton avenue car in charge of Conductor J. M. Jones and Motorman D. W. Thomas. The front of the auto was damaged and Mrs. Mangus, who is an invalid, and was coming down into the city to see her physician, was painfully hurt about the legs. Mrs. Sutton says the car was almost a square away when she started across the tracks, and was coming at a high speed. Owen Rhoades, who witnessed the collision, says the street car was going very fast. This is denied by the men in charge of the street car.

Conspiracy Case to Reach Jury About Noon on Tuesday.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9.—Claris Adams, assistant prosecutor, was the first speaker when arguments in the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, charged with election conspiracy, were began today. He was to be followed by Charles W. Miller for the defense. Each side will have three speakers and the arguments will continue about sixteen hours, which means that the case probably will go to the jury about noon Tuesday.

Adams asserted that the charges against Bell were not charges made by counsel for the prosecution, but by the grand jury after an investigation. He then explained at some length the law of conspiracy, a charge, which, he said, must necessarily be proven by circumstantial evidence.

HAVE BOMB SCARE ON FAIRFIELD AVENUE

Terrified residents of Fairfield avenue telephoned to police headquarters Friday night an affrighted report that a bomb explosion was about to take place in their midst and blow their happy homes into the next county. They said the infernal machine was already lighted and its fuse was sputtering a fiery threat of momentary destruction. The flying squadron was dispatched full in speed in its clipper rigged machine and reached the scene of the imminent deadly disaster and with due caution approached the sizzling bomb. It was found to be a small block of wood rudely fashioned into a candlestick with a tin socket, reflector and handle and contained the lighted butt of a candle, whose flame was consuming a small quantity of coal tar. The trophy of the nefarious but frustrated plot to destroy that part of town was taken to police headquarters, where it is now on exhibition. Nothing was found of the lads who had used it as a plaything.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Restaurant owners and Chicago's hotels prepared today for an unusual rush of busines tonight when the Sunday saloon closing order becomes effective. Drinks of all kinds may be purchased before 12 o'clock and consumed as long as the patrons of restaurants and hotel cafes desire to remain, according to an opinion by Corporation Counsel Folsom. As a result the restaurant keepers expect a night of revelry equalled only by the New Year's celebrations in Chicago.

The parade of anti-saloon workers to be held today under the auspices of the dry Chicago federation was expected to be made up of 35,000 marchers. The fact that the demonstration will be the largest ever held in Chicago was indicated when more than 15,000 hats to be worn by the marchers were sold. One thousand ministers, priests and rabbis are to lead the parade, which is to be made up of twelve divisions. Water wagons will be prominent among the score of floats.

AGAIN ATTEMPTED DELIVERY AT JAIL

It has become known that Ray Bower, alias John Bachman, who pleaded guilty in the circuit court Friday afternoon to entering a house to commit a felony, had been discovered in a second attempt to lead a delivery at the county jail. Earlier in the week it was found that Bower had been taking an impression of the big lock on the door of the prisoners' dining hall at the jail, while he and two or three others had been locked in the "grub room" to give that apartment a thorough cleaning. He was found out before he could make any use of his efforts. A few weeks ago a hack-saw was taken from Bower at the jail. The youngster, who is only 21, is a thorough-paced criminal. He was arrested while trying to burglarize the home of Charles E. Crall, 1215 West Berry street, one night a few weeks ago. Since his arrest it has been learned that he committed robbery in Butte, Mont., and had been convicted of picking pockets on trains in Minnesota. Judge Eggeman sentenced him to two to fourteen years in the reformatory.

STREET CAR HITS A WAGON; MAN INJURED

Lee Ainsworth, aged sixty-five years, and an old resident of this city, is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from injuries received in being thrown from the seat of his wagon when it was hit by an East Creighton car on Calhoun street, between Main and Columbia street, shortly after noon Saturday. His arm was broken and he received many severe cuts and bruises.

Ainsworth drove out of the alley and onto the car track, but according to his and statements of other witnesses, the car threw on more speed just at the alley. The wagon was shoved from the track and Ainsworth pitched headlong from his seat.

But for the presence of Motorcycleman Young, Traffic Officer Lauer and Patrolman Brandt, the crowd of several hundred people that gathered at the scene of the accident might have attacked the car crew. The crowd was sullen and threatening.

DEATH CAUSED BY BURNT GAS

J. R. McFarland Overcome at Home of Mrs. Ada O'Brien.

HAD JUST FINISHED TAKING HIS BATH

Body is Found Lying on Floor at the Side of the Bath Tub.

J. R. McFarland, 25 years old, a traveling salesman, was found dead shortly after 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning in the bathroom at the home of Mrs. Ada O'Brien, 1118 Fulton street, where he roomed. In the opinion of Coroner Edward H. Kruse the young man was overcome and died as a result of inhaling burnt gas.

McFarland arose about 6 o'clock and a half hour later had gone to the bathroom to take a bath. When he stayed so long Mrs. O'Brien became uneasy and investigated. Knocking on the door she received no response. Then she opened it and found McFarland lying on the floor at the side of the tub. Further investigation convinced her that he was dead and the odor of burnt gas which, however, she had not detected before entering the room, made plain to her the cause.

No Ventilation.

The bathroom is small and with the windows down, and door closed there was no ventilation. McFarland was overcome before he could call for assistance or if he did call it was so feeble that he could not be heard.

There is nothing to indicate that the man committed suicide. He had finished his bath and had let the water out of the tub. The gas was still burning under the patent gas heater in the room, which is used for heating the water. No other cause can be assigned except that he was overcome by the fumes of burnt gas.

Lived in Marion.

McFarland's home was in Marion, Ind., but for the past year and a half he has been traveling out of Fort Wayne, representing the School Methods company, of Columbus, Ohio.

Attacks Recent Sale of Decatur Traction Line

Suit for $4,750, with interest from June 4, 1911, alleged to be due on four bonds and for the appointment of a receiver, was filed in the United States court Saturday by Fannie E. Armstrong, as guardian of Mary E. Armstrong, John B. Armstrong and Harriet L. Armstrong, against the Fort Wayne and Springfield Railway company, French Quinn, receiver, Mrs. Charles Dirkson and Mrs. Clara Koenig.

Charges of a sensational nature are made in the complaint in which it is alleged that the sale of the property on August 12, 1915, to Mrs. Lisette Dirkson and Mrs. Gerke was without authority, fraudulent and for the purpose of depriving the plaintiffs of their just rights and claims.

Mrs. Armstrong is the widow of the late Justus R. Armstrong, of St. Mary's, Ohio, who died in 1909, who was interested in the road. She is asking for $4,750 with interest as a prior and preferential claim against all of the property of the Fort Wayne and Springfield Railway company and for the federal court to assume jurisdiction of the property and appoint a receiver to prevent further alleged waste and depreciation. The Fort Wayne and Springfield Railway company operates between Fort Wayne and Decatur

Teutons Lose Heavily in Crossing Save River and Are Pinned to the Brink of the Stream.

London, Oct. 9.—Although the last twenty-four hours brought no climax in the political situation in the Balkans, London begins to view it in clearer perspective. The departure of the quadruple entente diplomats has given finality to Bulgaria's commitment to the side of the central powers, but as yet there has been no formal declaration of war between Bulgaria and Serbia or the entente.

Excepting an unconfirmed report of a Russian bombardment of the Bulgarian coast, near Varna, no overt act of hostilities has been committed by Bulgaria or her new opponents. Nevertheless Bulgaria is reported to be preparing an attack on Serbia, carried out in conjunction with the Austro-German invasion. She is concentrating cavalry, supported by heavy artillery, under German command, in the direction of Koestendit, southwest of Sofia, near the Serbia border.

Invaders Suffer Loss.

According to official Serbian advices, the Austro-German attack has not won much of an initial success, the invaders having suffered large losses in crossing the Save and now being pinned to the brink of the river. Many Germans are among the prisoners and some of them are said to be members of a Prussian brigade, which formerly was operating against Italy.

There still remains a slight element of doubt as to the attitude of Greece, which probably will not be dispelled until the new cabinet makes definite pronouncement of policy. In the meantime the entente powers seem to be satisfied with assurances of continued neutrality and see no reason to believe Greece intends to array herself against them in the impending conflict.

Allied troops to the number of 32,000 are reported to have landed already at Saloniki and obstacles to their transportation to Serbia have been removed by the prompt action of the Greek minister of communications in the Venizelos cabinet. M. Diamantides, freeing the railways from Austro-German control.

German Transport Sunk.

Russia has made official announcement of the sinking of a German transport by a British submarine in the Baltic.

The Dvinsk front still claims greatest attention in the eastern fighting zone. The Germans are launching an attempt to take the city of the north, and their onslaught exceeds in violence the previous attacks from the west and south. A desperate action has been fought ten miles north of Dvinsk and the Russians admit loss of part of their trenches. From Dvinsk to the Lida-Molodrehna railroad, local successes are claimed by the Russians. On the rest of the eastern front the rapidity of attacks and counter attacks, the capture and recapture of trenches, leaves it in doubt which side is really on the defensive.

German artillery fire continues along the whole of the western front, with particular violence against Loose, to regain which the Germans are making a determined effort, and against the left wing of the attacking French forces in Champagne. Speculation as to the next surprise this kaleidoscopic situation may bring forth, which is always active, was given fresh life today by a cryptic remark in the Daily Telegraph, which, in concluding an editorial on events in the Balkans, says:

"Meanwhile the world is waiting for news of events which as they come to pass, will only more profoundly change the aspect of the war situation."

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you a full pint—a family supply—of a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a hard cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

The attorney stated that the majority of the defendants were city employes, or relatives of city employes. He then started in to review the evidence and asserted that the city employes "had to be for" the slate candidates favored by Bell. "This administration slate was put over," he declared, "with one exception. Roy Sahm and the defendants did not dare deny Clyde Baker the nomination. He is the brother of the then Prosecutor Frank Baker and they didn't dare antagonize the prosecutor.

In one precinct, Adams asserted, dead men, famous baseball players, prize fighters and men with all names of all shades of the rainbow except violet were voted for the democratic candidates.

The court room was filled and for the first time spectators were permitted in the balcony. A number of women were in attendance.

Hamilton Is Grilled.

Adams scored Lucius O. Hamilton, president of a state-wide republican club, for the $500 which he gave to Mayor Bell just before the primary and asserted that the explanation given by Mr. Hamilton as to the use for which the money was intended constituted a violation of the corrupt practices act.

He characterized Policemen Pope, Hulse and Sanders as "brutes and slugs" and declared "no citizen is safe from such brutes and slugs."

"If Becker had only been there to lead this strong arm squad their efficiency would have been complete," asserted the assistant prosecutor.

The defense last night rested its case suddenly after but four witnesses had been questioned, when Judge Eichhorn ruled that testimony regarding the alleged "school of perjury," which the defense charged was conducted by the state, was incompetent.

In a statement Saturday one of the officials declared that the real fight by organized labor will start after Monday night's meeting. "The 'watchful waiting' policy of the carmen, which has been characteristic of the strike will be changed by the elimination of the waiting feature," he said.

At a meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen Friday evening $50 was voted to the strikers and more will be forthcoming if needed.

Car Attacked Twice.

One car was attacked twice Friday night on the East Lewis street line, the first time shortly after 6 o'clock at Division and Lewis streets and again later in the evening. The first attack is believed to have been made by boys. Stones were hurled through the windows on both occasions. No cars were operated after 10 o'clock.

Statement Is Issued.

"To the Public: We wish at this time to thank the public for their kind and generous support. In addition, we desire to thank our fellow-trades unionists who have not only given us their moral support, but have seen to it by their splendid contributions that we will not want at least for the necessaries of life.

"We feel it is proper to say at this time that no one deplores more than we do the present strained relations between ourselves and our employers, but we believe that all will agree with us that it was impossible for us as individuals to work under the conditions imposed upon us, to-wit: No right of organization; alleged individual contracts with expensive conditions attached, and if we differed with our employer, there was always the fear of discharge; an arbitration condition that was impossible as no individual could stand the expense if he had the courage to face possible discharge if he did anything contrary to the will of the employer.

"So today as a collective organization, we are asking your continued support, not to prolong present conditions, but to assist us for right and justice. We desire to assure you that we are, as we have been from the first, ready at all times to meet any committee that feels it can bring about a settlement of present conditions, and we will be glad to announce to the public immediately, through the daily papers, and over the name of our organization, that friendly relations have been resumed. Any statement to the contrary regarding a settlement is untrue and misleading.

More Accidents.

A South Wayne car picked up a jitney bus at DeWald and Calhoun streets at 7:45 last night and although no one was hurt and there was no serious damage, it required some time to drag the automobile off the fender. The bus owner reported to the police.

M. D. O'Laughlin, 724 Kinnaird avenue, reported to the police Friday night that his jitney bus was struck by a city car about 8:30 o'clock at Creighton avenue and Calhoun street. He said his machine was pushed for half a block before the motorman brought the car to a stop.

Another jitney was struck by car No. 180 on the East Main street line at Main and Barr streets.

Two Are Injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Hartwig, 1123 Crescent avenue, were slightly injured when the jitney bus driven by Chester Barrett, in which they were passengers, was struck by city car No. 186 on the East Main street line at Main and Barr streets. The driver of the jitney declares that the motorman failed to ring his gong.

Members of the carmen's union were guests of Manager Harvey Porter at the Empress theater Friday evening. They marched to the theater in a body.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 9.—Dr. Carl Liebknecht, the famous German socialist, who has been fighting on the eastern front in the engineer corps, has been injured in the head by being struck by a falling tree, according to the Tagwacht.

Dr. Liegknecht, who frequently has come into conflict not only with German government officials, but with other members of his own party, because of his opposition to the war, was ordered on March 22, last, to place himself at the disposal of the military officials. Three days later he was mustered into the army and assigned to service in Alsace.

Milan, Oct. 8.—(Via Paris, Oct. 9.)—The Petrograd correspondent of the Courier Della Sera, says he has learned on good authority that Bulgaria will send Serbia an ultimatum demanding the cession of Macedonia as a preliminary to a declaration of war.

one battle captured the Philadelphias pressed on the second line of trenches to make it two straight games in this base ball warfare, while Manager Carrigan, leading the Boston Red Sox started a counter offensive to even up the series before the second phase of the campaign will be commenced in Boston next Monday.

Thousands Came Early.

Thousands came early to the ball yard and by noon the back field seats were filled and the crowd still coming and pressing for admission. The reserved stands filled slowly, though hundreds came long before game time to see President Wilson and his party on their arrival. The presidential box, near the Boston players' bench, off third base, glowed with red, white and blue bunting and small American flags.

The playing field was in fine shape for fast play, a brisk wind during the night having fanned most of the dampness from the ground while a warm sun this morning helped in the drying out process. The Philadelphias had a brief morning practice and found the inner and outer gardens to their liking.

Luderus Confident.

"We'll be in there today with some real hitting," said Luderus, the Philadelphia's first sacker, "and it doesn't make any difference to us who goes into the box for Boston."

Manager Carrigan had three pitchers ready to do his sharpshooting, Foster, Wood and Leonard. Foster looked like the choice as Boston's moundsman. Chalmers and Mayer were fit for the firing line for the home field with the left hander Eppa Rixey held in reserve.

Both teams took plenty of batting practice and the crowd cheered as some of the long drives dropped in the back field bleachers. The fielding practice was smart and there were many pretty stops and throws. Barry, for Boston, and Bancroft, for Philadelphia, featured in the infield workouts.

Players Welcome Wilson.

Meanwhile the players of both clubs grouped themselves back of the Photographers to welcome President Wilson.

President Wilson with Mrs. Norman Galt, and their party arrived at 2:05 o'clock and took their places in the presidential box. The crowd rose and cheered and President Wilson bowed to the ball players and then shook hands with Mayor Blankenberg. President Wilson and Mrs. Galt were given a continuous ovation.

President Baker, of the Philadelphia club, officially welcomed President Wilson, who was then given a new ball to throw out to the players.

BURNS TO WED AFTER SERIES.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—Eddie Burns, catcher of the Philadelphia National team, is to marry Miss Viola Laporte, of Monterey, after the world's series, it became known here today. Miss Laporte is a descendant of the Spanish founders of Monterey. Burns learned baseball on the sand lots of San Francisco.

KEPT POLICE ON JUMP.

Two Automobile Drivers Experience a Series of Accidents.

A series of accidents kept the police patrol busy for a while Friday evening and the peculiar part was that two auto drivers were mixed up in all three. The first call occurred when R. W. Tyler struck a Charles Dolan near the Lyric theater. Mr. Tyler reported at the station and had not been gone more than five minutes when his machine and that of Henry Hoffman collided at Wayne and Clinton streets. Mr. Hoffman returned to the station a minute later and stated that a Ford machine had bumped into him at the alley across the street from headquarters. The driver of the Ford made his get-away before his number could be secured.

COLLIDES WITH WAGON.

Camden Coburn, Cleveland Youth, Has Sentence Suspended.

After pleading guilty in the circuit court, Saturday, to a charge of grand larceny, Camden Coburn, a Cleveland youth, received a sentence of two to fourteen years in the reformatory at Jeffersonville, and Judge Eggeman then suspended the sentence. A fine of $1 and costs was paid. Coburn's crime was the theft of a Ford automobile belonging to A. C. McCoy, a public accountant with offices in the Shoaff building, several weeks ago. The car was stolen from the south front of the court house on Berry street, where it had been parked, and Coburn took it to complete the honeymoon trip of himself and bride. He went to Chicago from here and his undoing came when the car was stolen from him there and his enlistment of the police of that city in its recovery uncovered him as a thief. Coburn comes from a good family in Cleveland and a relative from that city was here to plead for him.

Wolfort, of Roann; vice moderator, Rev. C. H. Ashman, of Nappance; secretary, Rev. Lytle, of Flora; treasurer, Rev. T. M. Fisher, of Mexico. F. D. Flurry was elected president of the state mission board and presented the goals toward which they should try and work in the future. The report was approved. The aims of the mission board for the coming year are to install a new church every year, if possible, in a county seat, in order to strengthen the denomination as much as possible and to hold the young people.

WELLS COUNTY BARN BURNS.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 9.—A large barn and hog house on the J. H. Sell farm, at Walnut Corner, near Pennville, was destroyed by fire and along with the contents, the loss will aggregate $2,500 or more. Sell conducted a farm sale during the day. Some fifteen or twenty people had arrived at the farm before the hour set for starting the sale and it was while they were conversing among themselves that some one happened to notice smoke pouring out of the hay mow. Soon the entire barn was enveloped in flames. People present succeeded in saving all farm machinery, harness and vehicles in the burning barn, but hay, oats and other grain stored in the structure could not be removed.

TRIPLETTS TO QUIT HOTEL.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. William Triplett, who have had charge of the Triplett hotel at Rome City for some years, are moving to Casselton, N. D., where they will make their future home. They will have the management of a hotel in the North Dakota town. Mr. Triplett is now at Casselton and Mrs. Triplett will leave for that section of the country today. During their managerial career at the Triplett hotel they made a success and made many friends by their courteous treatment. The Triplett hotel will still continue to operate under the management of George Triplett, who for many years was in charge of the place.

PIERCETON MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Pierceton, Ind., Oct. 9.—Death came suddenly Thursday evening to Chris Leedy, a well known resident of Pierceton. Mr. Leedy, who was 67 years of age, apparently was as well as usual on Thursday and worked at the Reid and Murdoch factory until 8 o'clock in the evening.

When he left the factory he went to the business section of the town and made a few purchases. Returning home a short time later, he complained of a severe pain in his chest, and asked his wife to summon a physician. Dr. C. E. Long was called, but Mr. Leedy passed away before he arrived. It is believed that his death was due to heart trouble.

WHEN LESH MEETS LESH.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 9.—Alva Lesh, a well known Rockcreek farmer, was served with a warrant of arrest Friday afternoon by Constable Lol Plessinger, on an affidavit filed in Squire Rinehart's court by Daniel Webster Lesh, another prominent Rockcreek farmer. The two farmers are neighbors, and Daniel Lesh in the affidavit charges that Alva Lesh hunted on his farm without his permission. In filing the affidavit Daniel Lesh told the prosecuting attorney that he had asked Alva Lesh, frequently, not to kill the squirrels on his farm, and declared that he filed the affidavit only after Alva had failed to heed the repeated requests and warnings.

GLASS FACTORIES TO OPEN.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Fires will go into the big house at the American window glass factory in this city next Monday. This good news was received in this city today from Superintendent Niese, of the plant, who is in the east at the present time. The wood fires will be placed under the tank at that time and the producer gas will be turned in a short time later. It is expected that it will be about three weeks before the blowing starts. This will make the resumption of the plant about November 1. There will be about 400 men given employment by the resumption of the plant.

WILL BE HOST TO SHRINERS.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 9.—Huntington Masons of Commandery No. 35, of the Knights Templar will be hosts to the Mizpah Shrine of Fort Wayne, who will come to this city this evening on a special car, to attend a banquet in the Methodist church. The Fort Wayne men will bring along with them their patrol and a band. The patrol will give some exhibition drills and the band will give a concert at the Firemen's park, on West State street. About forty Shriners of Huntington will escort the visitors to the church for the banquet, followed by the other members of the lodge.

NEWLY DRY, BUT GOING SOME.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Festive week and the jail empty—that is Blackford county's record this year. Charles Wilhems, who has been the only prisoner in the county jail for some time, was released Thursday evening after his brother, Louis Wilhems, came to his rescue with a cash bond of $1,000. Wilhems was arrested several weeks ago, charged with assault and battery with intent, upon a young girl.

DIES AT THE INFIRMARY.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Mr. Arthur Long, who went to the county farm last April, died there Friday afternoon. He lived with his mother, Mrs. John S. Long, until her death last January, and as he was not able to care for himself and his relatives did not feel that they could take care of him, he became an inmate of the county farm. Mr. Long was a cripple and did not possess all his mental faculties. He was 43 years old and was born in Troy township, this county.

CHANGE CORN-JUDGING DATE.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 9.—The immature state of the corn through this section of the state has influenced the Purdue extension department to change the date of the county contest from October 12 to the 18th. It was decided that to properly judge the plots they must be all in a similar state of maturity and that at the present time much of the corn is soft and must still be given time to ripen. This means that the judging will begin a week from next Monday instead of next Tuesday, as had been planned.

QUALIFIES FOR REFORM MATRON.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Mrs. H. F. Ireland, of this city, who recently took an examination for the position of matron of the new girls' reformatory at Marysville, has received notice that her grade in the examination was 76.24. In order to be eligible for the position, a person must make a grade of 75 per cent. Mrs. Ireland will be put on the eligible list and will be qualified to take the position.

INJURED ARE RECOVERING.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 9.—Accident victims who were hurt here Wednesday, are improving. Little Howard Smilack, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. El Smilack, who was injured when he fell from an automobile, is out of danger, although it was first thought that he had been fatally hurt. Mrs. Fulkerson and Mrs. Vance who were hurt in a runaway, are now better.

LAD STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 9.—While Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer, of Dillman, Wells county, were attending the fall festival in Hartford City, they were called home by the sad news that their seven-year-old son, Cecil, had been run down by an automobile at Dillman. Word from Dillman later in the afternoon was to the effect that the child was still alive. The automobile is said to have been driven by Warren Cunningham, residing near Fort Wayne.

VAN WERT CHURCH REDECORATED.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 9.—The redecorating of the Baptist church, corner of Tayler and Crawford streets, has been completed and the regular services will be held there Sunday morning. The church now presents a beautiful appearance.

TWO CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant of Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw, inflamed throat and loosens phlegm. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

STOLEN SILVERWARE FOUND.

Property of One Princeton Church Hidden in Basement of Another.

Princeton, Ind., Oct. 9.—Recently the silver chest of the United Presbyterian church was robbed of eight dozen silver spoons and six dozen knives and forks, valued at $200. Last night at the First Methodist church, three blocks away, when prayer meeting was being held, the janitor found hidden behind lumber in the basement, which was being remodeled, a large bucket with the missing silver in it. The silver was marked "U. P." One theory is the thief, finding the silverware marked, was afraid to return to the United Presbyterian church, and left it in the Methodist church basement. Another is that the thief was frightened from the Methodist church when there to rob that church and left the loot there in a hurry to escape.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the only real stomach regulator known.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

Says gasoline dry cleans dresses, coats, silks, gloves, draperies.

You will never again pay enormous prices for dry cleaning after trying this. Any woman can clean and renew the appearance of yokes, ribbons, satins, laces, silks, furs, shirtwaists, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, neckties, children's clothes, suits, caps, woolen garments, fancy vests, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

You would have to pay $5 at a dry cleaning establishment for the cleaning which can be done at home as easily as laundering. Any grocery or garage will supply the gasoline and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap, then a large dishpan or wash boiler completes your dry cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—More than one-fifth of the 40 billion pounds of sugar that represent the world's production last year was consumed in the United States. The consumption of sugar in the United States, exclusive of its sugar-producing islands, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915, has been calculated by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, as 8,630 million pounds or 86 pounds per capita.

Of the sugar consumed in this country in 1914-15, 1,941 million pounds were produced on the mainland, 1,281 pounds in Hawaii, 589 million pounds in Porto Rico, 327 million pounds in the Philippines, and the remainder in foreign countries. Cuba, the leading source of our imported sugar, sent us 4,785 million pounds in the last fiscal year, that quantity being nearly four times as much as that from Hawaii and eight times as much as that from Porto Rico.

Beet sugar now leads cane sugar by nearly one billion pounds in the yearly domestic product, having reversed the conditions which obtained twenty years ago. In 1895, for example, according to the statistical abstract of the United States, the domestic sugar product totaled approximately 775 million pounds, the share of beet sugar being only 99 million pounds. In 1915 our sugar product had increased to 1,941 pounds, the share of beet having grown to 1,448 million and that of cane having decreased to 493 million pounds. Meantime, beet sugar has practically disappeared from our imports. Eighteen years ago, when the Cuban supply of cane sugar was cut off by war, we imported nearly 2 billion pounds of beet sugar. After the return of peace in Cuba our imports amounted to less than one million pounds.

The cutting off of the sugar supply of European countries has resulted in a remarkable expansion of our sales of sugar to foreign countries. For the fiscal year 1915, they aggregated 582 million pounds, as against 22½ million pounds in 1900 and 40½ million pounds in 1880.

U. S. cane sugar product	601	493
U. S. beet sugar product	1,467	1,448
U. S. imports: Cuban	4,927	4,785
Porto Rican	641	589
Philippine	117	327

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 12:40-51.

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt.

42 It is a night to be much observed unto the Lord for bringing them out of the land of Egypt; this is that night of the Lord to be observed of all the children of Israel in their generations.

43 And the Lord said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the passover: There shall no stranger eat thereof:

44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof.

47 All the congregation of Israel shall keep it.

48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the Lord, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

49 One law shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Israel; as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

51 And it came to pass the selfsame day, that the Lord did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their armies.

Women and Legislative Candidates.

The Legislative Council of Indiana Women makes the announcement that it purposes giving particular attention to a scrutiny of the candidates for the legislature next year, and will see that its discoveries regarding the men and the sort of citizenship they stand for secure due publicity. The Indiana woman has not yet been given the ballot, but she has discovered a political avenue in which she can nevertheless accomplish much good, not especially in furthering the cause of suffrage, but in the general interest of better government.

The man who hopes to get into the legislature in the future by devious methods or as the representative of special interests, will do well to make a note of the new order of things. The legislative places are of first importance, but they are not often attractive to men of particular qualifications for them because of their temporary character and the lack of attractive salary that attaches to the position. This is notably true in the less populous counties, where comparatively little attention is paid to the legislative positions. For the good of the state at large it is impossible to choose men of too high calibre for the legislature, and the sum total of the enactments is going to reflect pretty accurately the character and the grasp of public questions of the men who compose the legislative body.

The popular impression that woman's present activity in politics is confined wholly to an effort to secure the ballot is entirely erroneous. They are finding a much larger usefulness than that, however desirable it would be to see them given full citizenship in the electorate. Exercising a watchful oversight of legislative timber will constitute a real public service. The undesirable will find it extremely difficult to pass unscotched beneath the scrutinizing gaze of the ladies, and he cannot complain that he hasn't had due and timely warning of what's coming.

The vocational school idea was given notable support in Fort Wayne Friday when Master Mechanic Griest, of the Pennsylvania railroad system, urged a continuance of studies after leaving the school room. Mr. Griest was addressing a gathering of nearly a hundred shopmen, and the truth he emphasized is that education is never complete. Whether it be in the schoolroom or in the later activities of life, the man should be constantly learning new lessons and supplementing his store of knowledge with educational attainment that will better qualify him for new duties and advanced responsibilities. Schooling should by no means end with boyhood or girlhood.

The McKinley club, a republican organization at Terre Haute, has risen in horror and demanded an explanation of the charge, made by a witness in the Bell trial at Indianapolis, that the president of the silk-stockinged Columbia republican club at Indianapolis, had contributed $500 in $1 and $2 bills to aid in the nomination of the democratic candidate for sheriff of Marion county. Still, perhaps the experience of Terre Haute qualifies her for competent censorship of the political morals of other communities in Indiana.

Announcement is made that Sig W. Kann, of Ligonier, will seek the democratic nomination for state statistician next year, and his friends are already rallying for organized support. Mr. Kann is a traveling salesman who has been active in political affairs of the district for some years, and it is expected that he will command a very strong following from the northern section of the state.

Even the croakers will soon be forced to admit that the gradual revival in business bears the earmarks of the genuine thing. Opening of a glass factory at Hartford City, with 600 employes, has been ordered for November 1. Evidence of this character is daily accumulating to sustain the optimistic predictions that has been made by business experts during the past few months.

If Grover Cleveland Alexander, the Philadelphia pitcher, has the "rooting" support of all the rest of the ambitious young men who came upon the scene at the psychological moment to be tagged by the name Grover Cleveland—and it is probable they are all "pulling" for him—those Boston athletes might as well come in and surrender at once.

It may also be remarked in passing that those flood prevention petitions are still some thousands of signatures short of the number required to get safety first action against the possibility of further flood damage in Fort Wayne.

THE MORRIS PLAN.

(Indianapolis Times).

The Ft. Wayne Morris Plan company began operating on Oct. 4. It has a fully subscribed capital of $100,000, and is the second anti-loan shark institution of its kind in the state of Indiana. Its officers are Theodore F. Thieme, president; Theodore Wentz and Isidor Lehman, vice president; Clinton R. Willson, treasurer; Edward J. Liudman, secretary-manager. The board of directors includes twenty-six representative business men. This is the twenty-sixth company operating the plan of industrial loans and investments indicated by its title, the twenty-fifth having been in operation at Waterbury, Conn., since Aug. 24.

The Morris plan involves a system of savings and loans for people of small incomes. Under the system the salaried man or woman, the wage earning person may establish a credit by showing a disposition to save systematically, and may get a loan in an emergency at reasonable interest, the money to be repaid in weekly installments in accord with the ability of the borrower to pay. Not only does the Morris plan enable the person who needs money to establish a credit and get the loan at reasonable rates, but it tends to encourage and inculcate thrift and the habit of systematic saving.

For example, where the borrower makes his regular weekly payments in settling his loan, he is likely to form the habit of putting by a regular sum out of his income every week, and he is likely to find he can very easily continue to do this indefinitely. Having paid his loan by saving or by putting aside a certain sum weekly, he learns he can go right on putting aside such an amount every week for a savings account. So, in place of paying interest, he begins to draw interest. This is the logic of the Morris system. It tends surely to thrift and it tends also to do away with extortion such as the poor in past years have suffered at the hands of usurers and so-called loan sharks.

NORTHWEST CANADA DRY.

(Sunset Magazine).

For many years the "wettest" spots across the boundary to the north were located in the Canadian prairie provinces. The consumption of good old Scotch was tremendous; the teetotaler's attude was considered almost indecent. Whisky during the long winter was deemed a necessity. No business transaction was complete until Bacchus had approved it with his "wet" seal.

Alberta went "dry" on July 20 in an election which showed that even the cities were realizing the advantags of enforced sobriety. Saskatchewan closed up all public bars three weeks before the Albertan election.

As Idaho has decided to have a prohibition law so drastic that the mere possession of alcoholic stimulants will be a misdemeanor, there will remain only six "wet" commonwealths west of the Rockies after New Year's. Only in California, British Columbia, Utah, Nevada, Montana and Wyoming will the sale of alcohol continue—for how long?

AS MR. RANDALL SEES IT.

To the Editor of The Sentinel: Without taking part with either side in the present street car controversy, I want to suggest that while I am not opposed to unions of laboring men, I am sure I would not want to operate a street car line with union labor unless the union would assume, with proper guarantee, the risks and responsibilities incident to operating the cars.

The hazards are too great to allow men not interested in property to hire, discipline and discharge the men operating it.

Great care must be used in the selection of men and in educating them to their duty. With the greatest care in selecting men and instructing them to their duties, accidents do happen that cost the owners of the property thousands upon thousands of dollars.

A few years ago two employes of the company, by the most reckless carelessness and an entire disregard of orders, cost the company two hundred thousand dollars and killed nearly two score human beings.

If I were a union man I would not want to take the responsibility of running the cars and selecting the men and educating them and disciplining them.

This work ought to rest wholly on the shoulders of the men who own the lines and are answerable to the public for the accidents to life and property incident to the operation of the cars.

I venture there is not a man among the former employes of the company if he individually owned the city street car line who would permit any outside agency, be it a union or otherwise, to hire the men, educate them to their duties, discipline them and discharge them unless this same agency or union would assume the risks of operating the cars.

Let each man in the city, whether he is a street car employe or a business man or a property owner or a laboring man ask himself this question.

Charles Read wrote a novel some years ago entitled, "Put Yourself in His Place." It was a good title for a novel; it is a good maxim for every day practical life; if men would base their actions upon this proposition there would be less misunderstanding; less acrimony and hate in the world. I believe it is a good thought in our present troubles to try it out; put yourself in the other fellows place and think of the situation from this standpoint. Put aside prejudice and factional feeling and get down to the marrow of the matter by personal questioning—"What would I do if I was the other fellow."

I have heard some of the men say that one reason for their action is that the money invested in the street car lines is foreign money; that the lines are owned by Philadelphia capital.

Should there be any antagonism to Fort Wayne to foreign capital. The railroads that have built Fort Wayne are owned by foreign capital. Would we antagonize them for this reason? But for the railroads Fort Wayne would be but a small village.

The Fort Wayne Electric works, of such great value to our city, is owned and operated wholly by foreign capital. Do we welcome it any the less on this account. A large part of the money in the Wayne Knitting mills is foreign capital. Would you want this great plant reduced by a half? The Serman-White cold storage plant was built by foreign capital. Are we not glad this storage plant is in Fort Wayne.

Would we not be glad to have foreign capital establish an automobile factory here, giving employment to thousands of men?

We have now a proposition for an automobile factory to be located here which if we get it will be built and carried on almost wholly by foreign money. If there is such an antipathy to foreign capital on the part of our laboring men, our negotiation for the automobile factory had better go no further.

I am interested in this controversy only as a Fort Wayne citizen, but a citizen who has always labored for the upbuilding of the city. It has always been my endeavor and the endeavor of those with whom I have worked to get more foreign money into the city.

PLENTY OF GOOD IN THIS OLD WORLD YET

with her own hands, she wanted to convert it into a quiet, comfortable retreat for other old ladies who are facing the sunset (and she doesn't mind being called "old" either).

Mrs. Newberry has lived for 23 years on the 10 acres which she herself cleared. With her own hands she dug holes for the fence-posts. With her own hands she sawed the boards and built the chicken coop. All the work of the little farm she did herself.

She made a profit of $300 a year.

Now the time has come when she is too old to work the farm. She must either sell it or rent it. She had a nebulous plan of founding a Newberry Old Ladies' Home if she couldn't find a buyer.

Peter Peterson was known as "the lunch counter man." He's had dozens of lunch counters in Seattle at one time or another. Once he was well-to-do. Now he's broke.

It isn't Peter Peterson's fault that he is broke. He was trimmed and robbed of most of his fortune. Then sickness swept away the remnant.

Last summer Peterson came out of the city hospital. He had come through a dangerous operation. He couldn't get work during his convalescence. There were times this fall when Peter Peterson and his wife didn't get enough to eat.

The once well-to-do Petersons were reduced to living in two rooms. Today Peterson is well and strong again, but without two jitneys to rub together.

Peterson, who heard about Mrs. Newberry recently, went to Silverdale. Mrs. Newberry was all business. She wanted to rent the farm for $100 a year. Peterson didn't have $100. He didn't have 100 cents. He told Mrs. Newberry so.

Mrs. Newberry puckered her forehead. She thought an dthought. The decision was important. She glanced at Peterson out of the corner of her eye.

Finally she said: "You go back and get your wife and bring her to me."

Peterson did as told.

Mrs. Newberry and the Petersons talked, constrainedly at first. Then Mrs. Newberry, who has a decisive personality, for all her age and tiny stature, said:

"You shall come here. Never mind the money. Do you think you could like me?"

Then Mrs. Peterson began to cry, for a great weight was off her mind, and Mrs. Newberry reached out and patted her hand.

"You shall be my mother," said Mrs. Peterson.

"And you my children," said Mrs. Newberry.

But Mrs. Newberry isn't one to dwell long on sentiment.

"I am glad you are both Scandinavians," she said. "Scandinavians are hard workers. I have been a hard worker all my life. Now listen.

"We will hatch out a batch of 700 chickens in the incubator and sell them for 10 cents apiece when they are a day old. That will be $70. Then we will hatch out two batches, and the $70 will buy food for the pullets until they are old enough to begin laying. Then we will be all right.

A neighbor called, and was introduced to the Petersons.

"You see that side hill?" asked the neighbor. "Nothing but weeds there. Tell you what—you clear it, and I'll plow it for you. Berries'll grow fine there. Then I'll give you a couple of thousand plants—my bushes need thinning out, anyhow—and next year you'll have a crop—not a full crop, but it ought to fetch $200."

"We're going to move right out there," said Peter Peterson. "It's a fine place. I'll make it pay good. You just wait and see!"

Every successful gown and dress shown in the fashion displays this year absolutely demands a corset to set it off.

WARNER'S

Fashionable bust heights run slightly higher than a year ago, but are well gored to support the upper figure without confining it. Skirts are a trifle shorter and the waist line gives indications of a fitted snugness. Yet the garment is comfortable and easy as you wish.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Comedy, "What's In a Day" Was a Feature of Evening's Program.

Over one hundred and fifty ladies attended the rally given Friday evening for the Young Women's Christian association educational classes at the association building. CARRANZA IS CERTAIN TO GET RECOGNITION

Washington, Oct. 9.—Intention of the United States government to recognize the Carranza government, it was considered almost certain here today, would be announced at the end of a fourth pan-American conference on the Mexican situation. Latin-American diplomats were to meet with Secretary of State Lansing late today in what many believed would be their final gathering.

All the Mexican factions have been heard and it was believed all that remained was to decide which presented the strongest claims and offered the best evidence that it could maintain a stable government. Data gathered by the conferees which is said to show that Carranza has attained military supremacy backed by Carranza's guarantee of protection to foreigners and their property, it was believed would be the basis of recognition.

That such action should be taken, it was believed, would be conveyed to the conference by Secretary Lansing. The other Latin-American countries are expected to sanction the plan. The effect of an announcement of an intention to recognize Carranza, it is believed would be to bring opposing elements to his support and remedy present conditions despite official reports showing little improvement in some parts of Mexico.

Invitations have been extended by the members of the Subscription dance committee to attend a benefit bridge to be given next Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Alice Knight. This affair has nothing to do with the annual dance which the committee arranges every winter, but the receipts—and everything even prizes, is donated—go towards a charity fund the committee maintains and which is used specifically to aid individuals whom the members know are worthy. There is the amount of seventy-five dollars in the treasury now but the young women in charge are well aware of the coming need they will have for using it. Each member of the subscription committee is responsible for one table of players, that is the financial part of it. So each guest is asked to pay fifty cents unless a member chooses to consider her merely as a guest. Refreshments will be served at the benefit and there are to be many tables of players. The card game is to begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock. The committee keeps very quiet about its charity work but is doing more and more of it each season.

Gave Beautiful Concert.

Miss Helene Spindler won new praises for her accompaniment as a pianist and Mr. David Baxter gave great pleasure to the audience by his artistic singing at a concert they gave last evening in Elks' hall. Marked progress can be noticed in every recital that Miss Spindler gives and her work this time was further evidence of a maturer technique and a more appreciative understanding and ability to express musically what she is playing. Mr. Baxter is a fine example of a well cultivated and a naturally good voice, and he in no wise falls short in expressive singing and interpretation. Both performers were received with enthusiasm, the program being of a high order and of a brilliant execution and character. Miss Spindler and Mr. Baxter appeared under the auspices of the European School of Music.

BEVERLY BAYNE'S PICTURE HAT.

Whatever the hatter may decree in feminine headwear, he usually includes in his list of new styles a large model of some kind for the girl or woman who looks best in that sort of a chapeau.

This picture shows Beverly Bayne wearing one of her many hats. The crown is constructed of a becoming shade of blue plush and the brim is worked out in a contrasting but harmonizing shade of fawn-covered velvet.

The novelty of this picture creation is the ornament at the side. It is a flower. But instead of being made of the usual materials, it is worked out in Marten fur. The leaves are made of velvet. It can be worn with a walking suit or with a simple afternoon dress.

MISS UP-TO-THE-STYLES ALL DRESSED UP IN NEW FALL FASHIONS.

By Betty Brown.

Behold Little Miss-Up-To-The-Styles in all her autumn finery! Her ribbon turban with its upturned brim of fluted ribbon—the very latest flutter in millinery; her jaunty velvet scarf which is newer than fox fur, or Belgian muffler, and her fur trimmed costume of golden brown, not overlooking those high button boots of bronze.

The coat is a trifle long as are so many of the costume coats that come out of the studio of Mme. Marguerite of the Fashion Art League of America and it has the ripple that stamps it a 1915 autumn model. The skirt, which is shirred from the waist, flares out bravely and swings six inches from the ground, which is a conservative length this fall.

That new brown cloth called "kitten's ear," because it is so soft and smooth, is used to develop this modish frock, and the fur trimming is beaver. The fur tabs on the front of the coat and on the odd shaped pockets give Miss-Up-To-The-Styles the military air which is never accented by well dressed women, but the suggestion of it is never absent from the new frocks.

Miss Josephine Mae Bennett, San Francisco's prize beauty and artist's model, is credited with starting the whimsey.

"I find," she said, "that the use of paint instead of stockings is much cooler and healthier."

BY BETTY BROWN.

In a nation-wide contest, Mme. Marguerite, designer of the prize gowns, was awarded the Nancy Coxe-McCormack silver statue of "Fashion," known as the Gossard trophy, a prize contended for by designers the country over.

Smartness, simplicity and adaptability were the points on which the judges made the award, and even the Manchu simple and smart when worn without gown with its quaint pantalets, is both the embroidered "bloomers."

The evening gown which Mme. Marguerite calls "Inspiration," is a filmy thing of flamme silver lace with panniers of orchid taffeta. The distinctive thing about the gown is the square double train which is cleverly formed by extending the godet panniers to the back of the waist line. Blue birds realistically embroidered on the train adds a striking note of color to the gown.

The Manchu is an afternoon frock in gold colored suede cloth, with a princess waist, in one with skirt of striped gold voile. The coat is cut on Mandarin lines with a Chinese or old blue lining of satin. The pantalets which drop two inches below the skirt, are yellow taffeta banded with blue Chinese embroidery.

Confidence Descends Upon Their Camp After Win in First Stanza.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9—Confidence, stimulated by the fruits of the 3 to 1 victory in the initial struggle for baseball supremacy of the world was apparent in the camp of the Philadelphia Nationals today, and when they entered the second game of the big series it was with a determination to make it two straights. Their worthy opponents, the Boston Americans, although defeated, temporarily at least, were undismayed and were equally determined to even up matters. Weather conditions today were greatly improved and the playing field was in excellent shape. A brilliant sun which shone from a cloudless sky the greater part of yesterday, and a brisk northwesterly breeze that blew throughout the night had combined to dry the rain soaked ground, making possible a fast and snappy contest. The weather man promised continued fair weather for the day and said it might be cooler.

There was considerable speculation before the game as to who the opposing managers would send to the mound. It generally was conceded that the same catchers, Cady for Boston, and Burns for Philadelphia, would be behind the bat, but weather conditions, it was believed, would determine the pitching selections, especially on the part of Moran. Chalmers, the Phillies' big right-hander, was looked upon as the most likely candidate in case of warm weather, but if, as the weather man predicts, there is a perceptible change, the duties may devolve upon Mayer or Rixey. For the Red Sox either Foster or Leonard will probably do the twirling. The Phillies have one game to their credit and what little betting there is on the series still favors the Bostonians. Very few wagers have been placed and those that have been made were for the most part small amounts. There seems to be plenty of Boston money but the would-be bettors are reluctant to give the odds of 3 to 2 and 5 to 3 demanded by the Philadelphia backers. Several wagers were laid at these figures on the result of today's game. The presence of President Wilson today, who was to throw out the first ball, increased the demand for admittance. The gates had scarcely closed yesterday afternoon before the enthusiastic bleacherites began to form in line for the dreary all night wait for an opportunity to obtain first row seats today. By midnight the line had grown to several hundred and at 10 a. m. when the gates were opened it extended for blocks.

Judging from the number of vacant seats at yesterday's game the ticket speculators did not reap the golden harvest they had anticipated. It was estimated that approximately 300 seats in the grandstand were without occupants. The national commission, the governing body of organized baseball, has started an investigation to determine the sources of the tickets which have fallen into the hands of speculators. Men who are found to have broken faith with the commission by selling their tickets to speculators will be barred in the future, according to August Herrmann, the chairman.

Manager Carrigan, of the Red Sox, gave most of the credit for the Phillies' victory yesterday to Alexander, although it was freely admitted by the victors as well as by their followers that "breaks" played a big part in the result. "Alexander won his game," said Carrigan; "give him full credit and don't let anyone take it away from him. He pitched a splendid game, but so did Shore. I am satisfied with my team. They did the best they could against grand pitching. We are going to try harder today."

Pat Moran, manager of the Phillies, as usual, had little comment, but declared that his team looked better now than ever before. "Breaks count a lot in baseball," he said, "and we got the breaks yesterday. We look better now than ever before and with the first game on ice we have a very good chance to win the world's title."

Some disappointment in the failure of Cravath and others of the Philadelphia sluggers to connect with Shore's offerings was expressed by the followers of the National league champions. Five hits, the only one of which was driven outside the diamond being a Texas leaguer, was the sum total of the Phillies. Local fans generally agreed that Moran's men would have to do better work with the stick, provided, of course, that their opponents uphold the hitting reputation they made in winning the championship of their league, if they wish to annex the world's title.

Notwithstanding that the mighty Alexander was able to keep the Red Sox hits scattered, the fact that they gathered one clean hit in every inning but the ninth for a total of eight was not lost sight of in the reckoning of the remaining games. Regardless of who Moran selects to pitch today or in succeeding games it was figured that he would have no easy road to travel.

"Make 'em hit where the fielders are," is the working scheme of Grover Alexander, the big figure of the world series. His idea is different from that of Walter Johnson, who was the world's greatest pitcher before Alec came through. Johnson says: "Pitch 'em where their bats ain't." He proved this in his first game of the series yesterday.

Alec lets batters hit while Johnson tries to keep them from hitting. The only time Alec tries to strike out a batter is in a tight pinch.

When a right field hitter is at the plate Alec switches his fielders toward right, then pitches on the right field side of the plate so the batter will have to hit the ball in that direction. He can do this because he has remarkable control.

Also, Alec can afford to let batters hit because he has so much "stuff" on the ball it is hard for them to "get hold" of it. He never gives a batter exactly the kind of ball the batter likes, but tries to make him hit something else—a bad one if possible.

There was a time when Alexander was not regarded good enough for trial even with a fast minor league club. He was signed by Indianapolis for 1910, but the club had other pitchers who promised better and Alec was shifted to Syracuse without a chance to show his goods in the Hoosier city.

Alec won 29 games and lost 14 with Syracuse, and was drafted by the Phils. Pat Moran, then coach of Phil pitchers, took hold of the youngster in 1911 and developed him into a sensation. He won eight of his first ten games. He won twenty more games before the season was over.

Alexander was a second baseman on kid teams around St. Paul, Neb., his home. One day his team was beaten 12 to 3 when an enthusiastic fan bet $1 to $16 that Alec's team would win and offered Alec $5 if he would make the bet good.

Alec induced the captain to let him shift over to the boy from second base. That was in the sixth. The big boy did not give his opponents a run while his team pulled a couple of rallies and landed the game 13 to 12.

His first real baseball job for money was with Central City, Neb. He got $18 a week, pitching two games a week. In 1909 he signed with Galesburg, Ill., for $100 a month, won fifteen of twenty-three games, and was secured by Indianapolis.

WHAT WOULD BE IDEAL WORLD SERIES?

The perfect and ideal baseball series is described in the November Baseball magazine just out. In this special world's series number of that publication it is maintained that the world's series is not the ideal series—and is not the last word for baseball supremacy. A series made up of the stars of the American league playing the stars of the National league in July annually is offered as the grand opera of baseball—the realization of the fan's dream. We quote here a few extracts from the article mentioned.

The present world's series is a meeting between the two greatest clubs more in theory than in fact. To be sure, they are the greatest clubs which exist as such but from the league at large players might be chosen who would strengthen either winner. The public feels instinctively that it is not witnessing the best possible baseball in seeing these two clubs perform. This feeling finds expression in the great proclivity among the fans for selecting all-star teams, teams made up of players throughout the league who are the best, the very best at their positions.

Suppose that through some medium, easily determined upon, some vote of experts, the best players in the league at every position should be gathered together on one team. Suppose the best players in the rival league should also be gathered together. Could not the public then feel that here at last was the ultimate dream of the baseball fan, the grand opera of the major leagues? In the personnel of such a team the human craving for the best in baseball which now finds so imperfect expression in the world's series would then attain its realization.

Such a contest, the real grand opera of baseball, might readily be staged in midseason, where it would serve not only as the grand scenic display of the year, but stimulate greater interest in the pennant race.

Owing to the prohibition of the sale of vodka and all kinds of strong drink, the savings of the Russian people during the first four months of this year increased by $84,000,000.

U. S. BACKFIELD GENERAL TO BE STAR KICKER AGAIN.

Jack Elmore, star kicker in this year's football clan of southern California, is one of several fullbacks being rounded into shape by Coach Ralph Glaze, of the University of Southern California.

Contrary to general practice, Glaze is planning to have at least three complete back fields this year, due to the multiplicity of likely 'varsity candidates. And Elmore, one of the most adept with his feet, is certain of an important place. He was fullback in last year's U. S. C. squad, and is showing even more pep this season.

PASSENGERS HURT AS TRAINS COLLIDE

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 9.—The New Orleans-New York limited of the Southern railway, bound north, was in head-on collision with a south bound local passenger train early today near Arrington, Va. No passengers on the limited were injured but a baggagemaster was seriously hurt.

Several passengers, most of them negroes, on the local, were hurt, none of them fatally. The wreck tore up the tracks and knocked down telegraph wires. It was at first reported that several passengers on the limited had been hurt and doctors were dispatched to the scene.

WILL BE INVESTIGATED.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Steps were taken by H. W. Belknap, chief of the division of safety of the inter-state commerce commission, to ascertain the cause of the wreck on the Southern railway. As soon as informed of the accident, Mr. Belknap said two inspectors would go to the scene of the wreck to investigate it. Mr. Belknap himself may go.

WHEAT MAKES RAISE OF 2 CENTS IN PRICE

Following the big jump upward of prices on wheat per bushel in the large trading centers, one miller of the city raised his paying price 2 cents on a bushel and offered $1.04 for the grain. The other two grain dealers kept their prices at $1.02. Although there was a big harvest of wheat this fall, many farmers report that a large amount of the grain spoiled after it was put in the bins.

Eight loads of hay appeared on the streets Saturday morning, of which number two loads were clover, and brought $8 to $10 a ton. The other six loads were timothy and mixed hay and sold for $14 and $15. Oats made a jump upward in price and as high as 38c was offered for it today. Six loads were weighed at the scales. One load of corn was the extent of the receipts in this grain.

Farmers of Allen county are nearly finished sowing their wheat and are now busily engaged cutting the corn. The continuous rains that prevailed this summer that were accompanied by heavy winds, beat the stalks so that it is impossible to cut it with a horse and all of it will have to be cut by hand.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Wheat took a decided upward swing today, influenced by a falling off in receipts northwest and by complaints that serious damage had been done to the spring crop. The opening, which ranged from ¼@⅜c to 1@1⅛c higher, with December at $1.02¼ to $1.02⅞, and May at $1.03 to $1.03¾, was followed by moderate additional upturns.

The close was unsettled at ¼@¾c to ¼c net advance, with December at $1.02¼ and May at $1.02⅞@1.03.

The finish was nervous at a range varying from ⅛c off to ⅜c up compared with yesterday's close.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 9.—The commanding position taken yesterday by railways was increased today, activity in those issues overshadowing recent speculation in war stocks and similar specialties. Some of the latter were under pressure though in no important issue were they more than fractional. Reading, yesterday's strongest feature, held back at first, presumably on profit taking, but forged ahead later, as did U. S. Steel, which equalled its best price of recent years, at 81½. The closing was strong. Bonds were strong.

Railways again took first place at the outset of today's operations, with gains of a point or better for the Harrimans, Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison, Pennsylvania and New Haven. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific opened with sales of 1,200 shares each, but initial transactions elsewhere were on a moderate scale. Among the specialties Bethlehem Steel rose five to 445 and Baldwin Locomotive 1½ to 116½. American Steel Foundry, Colorado Fuel, Crucible Steel and American Coal products advanced one to three, but some of these issues soon reacted.

By J. H. Duckworth.

New York, Oct. 7.—"The Zeppelin is a species of scarecrow. Count Zeppelin is a sort of bogy man—a Black Douglas!"

Thus did Hudson Maxim, high explosive and aeronautical expert on the recently appointed United States naval advisory board, pooh-pooh the latest activities of the German airships. I asked the famous inventor how he would fight the monster dirigible balloons.

"If I were a Londoner," said Maxim, "and had government backing, I would fight the Zeppelins in the following manner:

"I would have a circle of captive balloons around the entire city to serve as signal-stations. These balloons would be adapted to be raised to any desired altitude and lowered at will. I would have each balloon armed with a machine gun and two or three men.

"I would also have a platform on the top of each balloon with an aeroplane ready for flight.

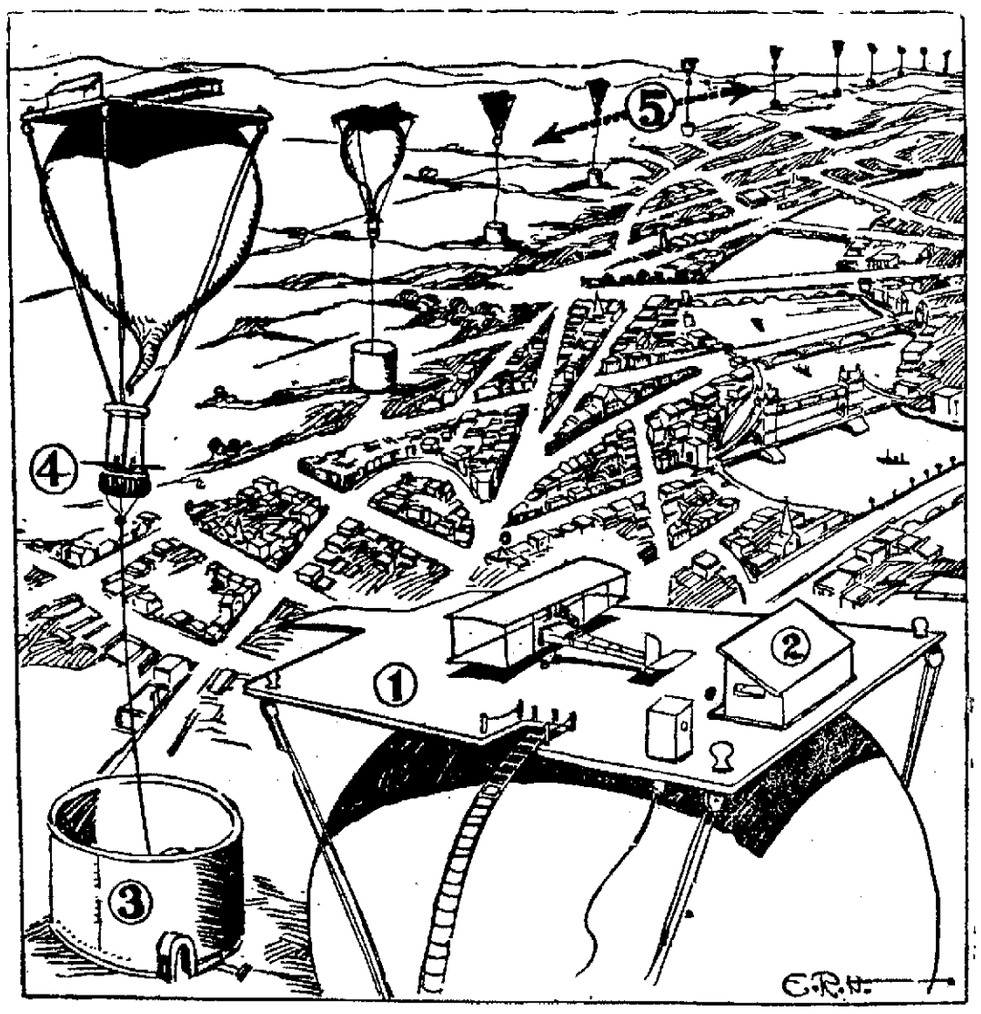
The balloons need not be raised to the desired altitude except on the signal of danger. Consequently, they would not be up in the region of intense cold, and it would be only necessary to raise them into the region of cold when ready to do business.

"The Zeppelins, in order to attack London, would either have to fly between, or over, or below this circle of balloons, and could not fail of being seen or heard, because at a considerable altitude above the city the least sound can be heard at a great distance. A Zeppelin could be heard coming long before it came within gun-fire.

"Each balloon would be connected by telephone or wireless telegraph with all other balloons, and with the earth, and at once, as soon as a Zeppelin was sighted, the aviators in the basket of each balloon would climb upon their respective aeroplanes, launch the aeroplane—and away after the Zeppelins.

"Of course, the altitude of the Zeppelin would be determined first, and the balloons would be immediately raised to the height occupied by the Zeppelin or Zeppelins, so that the aeroplanes would not have to climb any after starting for the attack.

"In case of a high wind, the balloons could be lowered into a big cylindrical shed; in other words, drawn down like a jack-in-the-box on the ground."



London would look like this if Hudson Maxim had his way. The figure show—(1) Landing stage from which aeroplanes are launched at the aerial foe; (2) shed for telephone and telegraph system to the ground and to other balloons; (3) tank into which balloon can be drawn in stormy weather when it is impossible to operate Zeppelins; (4) basket containing machine guns for defense against enemy approaching either by ground or air; (5) chain of balloons surrounding the city and forming a cordon through which no foe could approach without a battle.

"Are the Zeppelins going to end the war?" was the next question I fired at Maxim.

"No, indeed. I would say, rather, that the war is going to end the Zeppelins."

"If a hundred Zeppelins were to visit London each day, and kill a thousand persons, the loss would be less than the birth rate.

"Well, then, are aeroplanes going to be the deciding factor in the war?" was my final query.

Maxim shook his shaggy white head, and answered:

Former Actress Says She Is Widow of Lafayette Sportsman.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—Notice was served on Joseph B. Ross, executor of the will of Frank G. Ray, that Jessie Hedrick Ray intends to claim a widow's share of the estate. The will made no mention of the wife and it was not known here that the claimant had been married to Ray. According to her notice, however, she and Ray were husband and wife, and she makes affidavit that she is Ray's widow. Jones, Hammond & Jones, of Indianapolis, are her attorneys.

Ray was a wealthy young sportsman, the son of Elias Ray, a millionaire farmer, who killed one of his workmen and on the day he was to have been put on trial for murder he committed suicide.

Fort Wayne has come face to face with a problem that has grown with it as a city. This problem is disease prevention. Little white dues have been drawn on the street corners, to keep the deer peepul from under the clanging hooves of charging truck horses. The board of safety has ruined the burlesque business by pulling off the boss attraction, to keep the same and aforesaid deer peepul in a state of good morals. The railroads have appointed Safety First committees that have meetings and eat at the best hotels at company expense, to keep the employes from the varied dangers of the rail.

But with all these safeguards thrown about the populace the latter has been exceedingly lax in disease prevention. But this does not apply to Fort Wayne alone, for Fort Wayne stands well in the lead in the work, but it applies to the country as a whole. The entire nation has spent so much time fighting cattle plagues and insisting on steamship inspection, that it has allowed the matter of disease prevention among human beings to come very slowly, with only a few interested workers in each community.

Disease Prevention and Housing.

Disease prevention and the housing problem trot in double harness. To remedy bad housing conditions in a town is to remedy breeders of disease. For with perfect housing, disease in many forms would have so hard a struggle that it would be eliminated.

Housing conditions in Fort Wayne are mighty good, compared to those in some cities. This city is far to the front in the matter of home owning and home sanitation, but it still has a lot to learn.

Have We Slums?

The proud Fort Waynite is likely to take his guest over the streets where we have ornamental lighting, and placing a hand upon his expanded chest, explain that "we have no slums in Fort Wayne." But, hold on a minute, old fellow. What makes you think we haven't any slums? Maybe you haven't seen them, and maybe there aren't great rows of bleak tenements with fire escapes and the odor of garlic. But scattered throughout the city are little spots, plague spots they might be termed by one rash enough to call down the ire of the community. But they're here, and they have been here for years.

The accompanying pictures were made yesterday in Fort Wayne. Two of them show well kept places, the others were made in spots that shame the city. Yes, we may not have slums, but we sure have some husky little slumlets.

There are probably a dozen such places scattered throughout the length and breadth of the town. No, it wouldn't do to be too specific as to their location, but you can find them if you're anything of an explorer and really want to look them up.

One of them was the shanty town ordered down by the board of works. This is a row of shacks along new Grand street, east of Hoagland. Those neighbors who do keep their property in good condition have almost given up trying to get the owners and the renters of other nearby property to clean up. The twenty-one shacks are so rickety and filthy that they are a fire as well as a health menace.

Housing and Tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is one of the preventable diseases that has long been allowed to spread with such alarming rapidity that it now is a national menace. It is one of the most contagious diseases, and takes so great a toll of lives in some states that more than two hundred out of ten thousand people die of it each year.

And the spread of tuberculosis could well be stopped by proper living conditions. Improper conditions within a house cause not only the deaths of those who already have contracted tuberculosis, but also the great spread of the disease.

Dr. Hurty, who was laughed at for years and now is famous the world over as the man who saw years ahead of the other members of the medical profession in the matter of disease prevention, says that poor carpenters are one of the greatest assets to the tuberculosis worker. Windows that shrink and clapboards that allow the wind to whistle through them are often the only way fresh air can get into a house.

Open Windows? Never!

There still exists a great prejudice against the open window. You may pass along a Fort Wayne street in even the best neighborhoods any night in the winter, and find many householders fortified against the slightest breath of air that might get in.

Paper stuffing adorns the windows where the sashes have shrunken, and every known method of excluding air has been attempted. This does not refer to the dwelling of the poor man alone, but there are hundreds of prosperous householders who do the same thing.

The accompanying photographs show the good and the bad in Fort Wayne homes. One of them, the upper left, is made in a west end back yard, and shows conditions that make disease almost impossible to exist. The upper right is a back yard, set in between a livery barn and a blacksmith shop, where a man and a woman keep things clean and beautiful in the midst of conditions that are discouraging. The tiny house in the left center and the clothes line view in the bottom right are within 200 feet of this clean and wholesome place.

To Educate Citizens.

Education in regard to the care and prevention of tuberculosis is one of the aims of the Fort Wayne Anti-tuberculosis league, and it is for this campaign of education that a portion of the money made in the sale of red cross seals at Christmas is devoted. The remainder of the fund is used in fighting the plague in other ways.

But housing and home living are the greatest part of this educational campaign. Bad housing is the greatest danger in the spread of tuberculosis, and good housing is the greatest factor in its elimination. Fort Wayne has bad housing conditions as well as good, and the sooner the city awakens and remedies the evil, the sooner the tuberculosis mortality rate will decrease. Twenty-eight per cent. of deaths are due to tuberculosis, and yet less attention is paid to its elimination than there is to the hoof and mouth disease.

The league depends on public subscription, the chief feature of which is the Christmas seal campaign.

Each advanced tuberculosis patient infects an average of ten new patients. Tuberculosis patients cost the city and county and the state an enormous amount of money.

It's a business proposition. Each red cross seal sold goes to the furtherance of the campaign to reduce this great annual public expenditure.

WORLD'S GREATEST LADY TENNIS PLAYERS SOON TO CONTEST TITLE.

Long Beach, Cal., Oct. 9.—November 27 promises to be a red letter day in the calendar of tennis fans of the United States.

On that day, and in this city, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, a Norwegian girl, will attempt to wrest from May Sutton Bundy the women's world tennis championship.

It is the second time in her career that the laurels of May Sutton Bundy have been seriously challenged.

Five years ago it was Hazel Hotchkiss who loomed up on the tennis horizon as a possible vanquisher of the incomparable May.

For years the east has been trying to find some one to beat little Mary Browne. Possible champions have been carefully nursed along year after year only to fall before the little whirlwind.

But this year Molla Bjurstedt came over from Norway and with a nonchalance that was absolutely magnificent banged her way through all opposition to the national and several other titles.

So sweeping was her victory, and so unexpected, that on a moment's notice the east went wild over her, adopted and petted her until she has a following such as no other woman star ever boasted in the reserved east.

Forgetting that Mary Browne had gone through the best the east had to offer in equally thorough style, not only for one year, but for three successive seasons, the eastern critics have immediately heralded the new national champion as a possible winner over Mrs. Bundy.

The clamour for the battle has been tremendous, and Miss Bjurstedt herself has, in public statements, expressed the wish that she might get a chance to pit her strength against that of the one and only May.

When the proposition was put to her, she accepted as quickly as though she expected to beat May in straight sets.

Only those who saw Mrs. Bundy dispose of Mary Browne at Long Beach this summer with the same determined ease with which she polished off the weaker players, can realize what Miss Bjurstedt is up against.

Those who are staging this greatest of tennis attractions are undoubtedly conferring a great favor on the tennis fans of both east and west who want to compare these two great players.

The easterners want to see if Miss Bjurstedt can beat Mrs. Bundy, while the westerns are anxious to see if Miss Bjurstedt will make any better showing against Mrs. Bundy than Mary Browne did.

Two views of May Sutton Bundy, who will again play tennis in effort to defeat famous woman.

TRIES TO HOLD UP GROCER.

Masked Man Attempts Robbery in Lafayette Business District.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—A hold-up in the center of Lafayette's business district was attempted last night when a masked man walked into the Deck & Frasch grocery, across the street from the Hotel Lahr, and, pointing a revolver at Henry Frasch, demanded money and something to eat. Mr. Frasch was kneeling in front of the safe, about to lock it. The stranger held the revolver close to the frightened storekeeper's head and warned him not to say a word or he would shoot him. He grasped the coat collar of the grocer when a noise at the front door caused the man to flee by a rear door. He disappeared in an alley. Frasch was so overcome it was some time before he could telephone the police who searchd all night and day for the man. He could not be found. He wore a mask and Frasch says he believes he is a negro.

New York, Oct. 9.—It is announced that preparations are practically complete for the opening of the National Missionary campaign of the Laymen's Missionary movement along similar lines to that which was carried throughout the country a few years ago. The first of the conventions, which are to be held in the leading cities of the country, will be in Chicago, beginning October 14. In all there will be seventy-five big conventions throughout the country, culminating in a national missionary congress in Washington next April. The home and foreign missionary agencies of the United States are cooperating in the campaign, and some of them are throwing the entire strength of their organization into it to the exclusion of other forms of missionary inspiration and education for the next year.

Within the past two weeks special conferences have been held for the organization and training of men who are to take part in the campaign. The Methodists met at Ocean Grove, N. J., the Congregationalists at Chicago and the Presbyterians at Atlantic City. From forty to seventy men were in attendance at each conference.

The Methodist church is making special effort to conserve the results that will accrue from the results of the campaign. A number of bishops will give most of their time to the work and a number of able missionary leaders have been recalled from foreign lands. These with home missionaries, will make a staff of more than fifty Methodists in the campaign who will have the cooperation of thousands of pastors in the territory of the convention cities.

The Presbyterians, as well as the Methodists, will send agents to each convention city in advance of the convention to see that the denomination is well represented by delegates. The Presbyterian plans are in charge of Secretary David McConaughy, in New York, and Dr. W. A. Marquis, in Chicago.

Most of the foreign missionaries of the Episcopal church who are on furlough will be organized for work in preparation for the campaign. John W. Wood, secretary of the board of missions, is organizing the Episcopal forces. Representatives of the church will also visit each convention city some days or weeks prior to the convention for the purpose of bringing out the full strength of the Episcopalians. Bishop Kinsolving, of Brazil, is returning to the United States to be a speaker, and in addition to other bishops and clergy, many foreign missionaries are being recalled.

A committee of secretaries of congregational missionary societies of which Dr. Reuben L. Breed is chairman, is planning the largest possible co-operation in at least forty of the chief convention centers where Congregationalism is strongest. The committee's aim is to put at least 20,000 Congregational delegates into forty or more conventions.

The Northern Baptist convention at Los Angeles last May endorsed the National Missionary campaign and turned over to Dr. John M. Moore, secretary of one of its important committees, the formation of plans for cooperation. Under Dr. Moore's direction a special force of missionaries and secretaries is being organized for three or four weeks of preparatory and follow-up work in connection with each convention.

Disciples, United Brethren, Lutherans, United Presbyterians, the two branches of the Reformed church, the Southern Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterians and other denominations are also making the most careful and thorough preperations for co-operation.

BALLINGER WINS THE FIRST PRIZE

T. W. Demarest, Otto Schroll, B. H. Hudson, O. C. Wright, Guy Scott, R. G. Jones, Harvey Hall and J. F. Birthwhistle, who composed Fort Wayne's representation in the annual inspection party on the trip over the lines west of Pittsburg which closed at Pittsburg last night, returned home this morning and are unanimous in the statement that the four days' trip was one of the best they ever made. The weather conditions were ideal and nothing happened to interrupt the movement of the trains, the business of the men they carried nor the pleasure of the trip. Interest now centers in the award of the $1,500 prizes for the best roadbed and other features connected with maintenance-of-way work. Only one award was decided upon, there being so much figuring connected with the work of rendering the decisions that it will be several days before the complete announcement is made. The first prize, $200, for sub-division, went to W. L. Ballinger, supervior of the Indianapalis division. The second also went to that division. Bradford carried off the first and Indianapolis the second. Fort Wayne came in for third. The other prizes to be announced later are $100 to the track foreman having the best section; $150 to supervisor having best subdivision based on all points and $50 to the section foreman having the best section.

GAVE $5,400 IN PRIZES.

Pennsylvania Railroad Awards Men For Good Track Work.

Fifty-four hundred dollars as prizes for maintaing sections of track in the best condition during the past year were awarded Tuesday by the Pennsylvania railroad to supervisors and assistant supervisors.

The first prize, amounting to $800 for the supervisor and $400 for the assistant, for best section of track, was presented to C. Z. Moore, supervisor, and L. R. Fleming, assistant supervisor, who have charge of the track between Dillerville, Pa., and Harrisburg. The other prizes were as follows:

Four premiums of $800, of which $600 was for the supervisor and $200 for the assistant; for the best line and surface on a main line superintendent's division between Jersey City and Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and Washington:

C. M. Wisman, supervisor, H. M. Grimm, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between Tullytown, Pa., and Dean, N. J.

W. T. Hanly, supervisor, J. B. Baker, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between Marysville, Pa., and Thompsontown, Pa.

R. H. Pinkham, supervisor, F. X. Bradley, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between New Florence and Donohoe, Pa.

G. H. B. English, supervisor, C. M. Hursh, assistant supervisor, in charge of track between Wilmington, Del., and Perryville, Md.

A special "improvement" premium of $1,000, $700 to the supervisor, and $300 to the assistant, for the greatest improvement made in the line and surface of a supervisor's section of track, was awarded to W. G. Shaner, supervisor, and T. K. Minsker, assistant supervisor, who have charge of the track from Baltimore to Springfield, Md.

These awards were made upon the basis of frequent inspections during the past year by a special committee. Among the methods used to learn the exact condition of the "line and surface" of the main lines, was to place glasses of water on the sills of windows on each side of the special inspection car at the end of a running train. Every "spill" of water occurring on each supervisor's section was carefully recorded as a demerit. There was also a machine on the floor of the car which recorded the jolts of the train from side to side and up and down. These records formed the basis on which the committee decided the prize awards.

REDS WIN IN CONTEST.

As a result of the contests, the Reds will be the guests of the Whites at a banquet some time soon. The Electro-Technic club now has a membership of over 700.

Blacksmith Samuel Dunbar, of the Pennsylvania shops, is entertaining his father and mother, from Tennessee. Mr. Dunbar escorted his father through the big shops this morning.

Nickel Plate Conductor A. E. Urbahns reported for duty this morning. He had been laying off to entertain his brothers, Will and Emil Urbahns, of Chicago and Fon du Lac.

Daniel Petgen, foreman of the Pennsylvania tin and pipe department, celebrated his birthday today by working as usual. The number of the anniversary could not be learned on account of the modesty of Mr. Petgen.

Engineer and Mrs. M. R. Snyder have returned from Findlay, Ohio, where they attended the funeral of her mother a few days ago. Mr. Snyder reported for work on the Nickel Plate this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander, of Conway, are here to spend a few days with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Graham, of East Lewis street. Mr. Alexander is the chief engineer of the Pennsylvania power plant at Conway.

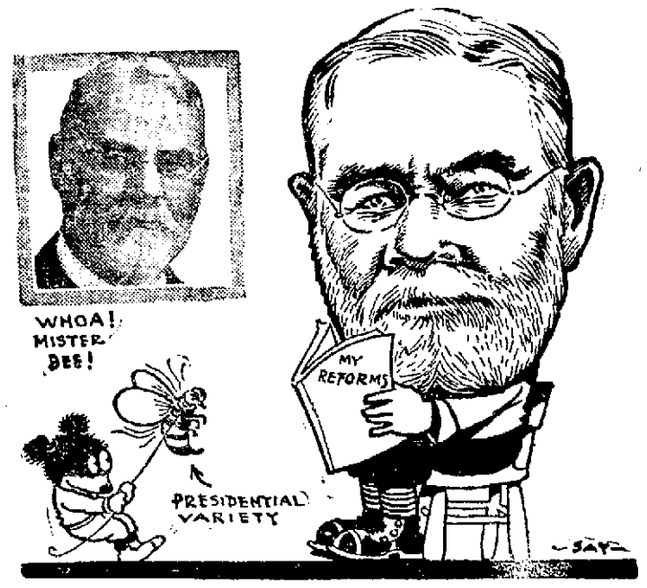
(Another of the republican dark horses is James R. Mann, of Illinois. Here's the way our political expert sizes him up.—Editor).



On the theory that in politics all things are possible, James R. Mann, of Illinois, is a republican presidential possibility. He is in that large class which follows Root and Burton—the dark horse class. There will be a flock of dark horses at the next republican convention—perhaps it would be better to say there will be a herd of dark horses.

Mann may not be Illinois' favorite son, but Ed Simms, in the Marquette building, Chicago, is carrying on an active little campaign to get the delegation from the sucker state. He is looking for delegates also from some surrounding states, like Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The Mann candidacy is not blowing any loud trumpets or wielding any big bludgeons. Manager Simms is frankly willing to edge in as a second, third or fourth choice. He simply wants to be on hand to be useful in case he is needed.

Simms foresees an open game at the convention; no candidate with enough at the start to win, and much trading necessary to get a majority of delegates. Big candidates are likely to eat one another up. That is the tradition of political conventions. And when Grandpa Root has been eaten up by Burton, and Uncle Burton has been eaten up by Broker Weeks, and Broker Weeks has been eaten up by Log-Cabin Fairbanks, and when Log-Cabin Fairbanks has been eaten up by somebody else then the chance comes for Jim Mann, Borah, Cummins, Sherman and the rest of the black horse herd.

Jim Mann is republican house leader. He has acted as such since the republicans became the minority in the house, and Uncle Joe Cannon was defeated. Even when Cannon was on the job, Mann, by his great industry, vigor and comparative youth and in the need for making friends among the more progressive republican members of the house became the real republican leader.

Since the democrats have been in control, and Underwood, Fitzgerald and Clark have dictated legislation, Mann has led an amiable and perfunctory opposition to this group.

Mann was born on a farm near Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 20, 1856, making him 59 years old. He was graduated from a Chicago law college in 1881, and began practicing law in that suburb on the southern edge of Chicago which later merged into Hyde Park, and still later was gathered into Chicago. He began his political career as a member of the Oakland school board in the village of Hyde Park; then was attorney for the village, and on annexation became alderman for the Thirty-second ward of Chicago. In the city council Mann and "Billy" Kent (now in congress from California), were known as the two "reform" aldermen from the silk-stocking wards of the south side.

Mann became attorney for the South Park board of Chicago in '95 and then by machine nomination was promoted to congress 16 years ago. He has served continuously since then.

Mann was a supporter of Cannon during the latter's long reign. On the other hand, there are spots in Mann's record that make him appear almost like a La Follette. He has taken up certain reform legislation, such as the pure food and drug law and the statute now on the books is largely a result of Wiley, a thing which will always be vastly to his credit. He is the author of the white slave law, a well-intended measure which produces some good, though it has also been a ready instrument for the blackmailer. He aided in the creation of the department of commerce and labor under the vigorous spur of Roosevelt.

These are his principal achievements. None are so radical as to alienate the affections of those bosses who want to nominate Root. Neither are they so radical as to attract the following of Victor Murdock and his group.

WANT BEST EXPERT ON GARBAGE HERE

Council Likely to Reject Contract Made by the Board of Works.

Believing that in order to properly solve Fort Wayne's garbage problem the best expert obtainable should be employed, city council at its meeting Tuesday night may decline to ratify a contract the board of works has made with Engineer Greeley, of Milwaukee, to prepare plans for a new incinerator here. The council special committee on garbage does not favor the contract, it being the belief that Engineer Greeley has nothing to propose except an approval of the plan the board has already made to establish a new crematory at the west end of Huestis avenue. Mr Greeley's services will cost the city about $800, only $400 less than it will cost to procure the services of Irwin S. Osborn, of Cleveland, who is recognized as the foremost garbage disposal engineer in the country, and who has offered to make a complete garbage survey of the city, furnish plans for a crematory, select the most advantageous location and provide specifications for the most modern system of collection. The councilmen do not think it worth while to spend $800 to get an engineer merely to approve what the board proposes to do and that if no more is to be required the money had better be saved.

MAYOR'S VETO MESSAGE.

Enlightens Council on Disapproval of Strike-Breakers' Ordinance.

In his message vetoing the ordinance passed at the last session of the city council aiming at the employment of strike-breakers on the city street car lines, Mayor W. J. Hosey explains why he has disapproved the measure. He says that the ordinance will not only be worthless by the time it can become effective, so far as its primary purpose is concerned, but is an unfair discrimination against the traction company as well as being calculated to interfere with the restoration of effective street car service, which is the thing the administration has been seeking to do. The council is not expected to carry the measure over the veto. The ordinance provides that men in charge of city cars shall have had fourteen days' experience on the local lines. The text of the mayor's message follows:

Mayor Hosey indicated several days ago that he would disapprove the ordinance for the passage of which the rules were suspended at the last meeting of the council.

"To the Common Council:

"Gentlemen—I have not approved general ordinance No. 718, which would regulate the employment of conductors and motormen on all street cars in the city of Fort Wayne, for the following reasons:

"This ordinance would prohibit the operation of cars upon the streets of Fort Wayne unless both motormen and conductors have had fourteen days' experience in operating cars on the streets of this city, or unless such motorman and conductors are both accompanied by persons who have had such experience.

"The passage of this ordinance by the council at a single session under a suspension of rules that govern the passage of all ordinances was no doubt due to a desire on its part to relieve and remedy the unfortunate condition of affairs that immediately followed and resulted from the suspension of street car service on the morning of Sept. 25.

"These regretable conditions may be briefly summarized as follows: Sudden stoppage of street car traffic, causing considerable hardship and inconvenience to the public owing to inability to travel to and from homes and places of employment and business by the usual means of transportation; the lack of continued employment by considerable numbers of law-abiding, home-owning, taxpaying, competent and in every way worthy citizens who have heretofore been operating the street cars in our city; the bringing into our city from abroad numerous persons to act as strike-breakers, or substitutes for the men previously operating cars, and who have no interest in our city except their present employment, and who are without experience in operating cars over the streets of Fort Wayne—which has resulted in numerous derailments of cars at curves and switches, collisions with vehicles, failure to give or observe proper signals for the regulation of traffic and the safety of our citizens traveling the streets; also the general disruption of mercantile and other lines of business.

"Any sincere effort to end this situation is worthy of support, but I cannot see that the enforcement of this ordinance would in the slightest degree tend to accomplish this purpose. On the contrary, I believe it would tend to widen the breach now existing between the company and its car men and intensify the tension between the company and the public.

"As for the main purpose sought to be accomplished, that is the prohibition of any inexperienced men running the street cars, it would likewise fail, for your honorable body must certainly realize that the brief period of probation—fourteen days—would be sufficient to legalize and validate the continued employment of every strike-breaker.

"For the above reasons I have not approved the ordinance and hope you will find in them justification for my action and trust that the decision will meet with your approval.

"WILLIAM HOSEY,
"Mayor of Fort Wayne."

WILL CONFIRM CONTRACTS.

At the meeting of the park board Monday afternoon, that body will approve contracts signed for sidewalks, curbs and gutters on Rudisill avenue, west of Calhoun street, and east of Calhoun from that thoroughfare to Piqua avenue, and for the opening and grading of Rudisill, from Bowser avenue to Anthony boulevard and opening and grading Anthony from Rudisill to Pontiac street. The board has readvertised for bids for paving Rudisill boulevard, from Calhoun to Broadway, and will receive proposals for the work October 18.

SIELING CLEANS UP ON A CORNER GANG

Young Man Uses Fists to Resent Insults Given His Wife.

Barney Sieling, a young veteran of the regular army and son of Dick Sieling, the well known grocer on Wayne trace, was tried in the city court, Saturday morning, on one of two affidavits filed against him for assault and came out of the affair with his victory in combat ornamented by another at law. The complaining witnesses were Carl Wiedeman and Henry Bohda, youths residing on Chestnut street and reputed members of a "corner gang" that has been causing annoyance to east end people during the summer. Sieling was tried on the Wiedeman charge. He said he and his wife were passing the corner where the gang holds forth, Friday evening, and that offensive remarks were made to Mrs. Sieling. He stopped to make a protest and finally waded into the pair and gave them a rather undertone chastisement. He said that he and Mrs. Sieling were similarly insulted by the gang several weeks ago and at that time had given the boys warning. Wiedeman admitted that he belonged to the "corner gang." Chief of Police Lenz testified that he received a number of complaints about this gang and had repeatedly sent a motorcycle officer to investigate, but that the boys would always disperse before the officer arrived. Judge Kerr gave the boys a severe lecture and gave Sieling a practical acquittal by an indefinite continuance. The general opinion about the court room was that Sieling had rendered a public service of some value.

Young Thief is Bound Over.

Frank Boomer, who stole a diamond ring worth $75 and a valuable gold watch from the home of Fred Schlup, eight miles southwest of the city on the Huntington road, Friday morning, and was arrested a few hours later by Detective Sergeant Immel while trying to pawn the ring in a Main street shop, pleaded guilty Saturday morning in the city court to a charge of grand larceny and was certified to the circuit court under $1,000 bond. Boomer, who claims to be a circus performer and says his home is in Muncie, had been given hospitality for the night at the Schlup home and stole the watch and ring just before he left Friday morning.

Own Story Made Him Laugh.

When John Augustus, 715 Clay street, heard the police testimony that on Friday night when arrested he had lifted a dolorous wail about having been assaulted and robbed of $60, he let himself go and laughed a deep and tickled laugh. When he took the stand and was asked if he had been robbed of $60, he curled up in convulsions in his seat and laughed some more and harder. The idea that he had been caught with $60 on him was about the killingest joke turned loose on society for a long time. Otherwise, John Augustus pleaded guilty to having been drunk. He was bleeding copiously from two wounds on his face when he accosted Officer Ward Hall Friday night and started the romance of the robbery. Judge Kerr let him go back to his family.

Auto Thief Goes to Higher Court.

Waiving arraignment on a charge of grand larceny, Melvin Brownell was bound over to the circuit court and went back to jail in default of $1,000. He is the youth who stole the Oakland touring car belonging to Arthur E. Smith, 710 West Berry street, November 21, 1914, kept the car until last summer, abandoned it in South Bend, stole another in that city and was arrested for the theft by the police of Gary. He was brought here when he got a suspended sentence for the South Bend job.

Other City Court Cases.

John Anderson was fined $5 and costs and George Stalder was turned loose after being tried on charges of disorderly conduct. The two had a noisy brawl in the apartments of Stalder's mother, with whom Anderson had been a lodger in the old Bank block.

William Klaehn, residing in the country, was speeding his motorcycle on West Main street as he came down town to keep an appointment with a doctor, Friday evening. He narrowly missed a collision with a police car carrying Officers Kavanaugh, Barr and others of the flying squadron. They arrested him for speeding. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs.

Fred Unger, a drunk who talked loud and profanely to Officer Godfrey, was allowed to go, after pleading guilty.

Emma Lynch, who gulped all her medicine in one dose at the jail, was reported in worse condition than on Friday and did not appear to answer to a drunk charge. She will be heard Tuesday if able to appear.

Edward Tino, an alien chef who dallies too much with his "cooking whiskey," was given a chance to leave town.

John Jones, of Muncie, who had a bloody face when arrested, and John Fry, both drunks, were continued to Monday and locked up for keeping.

Despite the late hour at which the president and members of his family retired last night they were up early today. The president had breakfast at the home of his friend, Col. E. M. House, while Mrs. Galt, with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Bolling and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin, breakfasted together in Mrs. Galt's suite at an uptown hotel.

The president and Mrs. Galt arranged to meet at nine o'clock today and spend the remaining two hours of their stay in the shopping district. Both the president and Mrs. Galt received scores of telegrams of congratulations at breakfast. Many of these were from foreign countries.

When Mrs. Galt arose today she found in her suite a large bouquet of flowers which the president had sent her. She appeared interested in the weather and when she learned that it was clear and cool said she was glad to get out of doors and especially to start for the world's series game.

A Box in the grandstand at the National league park in Philadelphia has been reserved for the president and his party. President Wilson will throw the first ball used in today's game. Immediately after the game the president and his guests will return to Washington in a special train.

The two hours previous to their departure Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Galt, accompanied by her mother, spent in an automobile drive in the crisp sunshine. Their route took them up Riverside drive, through Central park and down Fifth avenue. They were almost everywhere recognized and greeted with cheers or handclapping which kept the president doffing his hat while his bride-to-be acknowledged the greetings with smiles and bows.

An incident which excited the amusement of pedestrians on Riverside drive was the loss of his hat. A gust of wind removed the hat. A secret service man from the car that followed jumped to the rescue, but the hat took a journey of several hundred feet before it was overtaken.

Coming down Fifth avenue the president's car led a procession of nearly fifty automobiles. None was allowed to pass it until it turned off to go to the Pennsylvania station. Mrs. Galt was modishly attired today in a new gown and fur-trimmed hat of black and wore a large bouquet of red roses, a gift from the president.

Here's Mrs. Norman B. Galt as she is today, showing as no other of her pictures shows her striking beauty and her proud stateliness. This picture was rushed direct to The Sentinel from Washington, D. C., by our Washington correspondent, who had been told to get the BEST picture in existence. Other pictures have reached us from various sources, but this is the best we have seen.

This interesting photograph was taken some years ago, while Mr. Galt was still alive, and shows the future mistress of the white house as she appeared while she was the reigning beauty of her select little circle in Washington. At this time she had not taken charge of the jewelry store, the success of which demonstrated in recent years her remarkable business ability.

While walking through the Wabash freight yards Friday evening about 7:50 o'clock, John Tilton, 62 years old, of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, was killed and A. Y. Walton, who lives two miles west of Sycamore, Ohio, was seriously injured when struck by freight engine No. 898. The accident occurred about three hundred feet west of the elevation on Fairfield avenue.

Tilton was still breathing when found, but died on the stretcher as he was being carried into St. Joseph's hospital by Station Master Fred Fry. Driver Gus Bauck and Officer Elmer Young, of the police ambulance crew. Tilton was knocked for some distance, his skull being fractured, left leg broken below the knee and the side of his face terribly crushed.

Walton was able to walk with assistance to Fairfield avenue, and from there was taken to the hospital in Dr. C. F. Knadt's car. He was crushed about the mouth and face and also sustained a bad rupture. He will recover.

Tilton and Walton are farmers and arrived in the city shortly after dark with several car loads of stock from Kansas City, making the entire trip in the stock cars so as to feed and care for the animals. After reaching Fort Wayne they decided to go on to their homes on a passenger over the Pennsylvania and were walking through the freight yards toward the station when Walton, turning around, saw a freight engine approaching but a few feet away. He yelled and jumped to one side, but not quick enough to avoid being struck a glancing blow by the tender. Tilton had not heard the train and was struck before he had any opportunity of saving himself.

Coroner Edward H. Kruse was notified and ordered Tilton's body taken to Wellman's undertaking parlors. Notes to the amount of $13,780.24 and $44.78 in cash were found on him. Both Tilton and Walton were married and have families and have been engaged in the farming and stock business for a number of years. The locomotive was in charge of Engineer Bradberry and Fireman Marlow.

The body was shipped to Upper Sandusky for burial at 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Wellman & Wellman.

ARMED MEN SCOURING HILLS FOR ROBBERS

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Hundreds of armed men scoured the hills of Harrison, Pleasants and Doddridge counties during the night in search of the highwaymen who early yesterday robbed Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 1 at Central station and got away with unsigned bank notes said to have a face value of $500,000.

Every available clue was followed by sheriffs, United States deputy marshals and posses of citizens, but information reaching here this morning was that no real progress had been made. The hunt was taken up again soon after daybreak, in the hope of locating the rifled mail bags or the place where the men had spent the night. Railroad officials were in close touch with the situation, but declared they had no news.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wade Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Sheperd motored to Indianapolis on Saturday, to visit friends over Sunday.

Stock Train Plunges Over 30-Foot Embankment Near Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—The engine, tender and sixteen cars of eastbound Wabash freight train No. 96 jumped the track and plunged over a thirty-foot embankment a half mile east of here at 5 o'clock this morning.

More than 300 sheep and a number of cattle were killed. The train crew escaped injury. Traffic was tied up for several hours.

SELLS CIGARETTES TO LAD AND IS FINED

Mrs. Bessie Ochstein admitted in the city court Saturday morning that she had sold a package of cigarettes to Morris Alston, 8-year-old son of Samuel Alston, 1715 Maumee avenue, and was fined $10 and costs. The principal and the convincing testimony aside from this was given by the little lad himself, who, with some reluctance but with laconic explicitness, detailed the transaction. He admitted that he had "hooked" a dime at home and said he bought the cigarettes without trouble at the grocery store of Abe Ochstein, 2125 Maumee avenue, being served on one occasion by Mrs. Ochstein and on another by her husband. Mr. Alston stated that his wife missed a dime and suspecting her little son of taking it went through his clothing after he had been put to bed and found a pipe, a package of tobacco and a handful of cigarettes. The cigarettes were offered in evidence. Mrs. Ochstein's defense was that the lad said he wanted the cigarettes for his father. Ochstein said he could not recall that he had ever sold the boy cigarettes.

FIND NO TRACE OF HUNGTINGTON ROBBER

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 9.—Police here have failed to obtain a trace of the bandit who Wednesday held up J. C. Collesser, ticket agent of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, in the station here and escaped with $225. The robber threatened the agent with a revolver while employes of a restaurant in the same room were about fifteen feet away. The holdup was in plain view of persons in front of the station. One waiting passenger saw the robber's revolver, but thought a friend was merely showing the agent a new weapon. The bandit sauntered from the station, walked half a square west to the corner of the police station and disappeared.

Plans for Reorganization of Wabash Near Completion.

New York, Oct. 9.—Plans for reorganizing the Wabash railroad, which has been in the hands of the receiver since the winter of 1911, are soon to be perfected, it was announced here yesterday by the reorganization managers, who declared that the full amount of new capital under the reorganization plan, $27,720,000, has been pledged. The announcement further said that the first refunding and extension bondholders, by paying in practically all of the assessment, become the virtual owners of the reorganized road.

Famous English Actor-Knight Arrives In New York For Farewell

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson arrived in New York this morning (Oct. 7) on the steamship New York to make his final tour of America. Forbes-Robertson, who has already said his farewell to London and New York and many of the leading American cities, will this season appear in only those places to which he has not already said farewell. His tour opens at Richmond, Va., on Oct. 11 and includes the principal southern and western cities. He is accompanied by Miss Laura Cowie, the twenty-three-year-old leading woman who won such a decided and sensational success wherever she appeared with Forbes-Robertson last season. His entire London company of fifty people arrived on the same boat. He has also brought his complete productions, including his new setting for "Hamlet," which is to be given with curtains. "Hamlet," "The Light That Failed" and "Passing of the Third Floor Back" will comprise his repertoire. He will travel in his private car.

"I am glad to be back in America," said Sir Johnston to the reporters who met him on the dock. "America has been so kind and generous to me. It is with sadness that I think that this is to be my last visit to America as an actor, but my farewell is real. I shall never act again in any city I have said farewell to. I am undertaking a long tour and, when it is over, will have appeared in every important city in your great country. My wife (Gertrude Elliott) has remained at home with our children, the youngest of whom is hardly a year old."

DISHES THE BOYS LIKE

BOYS should be fed upon food that will give them strength, and yet at the same time mothers must remember that they sometimes like the dainty things as well as little sister does.

In making the rice pudding this week, just for a change and to tickle the palate of the boys try this recipe: Wash well half a pound of dates and stone them. Chop fine and add to the usual plain rice pudding. Dates are nourishing and all boys like them. In making the usual dish of corn starch, which is bound to appear on the table of all growing children once in so often, try this: In place of the usual amount of sugar added to it, sweeten with a cup of maple sirup, and the boys are sure to call for "more."

Banana Croquettes—This is a nourishing dish, easily prepared at a few minutes' notice. Peel and scrape ripe bananas. Cut each one in two pieces and cut off the sharp end, making them look like a croquette. Roll them in chopped nuts of any kind—either peanuts, hickory or walnuts. Lay on a leaf of lettuce and serve with a little French dressing containing a great deal of olive oil. This is a splendid luncheon dish for the hungry schoolboy.

Meat Loaf—Pass through the chopper sufficient cold meat of any kind, veal, beef, chicken or lamb, to make three cupfuls when packed. Season very highly. Add a teaspoonful of celery seed, and some onion juice, and finally half a cup of stale bread crumbs, teaspoon of chopped parsley and two well-beaten eggs. Pack into a loaf and place on a shallow buttered pan. With a wooden skewer make holes along the top of the loaf and insert strips of fat salt pork, allowing the pork to project about half an inch above the surface, and be sure to pack the meat firmly back around it. Bake in a quick oven about three-quarters of an hour, set aside to cool and serve in slices very cold with relishes of pickles or catchup. This makes a splendid and substantial luncheon dish for the boys.

THE STOCKING IS ON WRONG SIDE OUT.

IF SO, YOU WILL BE INTERESTED IN THESE HOUSEHOLD TRADITIONS

IF THE DRESS SKIRT IS ACCIDENTALLY TURNED UP AT THE BOTTOM IT MEANS A DAY FULL OF JOY.

DO YOU THINK THIS IS BIG ENOUGH FOR A MASCOT?

ODDS AND ENDS

AMATEUR dressmakers will find better results if, when pressing seams, tucks, plaits, etc., a newspaper folded several times is placed between the iron and the article to be pressed. The paper lays flatter and firmer than a cloth, which, as every one knows, is apt to wrinkle at times and again the iron seems to slip more evenly, which of course, improves the pressing. The number of thicknesses will, of course, depend upon the heat of the iron and the nature of the fabric to be pressed.

FOR the economical girl who is fond of lingerie waists and who likes much insertion upon them, it is a good idea to re-enforce the lace with a little strip of net. This will not show, and it will undoubtedly prevent the lace from pulling and will prolong the life of the blouse by years, not days. Any good wash net will do, and it may be either sewn on with the lace or it may be afterward sewn on the other side by hand. Badly torn places in lace may frequently be mended with a little net, and the result is exceptionally good.

OLD umbrellas may be recovered to do excellent service for every-day use, or for children's school umbrellas. Remove the old cover and metal cap which held its top edge. A good, smooth satine with a dull finish is good material. Use one of the sections of old covering for a prattern. Lay it always with the outer edge on the selvage and cut as many as required. Sew together in French seam—first a tiny one on the right side, then turn in and sew again. Slip cover over the rod and tack strongly at the points of the ribs. Tack the top and replace metal cap. Tack seams at the middle of ribs also.

MANY housekeepers who like whipped cream as an accompaniment for broths, chocolate or desserts think they must order cream of a special richness. This generally must be done the day before and always cost double the price of ordinary cream. One young woman discovered last winter a way of easily making her daily supply of cream whip. She merely added a teaspoonful of granulated sugar to every pint, had it ice cold and quickly whipped it to a thick froth in the churn. A special whipped cream churn is, by the way, an investment that pays for every housekeeper. The old method of using a fork and skimming off froth as it comes to the surface is a waste of time that the modern woman cannot afford.

A FETCHING new automobile bonnet is poke shape, flaring slightly around the face and lined with soft shirred silk. At one side is a huge cockade of chiffon cloth the color of the veil, with a gilt or silver cabuchon in the center. Two veils, one dark, the other light, are draped diagonally across the crown of the bonnet to back of the cockade and brought around to the front where they hook under the chin and fall in straight ends almost to the knees. The cockades head each of these ties, forming a pretty frame to the face. Charming color effects can be had with such a treatment. One bonnet was of khaki colored felt, lined with a paler tone and the veils were dark brown and the shade of facing, with gilt centers to the rosettes. Two or three tones of purple, or dark and light green, or blue would be equally good.

JEWELED daggers for the hair to suit the time of the day will shortly become social necessities, according to jewelers who make "art" ornaments a specialty. Jeweled daggers are not a new fashion, but those that are now being displayed are larger than the ponderous which were worn about forty years ago and are indeed much more formidable-looking weapons. Although only measuring from six to ten inches in length, they could easily be employed as a means of defense in time of trouble. Curl daggers are shown in many designs. The little blade is fitted with a tortoise shell or carved horn handle for morning wear. An enamel hilt decorated in shades to match the gown is very artistic in the afternoon. Red enamel shining among dark braids of peacock blue in fair curls make a charming accessory to a successful toilet. The evening dress daggers can be procured in the most elaborate patterns, and vary in costliness from those with a silver hilt set with rough turquoise, amethyst or pink coral to elaborate designs in gold, inlaid with precious stones.

BOYS often have inflamed eyes from dust. For this provide an eye wash of boracic acid and tepid water, allowing as much of the powder as you can put on the end of a penknife to a half-cup of tepid water. Use an eye cup for bathing the eye. Boys who "simply grow" suffer torture with ingrown toe nails. The natural instinct of the boy is to cut the toe nails, as he does his finger nails, in a semicircle at the top. Teach him to reverse the cutting, making a dip or "v" toward the center of the nail and not cutting down at the corners. It is well also to file the nail a little in the center at the top and always to keep the skin pressed back around the root of the nail. A festered, ingrown nail is just one step from blood poisoning. For cracked lips there is nothing better than good old-fashioned camphor ice, and for chapped hands provide mutton tallow or a good cold cream. The tallow should be slightly warmed before it is applied to the hands. And a pair of father's old gloves drawn over the greased hands at night will expedite recovery and save the bedding.

IF the interest in your missionary society needs what used to be called an "arousement," start a missionary picture gallery. Collect all the pictures you can of countries in which your particular missionaries are working. Any picture representing scenery, custom, prominent persons or any historical incident will serve. Mount them on cardboard. They may be used in various ways. Hang them for view at the next missionary meeting, just as if they were pictures by celebrated painters, and let everybody talk about them or have one person describe all or assign one woman to describe each picture. They may also be used as a traveling gallery, loaning a picture to a child to take home for a week. You may be sure that every member of the family will know something about that picture during its stay in that home. Never throw away a picture which may be turned to account in your mission work. Cut them from the magazines and newspapers with the articles about them and save for the right occasion.

HOW TO KEEP GOOD CLOTHES

BY EDNA EGAN.

A WOMAN who travels a great deal and lives in hotels and boarding houses most of the time, was disclosing her secrets and treasures not long ago. She is particularly smart and well groomed, and she is anything but rich.

"How do you do it?" I demanded.

"Mrs. Blank is a very good friend of mine, and she has given me the most unique and useful presents since I have known her. The first was a small electric iron. Now, most hotels and boarding houses have electricity, and it is easy to heat an electric iron in the privacy of your own room and press your clothes. I used to take out a bureau drawer for all my pressing, turn it upside down, and fold a Turkish towel or bedspread upon the bottom. Of course, one has to be carefudl not to scorch the things utilized. But good results can be obtained in this way.

"Later, Mrs. Blank presented me with a little jointed ironing board that unbent at its hinges, folded up, and could be slipped away in a bright chintz bag that just fitted it. I matched this chintz and made a cover for my iron, like a tea cosey. It was pretty, and hid the iron if I wanted to set it in a bookcase or cabinet.

"The next time I had a birthday, Mrs. Blank brought me a pneumatic dress form! When it is not blown up, it can be folded and laid away with clothes in a trunk. I had a lining made to fit it, and now, as soon as I settle anywhere, I blow it up and put the lining on. Then I can alter and fix any of my clothes; if I buy something ready made and it does not fit perfectly, I can remedy that with a quarter of an hour's work; and the form is invaluable to put a gown over when I come in from a reception or the theater at night. Hanging thus on the form, most of the wrinkles disappear during my sleep."

Many women travel with a wood alcohol iron and find it most satisfactory. Clothes must be frequently pressed if one is to look well, and hotel tailors and laundresses charge high for a simple service.

Nor can any woman of limited means get along without washing out small pieces in traveling or living in resort hotels. A private bathroom is a luxury that few can afford. Wonders may be accomplished in a basin by the use of a bottle of ammonia, soap that may be shaved and whipped into a lather, and an ordinary heavy glass tumbler that may be used as a vacuum washer. Care must be taken not to let the glass strike against the side of the bowl. But it will take out as much dirt and take it out as easily as a regular washer.

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

MANY women foolishly consider that they are not well loved unless the man of their heart shows a certain amount of jealousy. They rather encourage the hideous trait, not realizing that what they once looked upon as a form of flattery may soon turn into a curse.

The jealous man is an impossible person to live with. He is the sort of individual who questions his wife's every word, who wants to pry into all her actions and secret thoughts.

If she has been shopping and is late for dinner he suspects her of taking tea with another man. If she is silent and absent-minded, he accuses her of thinking of some one beside himself. Whenever a friend, if he happens to be of the masculine gender, looks upon her admiringly, the jealous husband, instead of being proud that he has married a woman who commands the attention of others, fusses and fumes, making himself as well as his wife miserable over these slight attentions.

Perfect love is founded upon perfect faith and trust. This is the ideal affection between a man and woman, the sort that lasts through years of trial and many tribulations, the kind that rises supreme above suspicion. Where absolute truth and confidence exists there is no room for the green-eyed monster. It is only where the course of true love ceases to run smoothly or where the affection is an unlawful one that jealousy creeps in to ruin the life of both the man and woman concerned.

Heaven help the man who has tied himself to a jealous woman! Unless he can cure her of the habit in the beginning of their married existence his life will not be worth living. She will pry into his business for no other reason than to ascertain whether he employs a pretty stenographer. She will question him as to his actions every moment he is out of her sight, suspecting that his evenings spent at the club are in reality given over to the society of other women. Often she is jealous even of her own girl friends where her husband is concerned, accusing him of displaying too great an interest in them, when all he had in mind was the showing of polite attention.

"What do you mean by looking so often at Laura?" questioned one irate wife after an evening spent at a game of cards in the home of a friend.

But nothing will appease the fears of a jealous wife, just as it takes nothing to arouse her suspicions.

What any woman can expect to gain by adopting such an attitude is more than the outside observer can hope to guess. All she accomplishes is to make her husband regret the bonds that hold him prisoner, to sigh for the freedom which he gave up so gladly when he married her.

FOR THE NURSERY

For toothache or earache a bag of salt, made hot in the oven and laid against the afflicted side of the face, is a most excellent remedy. If covered with a soft piece of flannel it will retain its heat for a long time.

Teach the small children unselfishness by letting them know their little attentions and gifts are essential to your happiness. If begun early the habit of sharing their pleasures will be formed, and will prove the first step toward planning a pleasure for someone else.

Boil and scrape six medium sized sweet potatoes; mash, adding one large tablespoon butter, one tablespoon light brown sugar, two tablespoons thin cream, or rich milk, one good pinch grated nutmeg, two shakes red pepper. Mold into shape of pineapple; with sharp pointed teaspoon make little depressions around it, and in each put a tiny bit of butter. Place on buttered pan in hot oven. When the butter bits have made light brown specks like the eyes in real pineapples, remove from oven, put green sprig in top, and serve. Individual pineapples are as pretty as can be.

Home-Made Marshmallows.

Delicious home-made marshmallows are made as follows: One package prepared gelatin, four cups granulated sugar, dissolve the sugar in twelve tablespoonfuls cold water and boil until it strings, pour onto the gelatin that has been moistened with sixteen tablespoonfuls cold water and beat vigorously until stiff. Flavor with vanilla and pour on butter tins. Cut into squares when cold, with a heated knife, and turn in powdered sugar mixed with a little cornstarch. Coat these by dipping in melted chocolate, without turning in powdered sugar.

Oatmeal Bread.

Two cups of oatmeal, one-half cup of light brown sugar, one-half cup of New Orleans molasses, two teaspoons salt, on to this put two cups of boiling water. When cool add one compressed yeast dissolved in a little lukewarm water, one cup of seeded raisins (floured), three cups of wheat flour; mix well. Let rise over night. In the morning add just enough wheat flour to collect together; do not make too stiff. Make into two loaves; put in pans. Let rise until light. Bake in moderate oven about forty-five minutes.

Bo-Peeps.

Cut lamb chops thin, trim off fat and bone, dip in melted butter, make rich biscuit dough, roll to a half inch thickness, cut as for biscuit, place chop between two of these, press edges together, brush with white of egg to prevent them from spreading apart; place them in buttered pan, cover and bake fifty minutes in moderate oven. They may be eaten with preserves or jam. Tie the Bo-Peeps separately with bow of oil paper, white or colored, and serve on hot plates. A dish of green peas may also be served with them. They are delicious and appropriate for any luncheon or for a child's party.

Priscilla's Pudding.

One large cup each of stewed pumpkin and stewed tart apples, one-half cup sifted bread crumbs, one-half cup sugar beaten with the yolks of two eggs, one-half cup seeded and chopped raisins, and one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, and ginger; mix all together with one cup of creamy milk and add two tablespoons of brandy if you use it; bake one-half hour in a quick oven and spread with a frosting made of the whites of two eggs, a small cupful powdered sugar, and a few nuts ground fine. This is delicious and will be relished by those who consider pie crust unhygienic.

Roast Ham.

Place a ham skin uppermost in a large pan, cover with water, and soak overnight. In the morning scrape and lay on a white cloth large enough to cover it perfectly, laying it with the skin down. Make a stiff paste of flour and cold water and spread over all the skinless portion, half an inch thick. Bring the cloth up over the whole to keep the paste in place, and sew firmly. Place in a large meat pan, with the skin uppermost, and bake in a moderate oven. Allow not quite twenty minutes per pound for cooking. Put a little water in the pan, and if much fat bakes out turn off and add more water occasionally. When taken from the oven peel off cloth, paste, and skin, stick cloves in the top, and brown slightly.

We have wrote a grate menny grate eddytoriuls in the Bugle during our term, whitch we have spent for moren 20 yrs as edditor, prop., printer, bizness manager, advertising manager, offis boy et cettery, but so far as we can recall we ain't nevver as yet wrote a eddytoriul on that most useful and delishus fruit, the "Cow Punkin."

Strange as it may seem, we ain't nevver happend to have it ockur to us to dash off a eddytoriul for this collum in all them yrs on the "Cow Punkin," and praps we wouldn't nevver of thort to do so at all if it haddent been that only yesterday, as we was on our way down town to the P. O. to git our mail, if there was enny (there wassent), and en root, as we mite say, we was trying to think up some subjeckt to write a eddytoriul about when we happend to stumbel over a cow punkin right at the edge of the sidewalk, whitch had growd on a vine in Widder Skinner's garden, and the vine had crep through the fenct and blossomd and then bore a turrible big punkin whitch we stumbeld over and fell and like to of broke our fool neck. This punkin, belonging to Widder Skinner, is a menace to life and limb, and the Widder ort to pull it and feed it to her cow, but that ain't got nothink to do with a eddytoriul on the "Cow Punkin."

The "Cow Punkin" is planted along about the time corn is planted, and is ushually planted in the cornfield along with the corn. Then when the corn is husked, you'll see the cornfield all cuverd very numerous with big yaller cow punkins of various sizes, some smaller and some as big as a bushel basket.

About the time frost comes, these punkins is all collecktd and hauled into the barn and chopt up with a axe or a corn cutter, and fed in hunks to the cows or cattle. Hogs likes punkins also.

In addishion to beink fine fodder for live stock, the common yaller cow punkin is also turrible good for man as well as beest. Take a reglar cow punkin and take the seeds outen the inside of it and remove the outer skin or peel, and then chop up whats left and bile it soft and tender and ete it with salt and pepper and butter on it, and it'll make your mouth worter. This is cald stewd punkin. Or you kin cut it up into junks and bake it in the stove if you prefer. This is cald baked punkin.

But the way we like our punkin best is in the form of a punkin pie. Eddytorially we are a great hand for punkin pie. We cant jest say offhand how menny punkin pies we would eat if we set out to do it, but we calkilate we could ete about three at one setting. We onct et two without no trubble on a occashion when we happened to go home fer dinner on bake day when our wife had baked two fresh punkin pies, so we set rite down & cleand both of em up without enny effort, and the only reason we diddent ete enny more was becuz we run outen pies.

Threfore let us all take off our hats to the glorious cow punkin, whitch makes life worth living, not only for the dum broot, but also for humans about this time every yr.

Jim Hawkins shot at what he thort was a hen-hawk, setting on his henyard fence tother morning, which proved to be a pullet. Hen is a pretty good shot, but his eyesight is failing and less its close up to him cant tell the differenee twixt a hen-hawk and a hen. Jim had the hen for dinner the next day.

The roads is turrible had hereabouts owing to recent rain—some places the mud is hub deep.

Jasper Tarbell is cutting enough timber offen his farm to build a barn with next spring. Jasp will draw this timber to the Snake Bend saw mill and have it sawed up so as he can begin work on the barn when spring comes. Jasp ain't building a barn before he needs it—his old barn is so rickety that it ain't safe to go into for fear it might fall on a person.

Mrs. Jeremiah Fosdick, who, before she married Jeremiah two years ago, was a widder, having been married and bereaved onct before, ain't got along very well with Jeremiah ever sinct she married him. Bad Eggs

We had occashion to purchase a dozen eggs at Hen Weathersby's store tother day, and was considerable disgusted to find 9 out of 12 too aged and infirm for table use.

This is the worst dozen of eggs we ever brought offen Hen Weatherby—heretofore we have never found more than half of them bad. We desire to say that if Hen Weatherby thinks he can conduct a up-to-date business emporium by selling eggs wich, when opened, will drive you out of house and home, he is mistaken.

We like fresh eggs as well as anybody, but no person with any sense would open any one of them nine bad eggs we got from Hen unless they was out somewhere in a ten-aker field.

CALAMITTY

There was a curious catastrophe occurred in Bingville last Wednesday eve'g about 5 p. m., when Main street was as much crowded with pedestrians as it ever gets crowded, which aint so much.

Lem Quigly, who has a farm over at the foot of Teck's Hill, where he had in about 15 acres of corn which he had cut and left shocked in the field to be hauled to his barn later on, where he expeckts to hold a huskin bee and get all his corn husked for nothin, driv over in his two horse wagon last Tuesday afternoon to bring home a load of punkins from his corn field to be fed to his stock. Well, Lem he put on all the punkins which the wagon would hold with the sideboards on, and this means a good many punkins. They was great big yeller cow punkins, some of 'em nearly a foot thru. When Lem got his wagon loaded up he driv liesurely toward Bingville, arriving at wich he perceeded up the Main street of the town, until he reached a point opposite Bill Hepburn's blacksmith shop, where he stopped his team fer a minit to let the horses rest before starting up the hill from there to his place, wich is at the upper end of town. This hill is quite long and steep, and Lem knowed it would be a good stiff pull up the hill with that big load of punkins on.

Well, the horses dug their toes into the dirt and worried the wagon most up to the top of the hill when a turrible axident happend—the weight of them punkins broke out the tail board of the wagon and every cussed punkin started to roll back down the long hill.

Granny Henderson, who lives nearly at the bottom of the hill, happened to be crossing the road to take home a flat iron wich she had borried from Mrs. Underwood, when she was struck by a big punkin right in the middle of the road, knocked her feet out from under her and settin her down in the dust as you might say, where she set in terror while punkins of all shapes and sizes whized by on each side of her.

Ole Dad Whittleby, who is as deef as a post and cant hear thunder, happened to be out in the middle of the road at the foot of the hill, where he had went to get a good view of the sky, and was standin with his back up the hill trying to figger out what kind of weather we would have in Bingville the next day, when Ame Hillyer, who was walking along the street, seen them punkins comin, and also seen what danger Dad was in, so Ame hollered and yelled and waved his hands and tried to tell Dad, to get outen the road. Dad seen Ame makin moshions, but couldn't hear what Ame said, so Dad puts his hand up to his ear and says, "A little louder, Ame!" Just then a punkin hit Dad right in the small of the back, and must of knocked him about 7 feet. Dad, he jumps up and turns around to see who struck him if anybody, when another punkin hits him a smash in the chest, and over he goes on his back. If Dad had of laid still, the punkins would likely of went over him, but he didn't. Every time he would try to get up a punkin would knock him down agin. After Ame thought the punkins had all run bye, he ran out to help Dad up, when a punkin hit him a belt on the side of the head, and over he went, right on top of Dad. Dad, who was purty mad by this time, seemed to think Ame was responsible for his whole trubble, so he began to hit Ame in the face with his fists.

Miss Amelia Tucker, our reigning sassiety queen, happened to be crossin the street on her way to the P. O., after the mail, when she was hit by a punkin with such violence that it nearly knocked the wind outen her. Amelia screemed and hollered for help, but what use was help to her after she had been struck.

Hank Dewberry had a hound dog struck by a big cow punkin as it was walkin along behind Hank, and the dog seemin to blame Hank for what happend to him, grabbed hold of the calf of his leg and nearly bit a chunk out. This made Hank so mad that he turned and kicked at the dog hard enough to kill it, but missed the dog and struck a tree along the board walk so hard that he thought he had broke his foot right off at the ankle.

These was the principle axidents happend on account of punkins rolling down the hill, although there was many narrer excapes of others. Some of the punkins busted open and scattered their contents from the top to the bottom of the hill. Those whose residences are along the scene of the disaster picked up the punkins and lugged them into their houses for their own private use. Them as was injured talk of bringing damage suits agin Lem for salt and battery. As for Lem, he says that he considers that he has had enough damage did to him already by losing a whole two-horse load of punkins.

Hen Smiley and his wife had a awful fite the other day and talked so loud all the nabors heared 'em. It seems that Mrs. Smiley had been usin Hen's razor to pare her corns with, and Hen resented this.

Sally Hoskins, our poet writer, who has had several of her pieces published, not only in the Bugle, but also in the County Seat paper, informs us that she is at present engaged in writing a poem on "Melankoly Autum," which she thinks is a master piece. We hope to be able to publish Sally's poem in the Bugle at a later date, and if she don't soon hurry autum will be past!

Mrs. Jerushia Perkins says she has put up, so far, 56 jars of jelly, and that she never had better luck with her jelly before, being as it jelld turrible nice.

Jasper Hawkins, one of our most respeckted cittizens, went out huntin tother afternoon with his ole muzzle loader shotgun, thinking that praps he could shoot a rabbit or somethink to make a pot pie of.

Well, Jasp haddent enny moren got into the woods back of Bingville until he found in the mud along the brook what he thort was a rabbit track, so Jasp cocked his gun and snuk quiet up along the brook, expecktin to overtake the rabbit and have it jump up and run enny minnit, but Jasp was all reddy with his finger on the trigger and diddent keer if it did.

Bye and bye somethink jumpt up jest ahead of Jasp, and he tuk quick aim and puld the trigger. There was a deefening report, follerd by a turrible squall and flying fur, and when Widder Skinner's ole tomcat rusht for home as fast as he could rush, then Jasp realized that instid of shootin a rabbit, it was a cat he had shot so he returned home in deep disgust.

As for the cat, it wassent hurt skeercely enny, being as only a cupple of buckshot tuk a patch of skin offen it and made the fur fly.

If you desire to make Jasp so mad that he'll want to fite, jest ast him if he's shot enny tomcats for a pot pie lately.

Mrs. Martha Tucker, last Sunday whilst she was warshing up her dinner dishes, had the awful misfortoon to let one of her best Chiny plates to slip outen her hands, falling to the kitchen floor and breakin into 1000 peeces.

Mrs. Tucker is turrible put out about this, being as she says, it breaks up her set of Chiny and makes it look ridicklus. She says she was a fool to go and use her best Chiny for Sunday dinner last Sunday, ennyhow, being as only her and Jim, her husband, was at home to ete it.

As for Jim, he says Martha ain't been fit to live with sinst she went and broke that plate, being as she's crossern a bear and neerly snaps his head offen his shoulders whenever he asks her a sivil questshion. Jim says he's blamed glad he diddent break the plate.

Pelts! Pelts!! Pelts!!!

The hunting and trapping season has now begin and so I wish to invite all them as hunts and traps in this vicinity and elsewhere that I propose to buy pelts of fur-bearing animals which they ketch, perviding they desire to sell said pelts to me. I have never did this before, but if others can buy pelts and sell them at a profit why can't I? I will pay whatever these pelts is worth to me no matter what that price may be. If you have pelts of the follering, bring them to me and perhaps we can make a dicker—foxes, polekats, coons, minks, weezles, muthrats and other animals too numerous to mentshion. Be careful when you take the pelts offen your polekats because I don't want to be drove outen house and home. If you have any pelts to sell, see me at onct. I will pay cash prices for same.

Yours for pelts,

Wes Woodruff,
Hunter & Trapper.
